AT LONG LAST — Jeannie Johnson, a clerk at Patton's inspects the long-awaited trees which have been planted in their downtown boxes under the direction of the Meriweather Nursery. The trees, Washington hawthornes, will have white blooms in the spring and will produce red-orange berries in the fall. During the autumn season the leaves will be scarlet. In all, 26 trees were planted. Mrs. Martha Reiff heads the Chamber of Commerce tree-planting committee.

Survey shows ground swell against Nixon

Demos eye impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders said today Speaker Carl Albert will turn over all proposals for impeachment of President Nixon to the House Judiciary Committee "for full consideration of whether or not an impeachable offense was committed."

Albert scheduled a news conference for shortly before noon to announce his action.

But leaders emerging from a formal meeting on the procedure, including Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, said Albert told them he wants the impeachable offense inquiry rather than full-scale House impeachment proceedings.

Wright said, however, that impeachment resolutions as well as resolutions urging only an inquiry will be turned over to the Judiciary Committee.

"This is the first necessary step if impeachment proceedings are to ensue," Wright said.

He also said Albert stressed twice during the morning that he wants House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan confirmed as vice president before there is any formal House action on impeachment, should the proceedings go that far.

"He just doesn't want Jerry Ford to be held hostage," Wright said.

Republican leaders also met, and Ford reaffirmed his support for Nixon.

Asked whether he thinks impeachment is likely, Ford said, "It doesn't seem to me that the facts, under the present circumstances, justify such drastic action."

Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, a leading candidate to succeed to the top leadership post if Ford is confirmed as vice president, said, "I don't think the President has done any such act as would call for impeachment."

He said the dismissal and resignation of Justice Department officials did not constitute such acts. Asked whether refusal to comply with the court order to produce the Watergate tapes was such an act, Rhodes said, "I don't think you can say there has been a refusal."

Meanwhile, an Associated Press sampling of sentiment in the House showed that 48 members — most of them Democrats — are willing to at least consider impeachment proceedings against Nixon.

The developments followed Nixon's weekend firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and dismissal of his deputy, William D. Ruckelshaus, when they refused Nixon's order to fire Cox.

Speaker Carl Albert scheduled a news conference for today to announce the decision by Democratic leaders.

Albert and several other House leaders conferred Monday on the crisis over the Watergate tapes. A deputy Democratic whip, Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, said the leaders appeared agreed that an inquiry into impeachment grounds would be preferable at this time to a fullscale impeachment investigation.

* * * *

Wright also said he was sure Albert wants to delay possible formal impeachment proceedings until Congress confirms Gerald R. Ford's nomination as vice president.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, R-Calif., was set to introduce impeachment resolutions today. But House leaders said they would head off any move for an immediate vote on impeachment.

Of the 48 House members The Associated Press sampling showed were willing to consider impeachment proceedings, 34 said they definitely favored an attempt to remove Nixon from office.

Another 22 members said they were undecided on the impeachment issue, and 18 flatly rejected the possibility at this time.

The list of House members who either supported immediate impeachment or said they would consider it was dominated by Democrats.

Twenty-nine Democrats and five Republicans said they supported impeachment. Twelve Democrats and two Republicans said they would consider it.

Nixon lawyers bare compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyers were due in court today with a Watergate tapes compromise the White House hopes will head off demands for his impeachment.

After a holiday weekend that shook the government, the House reconvened with at least two members prepared to file impeachment resolutions and many more saying they are ready to consider such a move.

And U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica also returned ready to hear how the White House will meet his demand for nine presidential tapes. The judge called a meeting for today of both grand juries looking into Watergate.

White House lawyers planned to tell the judge the case was settled out of court. But it was an out-of-court settlement achieved only after the President fired his opponent in the case, special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

That unusual settlement left observers unable to predict how Sirica might react to Nixon's plan to have Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., verify a summary of the Watergate-related portions of the tapes. Under the settlement, Stennis would then give the summary to the judge and the Senate Watergate committee.

Cox had subpoenaed nine tapes from the President and, when Nixon refused to comply, the special prosecutor went to court and got favorable decisions from Sirica and the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Nixon ordered Cox to halt his court efforts to obtain those tapes and any other White House recordings, notes or documents pertaining to presidential conversations.

When Cox refused, Nixon ordered his dismissal and transferred the prosecution force he had headed into the Justice Department.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who had been confirmed by the Senate last May only after promising to appoint Cox special prosecutor and give him broad independence to pursue the investigation, resigned.

When Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Ruckelshaus also refused to fire Cox, he was dismissed.

Robert H. Bork, who had been solicitor general, a job Cox held a decade ago, was named acting attorney general, and he carried out the presidential order to fire Cox.

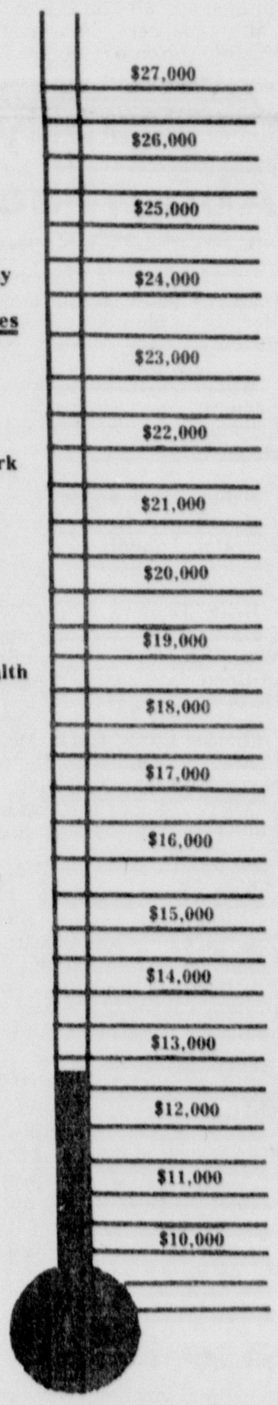

Bork put Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division, in charge of the Watergate investigation and pledged to pursue it vigorously.

He said Petersen "will use the evidence and staff already assembled, as well as other department personnel, to see that these cases are pressed to a conclusion and that justice is done."

Cox's refusal to compromise on the tapes issue received support from Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee. Ervin said, "I would have done exactly like Cox did."

Water emergency confronting Jeff

JEFFERSONVILLE—Residents of this village of around 1,000 people unexpectedly found themselves with only a trickle of water coming from the fawcets Tuesday morning, and the word is being put out for everyone to adopt conservation measures voluntarily.

Just what the problem is, nobody is certain, but the consensus of the Board of Public Affairs is that the well, which provided the water is either running dry or that there may be stoppages in it, reducing the flow. A member of Council said "the pumps all seem to be operating normally, but they are getting only a trickle of water in the mains."

Village officials are hoping experts will come from Dayton Wednesday morning either to correct the situation or determine the cause.

Meanwhile, village officials are trying to get approval of the state to use the private well of the Dinkler Plastics Co. at the north edge of town. This well has been approved by the County Health Department for drinking water for the company's employes, but before the water could be used for distribution through the village mains state approval will be needed. This well, it was said, should produce around 180 gallons a minute.

The county Health Department is helping village officials in their efforts to get the state's OK for use of the private well.

Principal Gordon McCarty said the school was closed at 1:30 p.m. because "we just couldn't keep the children here with no water for drinking or operation of sanitary facilities.

Steps were taken for fire protection as soon as the situation developed. The village Fire Department has four tanker trucks, which are being kept filled, in addition to a truck with a smaller tank, which is used primarily for brush fires. The Fire Department also has two hookups to draw water from Sugar creek which circles the west and south portions of town.

Middle East war flares up again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hard fighting continued today on both fronts of the Arab-Israeli war despite the cease-fire ordered by Israel and Egypt Monday night.

The military correspondent of Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported that Egyptian and Israeli forces were "locked in the most vicious fighting since the outbreak of the war."

Israel charged the Egyptians with "incessant" cease-fire violations and said its forces in the southern sector of the Suez Canal front had been ordered to continue fighting to counter Egyptian attacks in that area.

Egypt accused the Israelis of seizing new positions during the night, particularly on the west bank of the canal, and said that Israeli planes bombed and strafed the Egyptian forces.

It said this "compels our forces to use force to strike at the Israeli forces in the positions occupied after the cease-fire."

Israel also reported a big air battle over the Syrian front and claimed its pilots shot down 10 Syrian planes during the morning. Syria charged that Israeli planes and artillery were attacking villages in the eastern foothills of Mt. Hebron.

An earlier Israeli communique reported heavy Egyptian fire Monday night and said, "toward the end of the night the shooting lessened but did not cease completely." Several hours later a second announcement in Tel Aviv reported: "At daybreak the Egyptians opened heavy fire on Israeli forces on the western bank of the Suez Canal on the central sector."

There was no immediate word on Israeli retaliation in that area, but an official of the Israeli command said after the earlier reports of Egyptian firing that the Israeli forces "showed as much restraint as was possible before returning fire."

Damascus Radio announced that the Syrian government was still studying the cease-fire resolution voted early Monday by the U.N. Security Council.

Observers in nearby southern Lebanon said the sounds of fighting seemed to die out on the Syrian front just before the cease-fire hour, and Associated Press correspondent Alex Efty reported from Damascus that artillery flashes were not visible there Monday night for the first time since the war began.

Watergate panel appeals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee today asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to reverse a decision dismissing its Watergate tapes suit.

In a brief filed with the appeals court, the committee said, "It has been suggested in the press that a 'compromise' of this lawsuit was reached whereby appellants would forego this litigation in exchange for 'summaries' of certain tapes. This is not correct.

"While the President has unilaterally offered 'summaries' of certain tape recordings, there was no commitment by Sens. (Sam J.) Ervin and (Howard H.) Baker that, as a quid pro quo, this lawsuit would be withdrawn."

The committee said, "We need hardly stress that this case is of great moment to the nation. The President is withholding materials that appellants urgently and vitally need to fulfill their legitimate legislative functions."

Mitchell-Stans trial delayed

NEW YORK (AP) — The trial of former Cabinet officers John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans was postponed again today with both the prosecution and defense still seeking a White House tape and other documents.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi delayed the trial to Jan. 7 after federal prosecutors said the White House promised to say within two weeks whether documents relating to former White House counsel John W. Dean III would be made available.

The prosecution has described Dean as its key witness in the case against Mitchell and Stans.

2 boys charged in burning death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three boys, two 13 and one 12, have been charged with first-degree murder in the death of a derelict who was doused with lighter fluid and set afire.

Officers said the boys, whose names were withheld, admitted setting fire to Charles Scales, 38, as he slept off a wine drunk behind an abandoned building Saturday night.

The boys also were charged Monday with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder for setting fire to two other men, officers said. Police said they knew of a fourth man assaulted by the trio.

Police gave this account of the incident:

The boys, all of whom have long records of vandalism, larceny, burglary, robbery and narcotics possession, bought or stole several cans of lighter fluid from a neighborhood store.

Their first victim was a cat. They soaked the animal with lighter fluid and then watched it burn to death. A short time later they set fire to an unidentified drunk who managed to beat out the flames and shuffle away.

The boys then wandered down the street to a restaurant, where they tossed lighter fluid on J.B. Blackburn, 50, as he left a back door. Blackburn said the youngsters threw a lighted match at him and fled down an alley as he pulled off his shirt and beat out the flames.

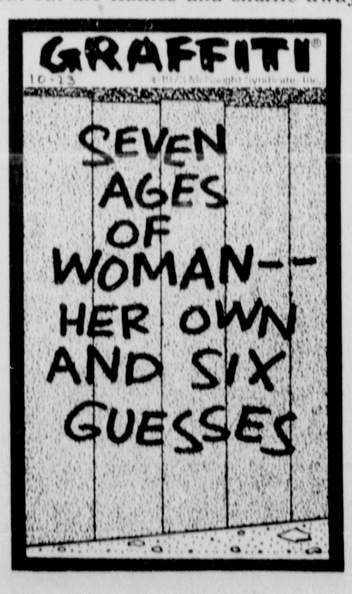

The youths next entered an alley where Emmett Spratling, 53, was lying on a discarded table top and Scales was sleeping on a bench.

Officers said Spratling told them he and Scales had been drinking wine and had settled down to sleep when they were attacked.

The boys set both men afire and ran away. Spratling managed to beat out the flames that flared round his head, but by the time Scales woke and rushed out of the alley, his clothing and large sections of flesh had been burned.

Spratling suffered only minor injuries. Scales died in a hospital 10 hours later.

Officers said one boy was on a weekend pass from the Kendall Youth Home.

Ohio Assembly opens special session today

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the 110th Ohio General Assembly return to the Statehouse today for a special legislative session designed to curb deteriorating public regard for politicians and their campaigns.

Democratic Gov. John Gilligan called the extraordinary session and restricted it to consideration of new laws to limit and account for campaign spending.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said there probably will be party caucuses when both chambers convene at 1:30 p.m. The lawmakers are expected to recess later to let Senate and House election committees work on specific proposals, including one from the Gilligan administration.

Predictions of how long the special session may last vary from several days to two weeks or longer. It will depend on the lawmakers' ability to reach a compromise in key areas.

The big point of contention centers on how to handle campaign contributions from labor unions. Gilligan opposes a $3,000 ceiling on such contribtuions if the money comes from individual donations of less than $10, funneled through a labor organization.

Republicans are expected to insist that the individual union members be allowed to earmark their donations to the party or candidates of their choice, as teachers are permitted to do in a new wage check-off program they have for political contributions.

House Majority Whip Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, will introduce the governor's bill in the House, he said, while Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard, is expected to introduce it in the Senate.

Celeste defended the union proposal at a news conference Monday, saying labor organizations have their own "constitutional arrangements" and asserting their functions are "open and democratic." It would be wrong, he maintained, for the legislature "to write a different decision-making procedure."

Some Republicans, including Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, want to prohibit contributions from a union's operating fund. Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake, has proposed restricting all political contributions to those from individuals and political parties.

Celeste said there is a chance for compromise. "All legislation requires compromise; that's the first thing I learned when I came down here," the Clevelander said.

Gilligan's bill places a $3,000 ceiling on contributions by any individual or family unit, and sets specific compaign spending amounts for various state and local offices.

It also requires any candidate who plans to spend $500 or more to name a campaign treasurer who would be responsible for collecting and spending funds. Deputy treasurers could also be named to collect funds. The treasurer would be required to keep records current to within not more than seven days after receiving a contribution or expenditure.

Reports of contributions and expenditures would have to be made 40 days and 11 days before a primary, special or general election. Reports would be filed with the official who received the candidate's petitions—the secretary of state in a statewide race or county boards of election otherwise.

A candidate for governor would be

Pablo Casals dies at 96

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Tributes poured in today acclaiming the greatness of Pablo Casals, the cellist and humanitarian who died Monday at 96.

He was to be buried this afternoon in a black granite vault less than a block from his home.

Casals, who for the last 35 years used his musical talents in a protest against tyranny and a campaign for peace, died after three weeks in Auxilio Jutuo Hospital. He was hospitalized after a heart seizure, but doctors said he also suffered from chronic bronchitis, a kidney failure and circulatory ailments.

He was the foremost cellist of the 20th century and a superlative performer into his 80s. In recent years he won new honors as a conductor. He was a source of inspiration to the musicians with whom he worked every summer at the Marlboro, Vt., music colony.

"Sometimes I feel like a boy," Casals once said. "Music does that. I can never play the same piece twice in the same way. Each time it is new."

"Pablo Casals was one of the greatest musicians of all time and the greatest cellist," said Eugene Ormandy, the music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra. "His love of people was probably the reason for his rich and long life."

Russia's Mstislav Rostropovich, considered Casals' successor as the world's No. 1 cellist, said, "I have lost not only a great teacher but a true friend. I feel a great personal grief."

Born Dec. 29, 1876, in Vendrell, in the fiercely independent part of Spain known as Catalonia, Casals played before Spanish royalty before he reached the age of 15. He was solo cellist for the Paris Opera while still a teen-ager.

He returned to Spain in the 1930s to conduct his own orchestra, but was driven abroad by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's overthrow of the Republican government in the Spanish Civil War.

allowed to spend five cents for every person in the state, or about $550,000 in a primary election, and 10 cents a person in a general election.

Local candidates could spend the same amounts per person in their districts.

The governor's bill restricts the amounts that can be spent on other statewide races to two cents per person in the state for primary, special or general elections. The limit of about $220,000 would apply to the lieutenant governor, attorney general, auditor, treasurer, and secretary of state.

A limit of $50 would be placed on cash contributions.

The bill would also establish a five-member Ohio Elections Commission, to be named by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. No more than three members could belong to the same political party. The commission would have the power to review and override any decision made by the secretary of state.

It would adopt a code of fair campaign practices, designate and provide the forms for reports and statements required under the new law, report annually to the governor and legislature, and make recommendations for legislation on campaign financing and practices.

COURTHOUSE TOUR—Kenneth Craig and B.E. Kelley of the Fayette County Historical Society, guided approximately 75 senior citizens on a tour of the Courthouse Tuesday morning. The group, which came by bus from Columbus, had expressed special interest in seeing the Willard Murals which cover the walls of the upper floor. In 1956 it was confirmed that the paintings had been done in 1884-85 by Archibald M. Willard, who painted the famed "Spirit of '76. Following the tour, the group left to visit other points of historical interest in Southern Ohio.

Influence peddling by President seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — New evidence has surfaced tying President Nixon to an alleged deal involving a pledge of $2 million in campaign money in exchange for administration favors for the dairy industry.

Investigative sources said Monday they have obtained a letter addressed to Nixon on Dec. 16, 1970, reminding him of the industry's past support and telling him of the milk producer's need for immediate aid.

The letter was written, the sources said, by Pat Hillings of the Associated Milk Producers Inc., the major industry group.

The Associated Press has confirmed the letter's contents from four separate sources.

"The thrust of the letter was a request that the President approve new milk tariffs that the industry was interested in," one source said. "It pointed out that the industry had $2 million available for 1972 campaign contributions," but continued aid for the nation's dairy farmers was necessary if they were to continue their support.

Hillings noted that $135,000 already had gone to 1970 congressional candidates who were friends of dairymen, the sources said.

A month later, when the new Nixon budget was announced, proposed dairy subsidies rose nearly 10 per cent, compared to a slight increase for feed-grain subsidies and a major decrease in food-aid shipments, another method of government farm support.

The Hillings letter noted that it was bringing up a "sensitive political matter," the sources said, and evidence indicates it went directly to then-presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman. One source said it isn't certain whether Nixon read the letter or was merely told of its contents.

The following March, however, three events took place:

—On March 22, 1971, the first $10,000 contribution from milk producers was secretly delivered to a group of dummy campaign committees that later turned their holdings over to the Nixon re-election campaign.

—The following day, President Nixon and then-Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin met at the White House with 16 spokesmen for the dairy industry.

—On March 25, Hardin reversed a decision not to grant an increase in federal price supports for milk and announced approval of a 27-cents-per-hundredweight hike in price supports, claiming he had received new economic data.

The decision was worth between $500 million and $700 million to the nation's milk producers, according to an industry estimate.

Most saved in air crash

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A Brazilian airliner crashed into Rio de Janeiro's Guanabara Bay today and sank. Most of the passengers aboard swam to safety, airport authorities said.

According to authorities at Santos Dumont city airport, more than 20 persons were also plucked from the plane's fuselage before it sank after floating for 10 minutes.

U.S., Russia put together Middle East cease-fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recognized at the very start of the Middle East war that if diplomacy could halt the fighting Washington and Moscow would have to work together.

From then on, with few exceptions, the two superpowers avoided accusations and harsh rhetoric. Their behavior appeared aimed at avoiding disruption of the detente that is at the core of their policies toward each other — even while feeding Israel and the Arab states the weapons of war.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger did wag a finger at Moscow now and then. "We shall resist aggressive foreign policies," he said at a forum on Oct. 8, the third day of the war. "Detente cannot survive irresponsibility in any area, including the Middle East."

More typical was the tone he took at an Oct. 12 news conference when he simply chided the Russians for not being "helpful" and declared: "We are in a delicate situation that can easily be inflamed."

On the Soviet side, U.N. Ambassador Jakob Malik publicly condemned the Israelis as "barbarians" shortly after the war broke out and he stalked out of a Security Council meeting. But the vituperation was occasional.

President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader, exchanged private messages Oct. 7, the second day of the conflict. The next morning Administration officials were saying that Moscow appeared to share Washington's desire to limit the war.

Kissinger met almost daily with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin or at least talked with him over the telephone.

This course of consultation had been established even while the Arabs were massing their attack. In the few frantic hours Oct. 5 between an Israeli warning and the actual outbreak the United States turned mostly to Russia to try to head it off. The effort failed. But they kept working together.

Poll shows split over impeachment

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide Oliver Quayle poll of 947 adults questioned after the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox shows 44 per cent favored impeaching President Nixon.

Forty-three per cent opposed impeachment and 13 per cent were undecided, according to the poll.

The telephone survey was conducted for NBC News, which said Monday that it contained a built-in sampling error of 2 to 3 per cent. "We can't see a statistical distinction" between those for and against impeachment, said Bud Lewis, director of elections for NBC.

The network said the percentage of persons favoring impeachment had nearly doubled since Aug. 12, when an earlier poll showed 23 per cent favoring impeachment, 68 per cent against and 9 per cent undecided.

The latest poll also showed that 75 per cent of those questioned opposed the dismissal of Cox while 16 per cent favored it and 9 per cent were undecided.

Only 22 per cent of those polled gave Nixon a favorable rating on his job performance, with 75 per cent rating it unfavorable and 3 per cent undecided.

A Gallup poll taken before last weekend's developments said 30 per cent of Americans rated Nixon's performance favorably.

Asked in the Quayle poll whether Watergate should be "put behind us," 54 per cent said no, 42 per cent said yes and 4 per cent were undecided.

The poll was conducted in 300 "scientifically selected communities across the country" and designed to question a broad cross-section of people with varying educational and economic backgrounds, NBC said.

Richardson meets press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson explained today the conflicting demands that led him to resign as attorney general, and said the Watergate controversy confronting President Nixon "is for the American people to judge..."

Richardson, applauded for nearly two minutes by employes of the Department of Justice, described a week of negotiations and controversy in the dispute between the White House and special prosecutor Archibald Cox over access to presidential tape recordings.

Richardson retold the story of his commitment to the independence of the Cox investigation, and Nixon's order that the special prosecutor be fired.

In that situation, Richardson said, he concluded he could best serve the nation as a private citizen.

In his opening discussion of the case, Richardson did not criticize the President.

At stake in the controversy, Richardson said, is the integrity of government that "I came to the Justice Department to help restore."

Richardson said the case became one of deadlock between Nixon's insistence on the principle of confidentiality of presidential conversations, and his own assurances that Cox would be unfettered in the Watergate investigation.

"The rest is for the American people to judge," he said. "On the fairness with which you do so may well rest the future well-being and security of our beloved country."

Judge backs Shield Law

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — A reporter for the Newark Advocate does not have to answer questions about her confidential sources for a series of articles on a subdivision near here, a judge ruled today.

Licking County Common Pleas Court Judge Winston C. Allen ruled the reporter, Mary Hargrove, was protected by Ohio's shield law in refusing to answer three of 170 questions asked during a deposition hearing.

Allen said two other questions Mrs. Hargrove refused to answer were not relevant.

Mrs. Hargrove's series dealt with problems involving water and sewer systems in the subdivision.

The deposition hearing involved a suit challenging ownership of the systems, which is in court now.

Stock list opens lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened lower today as the House planned to begin consideration of impeachment proceedings against the President and the Mideast hostilities resumed.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was down almost a point and declines outpaced advances by about 3-1 in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The volume leader on the Big Board was Pan American World Airways, unchanged at 6½. Other active issues included Sony Corp., down ¾ to 48¼; Gulf Oil, down ⅜ to 22¾; ITT, down ⅛ to 34½; and Kresge, down ⅛ to 38.

On Monday the market slipped lower in response to calls for President Nixon's impeachment in the wake of his firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The Dow slumped 3.16 points to close at 960.57 and declines outpaced advances by almost 4-1 in fairly heavy holiday trading on the Big Board.

Indian summer was forecast to continue over Ohio as a high pressure area refused to relinquished its hold on the northeastern United States.

A warm air flow did little to raise overnight temperatures, and lows at dawn ranged from 34 degrees in Toledo to 48 in the Akron-Canton area and 49 at Huntington, W. Va. Readings generally were in the low 40s.

A warming trend is forecast for the state through Wednesday with highs today from the upper 60s in the north to the 70s in the south. Highs should be in the 70s across the state Wednesday.

It will be quite warm in Ohio Thursday, followed by a cooling trend into the weekend. There will be a chance of showers Friday or Saturday. Highs Thursday will be in the upper 70s and 80s, falling to the 60s north and the 70s south Friday and Saturday. Lows all three nights will be in the 50s.

Fair weather covers nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair weather prevailed over most of the nation today with showers limited generally to the East and West coasts.

Thunderstorms dampened portions of northern California Monday evening, and gale warnings were in effect for the northern and central Pacific coast.

Showers splashed over parts of the northern Atlantic Coast states, while some light showers sprinkled Florida on the fringe of tropical storm Gilda's influence.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 31 at Concord, N.H., to 79 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Armco sets price hike

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Armco Steel Corp. today announced classification changes in cold rolled sheet metal that will result in a price increase averaging 2.3 per cent.

A company spokesman said the changes are comparable to those recently announced by Bethlehem Steel Corp. and will take effect Jan. 1.

The changes revise cold rolled classes A, B and C to Classes 1 and 2.

The company said Class A will be replaced by Class 1, and that the current base price of $10.30 a hundredweight will remain in effect.

Cold rolled Class B will be discontinued. Cold rolled Class C will be replaced by Class 2, and the base price will go up 60 cents, to $9.80 a hundredweight, the company said.

Desert war tactics change for good due to technology

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new techology of the fourth Mideast war has made it certain desert warfare will never be the same again.

The classic picture of large numbers of tanks clashing freely across the sands and supported by low-flying fighter planes and infantrymen appears to be obsolete.

Those free-wheeling tactics, witnessed in the 1967 six-day Mideast war, have been replaced by the relative caution evidenced by both sides before the cease-fire was declared Monday.

The need for more caution is one reason why the war lasted 16 days instead of six.

Take airplanes, for example. Nearly all of the approximately 100 U.S.-supplied F4 Phantoms, A4 Sky Hawks and other fighters lost by the Israelis were downed by Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles.

American planes were challenged by Soviet missiles in North Vietnam, but never at the low altitudes where Israeli jets attempted to support the Israeli counterattack against the initial Egyptian tank thrust across the Suez Canal.

The United States is known to have equipment which when installed in fighter planes can neutralize the radar-controlled Soviet missiles. It is not known how much of that equipment was supplied or in use by the Israelis before or after the new fighting began.

Another surprise to the Israeli tank forces were the appearance of Syrian and Egyptian infantrymen carrying Soviet antitank weapons on their backs.

By all accounts reaching the Pentagon, the RPG7s, as they are called, were fired with deadly accuracy by determined Arab troops. They often moved in advance of their own tanks to aim their weapons at Israeli armor.

In both cases, Israeli tanks were frequently slowed by the fear that they would encounter the Soviet-made antitank weapons even after Arab tanks had been destroyed in large numbers, Pentagon analysts say.

The effect, once again, was to make the Israeli attacking force more cautious and fearful than six years ago.

The late introduction of similar U.S.-made antitank weapons to the Israeli force is difficult to assess because the Israelis did not have them in numbers before the shooting began. But their presence is sure to cause equal caution by Arab armor commanders in any future Mideast combat.

Business surveys often disagree

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While businessmen and other citizens hardly know what to expect these days, there is one constant that can be depended upon: Somebody always will be conducting a survey.

They may be frivolous or serious, professional or amateurish, informative or insane. They take various names, such as study, report, forecast or poll. They may be entirely objective; they may be subtly suggestive.

Into the latter category you might be inclined to put a survey by the New York Stock Exchange, which found business economists quite bullish on stock prices in 1974.

In fact, said WIlliam Freund, 95 per cent of the economists who responded forecast rising prices and the remaining 5 per cent said they believed prices will remain level.

"Not a single vote was cast in expectation of a market decline next year," he said.

While businessmen and others were assimilating the optimistic outlook of the economists, a survey of another kind contains material for reflection.

The Nationwide Retail Census, conducted by the marketing research firm Audits & Surveys Inc., claimed that the number of retail outlets in the country dropped by more than 19,000 in the past year.

The loss, following a decline of 12,400 in 1972, reduced the number of stores to 1,657,000 and, significantly or not, brought the store-to-people ratio all the way to 125, meaning one store per 125 people.

Interpreting the findings, the company said "the trend to higher store-to-people ratios reflects the growing attraction of consumers to the convenience of one-stop shopping."

Food stores, a category that includes supermarkets, groceries, delicatessens and other outlets, suffered the greatest number of fatalities, with 8,200 units disappearing. Shoppers are entitled to know the ominous news that there are now only 280,700 food stores left.

Other findings tend to document what a lot of people had a hunch was happening:

—The number of discount department stores grew by 300 units to a total of about 5,300.

—The number of automotive service stations fell by 3,500 units to 215,900.

—Drive-in restaurants and carryouts continued to proliferate, rising by 1,600 units to 52,300 outlets, even though eating-drinking establishments suffered an over-all decline.

—About 500 bars and taverns disappeared, leaving 110,500.

One of the most popular types of survey, that of consumer buying intentions, also reflects some significant changes in business and attitudes:

Relatively few shoppers are optimistic about the immediate future, a condition that in the past caused people to postpone buying plans and save for the proverbial rainy day.

Now, however, they are torn between caution and fear — fear that if they don't buy today they'll have to pay more tomorrow.

Car of slain man burns in Louisville

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The car of a man found dead of gunshot wounds in Cincinnati last Thursday was discovered burning Monday in a Louisville, Ky., alley.

Cincinnati homicide Lt. Dan Cash said the car belonged to James Mack Crenshaw, 55, of Cincinnati. Crenshaw had been shot in the chest and arm, Cash said.

Editorialists attack Nixon developments

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Impeachment has stirred bitter comment from Ohio newspapers.

Editorially, newspapers displayed general disapproval of the firings of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, and Nixon's refusal to submit Watergate tapes to a federal grand jury.

"Mr. Nixon, who has shown some serious misjudgements in the past year or so, is misjudgeing the American public if he thinks the Fox-Richardson incident will be accepted without stirring some terrible questions," stated the East Liverpool Review in a editorial in today's edition.

The newspaper, which previously has supported Nixon, continued: "And if the American public is misjudging the President, he cannot blame his own aides, the Congress or the press as has been his more recent practice."

The East Liverpool newspaper said that Nixon"... while clinging to his constitutional rights,...may have lost the respect of the nation..."

The President has shown an "inability to provide what so many Americans have been hoping for—vindication of the claims of innocence, a conclusion to the ugly hints as to what went on in the Oval Office, the moving on to the important challenges the nation faces on domestic and foreign fronts," the editorial continued.

"...Who can believe now that the function of the Watergate probe, returned to the Department of Justice, will be carried out 'with fairness and vigor,' as the White House states?" it asked.

In a Monday editorial, the Cincinnati Post and Times Star asked: "Is Nixon above the law?"

It continued: "In America we enjoy the rule of law, not the rule of men. It is an ugly, shocking and ominous moment when the President defies such a basic American principle."

At the same time, the Columbus Citizen-Journal was optimistic that Justice Department official Henry Petersen could pick up the Watergate investigation and run with it.

The newspaper also cautioned that final judgement of the President should be withheld until Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi makes his report public on the Watergate tapes. Nixon has offered to let Stennis listen to the tapes, then make a summary of his viewpoints available to the Senate Watergate committee.

If the Watergate grand jury accepts this method of viewing the tapes, that "almost certainly would put out the current impeachment fire," the editorial said.

The Akron Beacon Journal, which previously had said Nixon should release the Watergate tapes, in an editorial Monday said the President "is clearly in contempt of court" for his refusal to do so.

The Toledo Blade, in another Monday editorial, called the entire affair "madness run rampant."

Asked the Blade: "How much longer...can we endure a President who arrogantly places himself above the law, defies the courts, thumbs his nose at morality and propriety in public office, and stops at nothing...in his insatiable thirst to cover up the wrongdoings of Watergate?"

Golda Meir sleeps less, worries

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir has been sleeping less, worrying more and chainsmoking her usual three packs of cigarettes a day since Israel went to war 18 days ago.

She has spent the days and much of the nights of fighting in an unpretentious office in the Defense Ministry compound, getting home when she could to the two-family house she shares with her son in suburban Ramat Aviv.

Her only public appearances have been to visit wounded troops and thank American pilots who flew in arms and other military equipment. Otherwise, as one observer put it, "she's playing general to the generals."

The gray-haired, 75-year-old grandmother came from Jerusalem to spend Yom Kippur with her son Menachem, a cellist and the head of Tel Aviv University's Academy of Music, and his family.

Instead, she spent the most sacred Jewish holy day in the second-floor corner office at the Defense Ministry, making feverish preparations for the Arab attack that was developing.

Once war began, Mrs. Meir canceled all appointments and cleared her schedule for military matters and the political and diplomatic decisions arising from the conflict.

"All her thoughts are with the war, and she keeps to the office because that's where she's most needed," says Lou Kadar, her old friend and assistant.

The premier has kept to her usual 7 a.m. rising time and breakfast. With her bodyguards, Mrs. Meir makes the five-minute drive to her office and the hours of reading reports, attending briefings and holding meetings begin.

She likes to go home for lunch and a little rest, but the demands of running a war have often kept her in the office through lunch and dinner.

"She's a good eater and she likes everything," including the food from a 24-hour cafeteria in her office building, Mrs. Kadar said. But given the choice, she likes French or Jewish food, especially gefilte fish and borsch.

On normal days, Mrs. Meir gets home at 7 or 8 p.m., works on handicraft or attends a concert if she has no official engagements. But Mrs. Kadar said she has worked often until 1 a.m. and once until 3 a.m. since the war started.

In her few free moments, Mrs. Meir tries to keep track of her family. Fifteen of them, including her granddaughter's husband, are in the army.

"They are okay," said Mrs. Kadar, "but when we tell her about people we know whose sons have fallen, she takes it badly. But she goes on. She hasn't been nervous. She's worried like everybody, but she doesn't show it."

Mrs. Meir "hasn't changed her habits," Mrs. Kadar said. 'She's still the same simple person she was 50 years ago" when she arrived in Palestine from the United States as a bride.

"She feels okay; she is okay," Mrs. Kadar said. "She's like French wine; she improves with age."

Thoughts on turn signalers

To the aviary of inept drivers, add the Slow-witted Turn Signaler. This subspecies is characterized by a marked tendency to turn first, and signal later.

There are variants of this behavior: some individuals merely delay exhibiting a directional light until after the turn has begun; other more extreme examples may virtually complete the maneuver before belatedly signaling.

Experts disagree as to the developmental lines of the Slow-witted Turn Signaler. Some maintain that these somewhat addlepated frequenters of street and highway are a slight but distinguishable evolutionary advance over the Common, or Knuckleheaded, Turn Signal Ignorer.

Others argue that the Slow-wits are in fact a retrogressive subspecies descended from the Casual, or Intermittent, Directional Flasher. This school of thought sees the Slow-wit as a classic example of the well known Carlessness Syndrome.

The fact that the Carelessness Syndrome clearly is involved in the Slow-witted Turn Signaler's behavior lends support to the latter view.

In any case, it cannot be doubted that the Slow-wit, the Casual Directional Flasher and the Knuckleheaded Turn Signal Ignorer are closely interrelated.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Oilmen push for deregulation

WASHINGTON—Buy sweaters! That is the cheerful advice from White House domestic counselor Melvin R. Laird on how to beat the oil shortage. It comes after months of bumbling and hesitation on how to meet an energy shortage plainly visible for at least two or three years.

Gasoline prices are moving up and will go higher. Now the threat of an increase in the cost of natural gas hitting millions of householders across the country is the storm center of a fierce struggle.

The Nixon Administration and the big oil companies that control most of the gas are calling for complete deregulation, taking away the authority of the Federal Power Commission to put a brake on prices the major producers can charge.

The argument backed by oil company scare propaganda on the energy shortage is that deregulation will make it possible to bring in new gas reserves, thanks to larger earnings.

THE CLALLENGE comes from Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson 3d of Illinois. He proposes to deregulate all but the 70 largest producers out of the total of 4,700 in the industry. With the lid entirely off, Stevenson contends, the Big Four would come in for $8 billion in windfall profits in a relatively few years.

For the consumer it could mean a rise from the average price of 24 cents a unit to 75 to 80 cents. The householders' bill would be doubled and then some in short order.

The impact of this is measured against the fact that nearly one-third of all energy uses are derived from natural gas. The cost to industry would zoom and that cost would inevitably be passed on to the consumer. For all the pious platitudes about controlling inflation here is a primary source with the blessing of an Administration putting out these platitudes.

One indication that the votes may be there for passage of the Stevenson proposal is the volume of propaganda from the oil companies and the intensity of the lobbying on Capitol Hill. Actually, the Stevenson bill calls for modified and streamlined regulation of the big producers. The senator contends this would make for quicker action and be an insurance against windfall profits.

THE BIG BOYS have powerful friends on The Hill. Chief among them is Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, who has had the candor to describe himself as the darling of the oil industry. Chairman of the Finance Committee, he wields great influence on all matters concerned with business and industry. Long opposes the Stevenson bill.

The House has just passed a sweeping measure calling for allocation not only of natural gas and propane but of crude oil, gasoline and virtually all petroleum products. The Nixon energy czar, former Colorado Gov. John A. Love, came out against such broad regulation. He argues that only a limited allocation such as he has put into effect for heating and diesel fuels can be workable.

Granted that the production and distribution of petroleum products in a nation wedded to the internal combustion engine is so complicated almost to defy regulation, which is Love's point, nevertheless the failure to confront the shortages and the price spiral seems inexcusable.

With gasoline prices rising and certain to go much higher in the near future, there has thus been no effort to distribute the burden equitably.

THIS MEANS that the owner of a gas guzzler, a Cadillac or a Lincoln Continental, pays the same price as the driver of a battered Plymouth. Figures show that car owners in the income range from $3,000 to $10,000 a year do more driving than those in higher income brackets. That is partly because of the necessity to commute long distances to jobs in remote areas.

Last summer Love's office considered imposing a 10-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax, which would have meant a 25 per cent price increase. That was abandoned because of the obvious inequity. Now task forces are considering the possibility of a tax on horsepower or on the weight of a car. That could put a limit on the gas guzzlers.

But in the interval between the report of a task force, a high-level White House decision and the response of the House Ways and Means Committee, the political weather — not to mention the climate — can get very cold. The answer calls for more than sweaters.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

What this country needs

For more years than I like to recall, I have been addicted to good mystery stories. The trouble is that discovering a genuine mystery story is virtually as difficult as finding the "abominable snowman" in the Himalayas.

Most of the stuff published these days is sheer tripe. Instead of a carefully wrought plot, every time the author runs into a jam he (or she) throws in either a sexual ecstasy or a laser ring, which the wearer uses to obliterate anything from the Empire State Building to a regiment of invaders from another planet.

Several years ago I suggested to friends who are deeply involved in Hollywood that the time had come to drop the looney stuff (James Bond, etc.) and revive the real detectives. "Who?" they asked. "Inspector Maigret, Hercule Poirot, Lord Peter Wimsey, Alan Grant, plus a Dutchman whose name I forget."

Obviously unacquainted with the metier, they asked me who these characters were. I was shocked, but went into a (probably boring) description of what I consider to be the best detective fiction going — and added the works of "Emma Latham" as a footnote.

THEIR REACTION — which may have been based on a realistic appraisal of the American market except that the year following they laid a couple of $multi-million eggs — was that nobody would watch that sort of stuff. The big attraction was violence, and admittedly Josephine Tey's "The Daughter of Time," or Poirot utilizing his "little gray cells," would hardly set one's muscles twitching. When I suggested politely that ...-maybe ...Americans were sick and tired of blood and guts, they replied equally courteously that I was something of an elitist who lived in isolation from the bloodthirsty masses.

They could be right, but for the first time in years I am hooked on television. Not that I have snobbishly refused to view the tube — I love good baseball (defined as a game in which each side uses less than three pitchers), and special news programs usually seduce me But most of the stuff sends me off in five minutes to read a book about Roman law. I should waste my time watching a comouflaged rerun of "Abie's Irish Rose"? Or some cheerful little novelty in which a group of sadistic teenagers specialize in incinerating drunken derelicts? I have seen enough killing for one lifetime.

However, for those who share my prejudices, there is good news. Educational television (which is usually a disaster area) has revived the mystery. So last Sunday night we told our dinner guests that — what ever the status of the meal — we were going off to watch a British import at 9 p.m.: Dorothy Sayers' "Clouds of Witness," featuring Lord Peter Wimsey.

Interestingly enough, their response was that they were planning to desert dessert, if necessary, to get home and follow the strange adventure Lord Peter confronts in rescuing his brother, the dopey Duke of Denver, from the gallows.

IT IS an excellent job: Wimsey, who could be overplayed as an anachronistic, aristocratic fop, is just right for a contemporary audience. (The original version was written in 1926.) There is, of course, a body. But fundamentally the story hinges on plot and character. I know exactly what is going to happen, but what else is new? I had read "Oliver Twist" before I saw the film, and the culmination of "Tora, Tora, Tora" hardly came as a shock.

At any rate, I am cheered. Educational TV is running a whole series in this genre, and it could mop up.

What this country needs is good mystery stories in the movies and on TV, and this is a first-rate beginning.

With all due respect to the boys who are sitting around thinking of the hilarious comic scenes that would emerge from marrying an Eskimo to an Apache, let's get back to those "little gray cells."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

More than half the states have laws so that land being used to produce food can be taxed at agricultural rates.

Ohio didn't need any such law because the counties pretty well managed to do that anyway. Now the Supreme court says that will no longer be permitted by the Constitution, so we have to change our Constitution. The way is by passing Issue I.

We are already losing countryside at a rapid rate. If we want to keep open space and trees (which smog), we have to have a "yes" vote in the Issue. Issue.

"THIS LEAK YOU'RE REPORTING, LADY, IS IT COMING FROM A RELIABLE AND UNIMPEACHABLE SOURCE?"

Hal Boyle . . . Those were the days

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is a marriage.

It weds man to his past, and there can be no divorce in that union. It is indissoluble.

Memory is the strongest link to life man has, and the most lasting. Only death, if anything, can dissolve it, and we are not even certain of that, for we know little about death.

Yet memory isn't a bondage or an uneasy servitude, but the most durable of our pleasures and the one that brings us the most solace across the years.

You have a pretty extensive chain of memory links yourself if you can look back and remember when —

You could buy a Hohner harmonia for a dime or, later, 25 cents, and become the musical genius of your neighborhood.

When you went to a doctor and told him you were feeling "poorly," like as not he'd say, "You ought to eat more — it'd do you good to fatten up." Fat people were thought then to have more resistance to disease than thin people.

Girls thought nothing of being engaged to a man six months or more to be certain he was the one they wanted to marry.

If a young society lady broke her engagement, she usually went on a tour of Europe to get over her disappointment. If she was poor, she just visited a relative for a while.

People expected as much benefit from a 50-cent bottle of Indian herbal tonic as they do from $25 worth of vitamin pills today.

Adolescence was that miserable period when you were too old to sit in the front rows at the movie any longer and too shy to ask a girl to sit with you in the back row, where the spooning couples sat.

If you wanted to purchase a spool of thread, you went to a business establishment called a dry goods store, where most of the salespeople were elderly ladies wearing long black skirts, high-buttoned shoes and starched white blouses. Dry goods stores seem to have gone the way of the dodo.

When grammar school kids played hooky, they rarely got into trouble because they were too young to hang out in the town pool hall and all they could do was to go swimming or fishing.

Most people didn't know too much about sex — but enough to keep their mouths shut about it in public.

Those were the days — remember?

Romans, Vandals, Goths, Byzantines, Lombards, Aragonese, Genoese, Moors and Barbary pirates all took part in ravaging, enslaving, taxing and hounding the Corsican people.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SUCCESSES PRODUCE SUCCESS, AS MONEY PRODUCES MONEY.—NICOLAS CHAMFORT

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Readers give advice to "Smells Bad"

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed "SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE" wrote to say she was extremely clean about herself and her clothing, but she smelled a terrible odor about herself, which nobody said they smelled, and it was driving her out of her mind.

I had the same problem for four years. Finally my doctor discovered I had diabetes. He put me on a low carbohydrate diet and the smell left me.

CURED NOW

DEAR ABBY: This is my 50th year as a physician and I have seen a number of cases like the one described by "SMELLS BAD."

That person should consult an ear, nose, and throat specialist for possible "Ozena" (stink nose), which causes a breath so foul that everything smells bad to her. The condition is the result of a chronic infection in nose and sinuses causing upper respiratory membranes to degenerate.

ARIZONA M.D.

DEAR ABBY: I also smelled bad and didn't know why. My doctor looked into my navel with a flashlight and that's where the smell was coming from. He cleaned it out and advised me to keep it clean with a bit of cotton on a toothpick, and my problem was solved.

ON THE BUTTON

DEAR ABBY: Dr. Marion B. Sultzberger, a famous dermatologist, once told me that he had a patient who came to him with the same problem as "SMELLS BAD." The doctor had the man strip. He still smelled bad. Then the doctor told the man to remove his gold wedding band. That was the culprit! In some people, their body chemistry and certain metals create a very unpleasant odor.

J.T., CORONA DEL MAR, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that lady who smells bad my brother had the same problem. He went to doctors and nobody could help him. Finally an old man told him to drink four ounces of dry white wine four times a day before meals, and again at bedtime. He did and in a week the odor was gone, and he was like a new man.

COFFEYVILLE, KAS.

DEAR ABBY: "SMELLS BAD" should make an appointment with her dentist immediately. I had that problem, and didn't know it was caused by an infected wisdom tooth. When my dentist discovered it he was amazed that I did not have a toothache that raised the top of my head. I never had a twinge of pain, but that terrible odor nearly drove me nuts!

OKAY NOW

DEAR ABBY: If "SMELLS BAD" wears glasses she should check the nose piece of her glasses. I smelled something vile for months and couldn't detect its source. Finally I discovered it was the perspiration collected in the nose piece of my glasses that was causing it. I bought new glasses, and clean them with alcohol regularly, and haven't had any trouble since.

SMELLS GOOD IN BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: It's the woman's gall bladder. A friend of mine kept sniffing everywhere for "dead mice" for six months. Finally, a doctor examined her and found that she had gall bladder trouble. She was smelling her own infected gall bladder!

R.L.D. IN VERMONT

DEAR ABBY: The woman who smells bad should be asked if she has had her ears pierced lately. When I had mine pierced, I smelled bad for months before I found out I had an infection in both ears from the piercing.

HAD IT IN ALABAMA

DEAR ABBY: Tell "SMELLS BAD" to check her ears. I have itchy ears, and I used to feel like there was something crawling in my ears, so I would scratch them with whatever was handy. Once I scratched my ear with a crochet needle. It caused an infection deep inside my ear which gave off a frightful odor, but I didn't discover it until I went to a doctor.

Today In History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, October 23rd, the 296th day of 1973. There are 69 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, George Washington's troops withdrew from Manhattan in the Revolutionary War.

On this date in 1641, the great Irish Massacre began after the discovery of a conspiracy against the English.

In 1684, the charter of the Massachusetts colony was annulled.

In 1915, 25,000 women demanding the right to vote marched in a demonstration in New York.

In 1917, U.S. troops saw their first action in World War I.

In 1942, the British Eighth Army attacked German lines in North Africa to begin the battle of El Alamein.

In 1954, the U.S., France and Britain agreed to end the occupation of Germany.

Ten years ago ... a ferry capsized in the Han River near Seoul, South Korea, drowning 49 persons.

Five years ago ... Egyptian and Israeli jets tangled over the Suez canal in the first such reported action since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

One year ago ... Henry Kissinger returned to Washington after five days of talks with South Vietnamese President Thieu to report on his latest peace negotiations.

Engagement announced

MISS PAULA JOHNSON

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Taylor, 32 Jasper-Coil Rd. NW, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Paula Darlene Johnson to David Michael Lipscomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lipscomb, 223 E. East St.

The wedding will be an event of 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 in St. Colman Catholic Church.

Women remain active as 'firemen'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Five of six suburban women remain on the job six months after they were appointed firewomen with the Terrace Park Volunteer Fire Department.

Four of them double as life squad-women and were appointed to fill in the daytime gap when the men of the village are at work in Cincinnati.

Fire Chief Lee Stegemeyer said the women, are, as far as he's concerned "full-fledged" members of the department of 30.

Are women able to do the job as well as men?

"Hell yes," said Stegemeyer, a trade magazine editor and former newspaper man. "They can handle the job. They are just as good."

He said the women performed well recently extinguishing a barn fire. He said they had to use a 2½-inch diameter hose which seldom is used in the community of 4,000.

"I've definitely enjoyed it and I think we proved we weren't doing it for women's lib," said Mimi Mathews, one of the originators of the plan.

Lt. Evelyn Peery, supervisor of the women, said there is satisfaction in being a firefighter and lifesquad worker.

"It makes you feel awfully good helping somebody in trouble," she said.

Miss Mathews, 21, a legal secretary, is the only one who is not married. She is also the only woman on night call regularly.

"I fought the blaze in a dress and nylons," she laughed about the barn fire.

"I exchanged my heels for a pair of boots, and put on a fire hat and coverall."

Sue Channer, Pat Ramm and Pat Roe are the other firewomen. A sixth member dropped out during training.

Mrs. Peery said the firewomen go about their everyday lives as housewives with one exception. They always carry a radio-monitor to pickup the fire call.

"I can run to the store and do yard work," she said, "but I am also caring for two sons and am involved in such things as scouting activities."

Mrs. Roe said it was natural for her to go into the life squad.

Engaged

Rev. and Mrs. J. Eugene Griffith of Jeffersonville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Mary Catherine to Bruce Walling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walling, Morningside Blvd., Dayton.

Miss Griffith, a graduate of Belmont High School, is employed by Rike's Department Store in Dayton.

Her fiance, a graduate of Chaminade-Julienne High School in Dayton, is stationed with the USAF, Chanute Field, Ind.

The couple will be married Jan. 5 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church at 4:30 p.m.

Applesauce cake keeps well

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

With the price of eggs reaching a new high, it's time to revive the old-fashioned, one-egg cake. So here's a reliable recipe for One-egg Applesauce Cake — a favorite of families because it has excellent flavor and a moist crumb. When we tried the recipe we found the cake stayed moist for a whole week. Oats are used in the batter for good nutrition and interesting texture. The frosting that goes on the cake is about the most inexpensive kind you can make.

ONE-EGG APPLESAUCE CAKE

1 jar (15 ounces) sweetened applesauce (1 2-3rds cups)
1 cup quick-cooking oats 1½ cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg
Frosting, see below

Grease and flour a square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches).

In a 1-or 1½-quart saucepan heat the applesauce until hot throughout; remove from heat; at once stir in oats; cover tightly and let stand 20 minutes.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves.

In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; add egg and beat well. Gradually and gently beat in flour mixture. Add applesauce-oat mixture; stir well. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 50 to 55 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack. Cover top with Frosting and let set. Cut in squares and remove as needed. Tightly cover pan during storage of cake.

If you want to turn out the cake instead of leaving it in the pan, as soon as it comes from the oven let it stand in the pan on the wire rack for about 30 minutes; with a small metal spatula thoroughly loosen sides; turn out on rack; with another rack turn right side up; cool completely. Cover top (and sides if you like) with Frosting. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

FROSTING

Beat together 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar; gradually beat in enough more sifted confectioners' sugar (about 1 cup) to make a good spreading consistency, keep smooth.

See woman moderator of church

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Walter Bingham says he believes the general assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) will elect a woman to succeed him as moderator of the 1,300,000 member denomination.

Dr. Bingham said increasing the role of laity and women clergy will be the prime task of the six-day assembly, which begins Friday at Cincinnati.

The black Louisville minister compared the drive to give women a larger role to the movement in the 1960s to try to include more blacks and other minority groups in positions of responsibility.

He said he considered his election as moderator of the predominantly white denomination a symbol of devotion to equality of races within the church.

It is likely a woman will be elected moderator for the next two-year term, Dr. Bingham said, "putting her in a position of visibility to the church and the rest of the world."

Dr. Bingham said he believes his travels as moderator advanced the cause of the church's approximately 50,000 blacks, and that a woman in the job would speed acceptance of her sex.

Suggest dates for mailing greetings abroad

The U.S. Postal Service has suggested final mailing dates for Christmas greetings to foreign countries.

Surface mail — Far East Oct. 25, Near East Nov. 4, Africa Nov. 4, Europe Nov. 17, South and Central America Nov. 17, Canada and Mexico Dec. 7.

Airmail — Far East Dec. 14, Near East Dec. 14, Africa Dec. 14, Europe Dec. 16, South and Central America Dec. 16 and Canada and Mexico Dec. 19.

The minimum size for envelopes used in international mail has been increased, with the new scale going into effect Oct. 1.

The minimum size for envelopes is now 3½ by 5½ inches. Mail in package form, on which the address surface is less than 3½ by 5½ inches, must have a rectangular address tag 2¾ by 4 inches attached.

The increase from the present minimum size of 3 by 4¼ inches is the result of an international agreement reached in Tokyo in 1969. Delay in the implementation of the agreement was to permit envelope manufacturers and users of international mail to deplete stocks of smaller envelopes on hand.

These changes do not apply to domestic mail, although the Postal Service has proposed an increase to 3½ by 5 inches to become effective in 1977.

Greeneview High to offer 'Harvey'

JAMESTOWN — All-school plays are to replace class plays at Greeneview High School this year. For the first production, the school will present "Harvey" at 8 p.m. Nov. 9 and 10 in the Junior High School auditorium.

It is the story of Elwood P. Doud, who his friends think drinks too much, and his best friend, Harvey, who happens to be a 6-foot tall while rabbit.

The leading roles are taken by Steve Pierson and Mary Ann Hook. Others in the cast include Debbie Anderson, Jill Carter, Madeline Abling, Mary Jo Jenks, Rocky Rothwell, Scott Carter, Jeff Boyer, Debbie Loos, Mark Johnson and Brett Webb.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — These indeed are the times that try men's souls, particularly those of network executives trying to plan coverage of what President Nixon and the Congress will do next.

But the National Public Affairs Center for Television already is off and running this week with nightly half-hour studies of the crisis brought on by Nixon's sudden ouster of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The mini-specials were arranged after a hurried conference Monday between NPACT and Public Broadcasting Service officials. PBS operates the hookup linking the nation's 239 public TV stations.

A PBS spokesman said NPACT's first show, scheduled for last night, included an exclusive interview with White House speechwriter Pat Buchanan.

The show also was to examine the legal aspects of Nixon's actions and the departure from office of the two Nixon appointees who refused the President's order to fire Cox — Deputy Att. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus and Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

Tonight's NPACT show, scheduled to run at 10 p.m. EDT, will focus on public reaction to Nixon's move, sampling the opinions of community leaders in several cities, PBS says.

Wednesday's show will assess the mood of the Congress and the current cries there for Nixon's impeachment. The themes of the Thursday and Friday shows haven't been decided yet.

As of Monday afternoon, the three TV networks were saying they hadn't planned any similar specials for this week — yet.

The crisis caused by the Cox firing last Saturday prompted CBS and NBC to air two news specials at 11:30 that night. ABC stuck with its regular programming.

The half-hour CBS special was basically a discussion of the case by anchorman Dan Rather and three correspondents.

But NBC pulled out all the stops, bumping a repeat of the "Tonight" show for a 90-minute special anchored by John Chancellor and produced by Frank Jordan, NBC's Washington bureau chief.

'Instant Ocean' brings success to Ohio firm

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A white powder called "Instant Ocean" symbolizes the wave of success a suburban Eastlake firm has been riding since it entered the aquarium business nine years ago.

"Our first concern was for the teaching and research of marine biology in all levels of education," said William E. Kelley, president of Aquarium Systems, Inc.

"But within the past five years, we have seen a new awareness by individuals for the world we live in and with the animals that live in that world," he said.

"Instant Ocean" creates an artificial sea water, one in which salt water fish can survive, and sales have boomed, Kelley said.

Break for smaller counties

Planning agencies vote plan changed

Apparently an opinion voiced by Fayette County officials concerning representation in the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission has been heard at the state level.

State officials have eliminated the requirements that voting representation of government units in multi-county planning agencies be based on the principle of one-man, one vote.

The move leaves the matter of representation open for bargaining among officials of the eight central Ohio counties who are trying to work out the structure of a single planning area.

"It's the feeling of Fayette County delegates that it is now encumbent upon us to make a constructive suggestion on the allocation of voting rights," J. Herbert Perrill said during Tuesday morning's meeting of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

PERRILL, a Fayette County commissioner, is a delegate to the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission along with Carl Janes. Perrill had expressed his displeasure with the matter of representation toMORPC officials two weeks ago at a meeting of the Washington C.H. City Council.

William Habig, executive director of the MORPC, has informed the commission's executive committee of the changes in guidelines drawn by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

He said the rules are now much more flexible. Before the changes, voting rights of various government units in the area had to be based on population.

RURAL AREAS, including Fayette County, balked at the plan, indicating they feared their representation would be too small to be effective against that of metropolitan areas such as Columbus.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan designated large planning districts across the state last April and ordered the state department to make them functional.

Directors of regional planning units across the state will meet Oct. 30 to finalize the rule for the enlarged planning areas.

The seven other central Ohio counties involved in the same district as Fayette County are Franklin, Union, Fairfield, Pickaway, Madison, Delaware and Licking.

Pedestrian jolted; man cited twice

A collision with a parked car at 7:07 p.m., Monday also involved a pedestrian.

Francis C. Langen, 44, of 415 E. Temple St. strick a parked car while driving east in the 400 block of Temple Street. The pedestrian, Mary S. Maddux, 35, of 558 Albin Ave. was standing in front of the parked car, waiting to cross the street.

The initial collision jarred the parked car into the pedestrian and knocked her to the ground. She suffered a back injury.

Moderate damage was done to the Langen vehicle and the parked car, owned by Howard A. Bryant, of 634 McArthur Way. Langen was charged with reckless operation and driving while intoxicated.

A minor accident at Hinde and Court streets at 5:02 p.m., Monday involved Margaret A. Sollars, 49, of 1218 High St., who was stopped behind Oscar S. Miteff, 52, Rt. 4, when her foot slipped off the brake. Damage was slight to both vehicles.

At 9:06 p.m. Joseph A. Carson, 17, of Rt. 1, backed out of a parking place on S. Hinde St. and collided with a parked car on the other side owned by Linda S. Melton, Rt. 6. Damage was slight.

At 11:50 a.m., Monday, a car driven by Edith A. Henderson, 19, of West Virginia attempted to make a left turn off U.S. 35 onto Creek Road. The car behind her, driven by Jefferson D. Bryant, 24, Dayton, attempted to pass and struck the Henderson vehicle.

Damage was slight to both cars, and Bryant was charged with improper passing.

A Hennis Freight Lines semi-trailer kicked up a stone while traveling south on Ohio 41 at 6:45 p.m. Monday and sent it on a collision course for the front windshield of the car behind.

The car, driven by Sylvia I. Elliott, 39, of 511 E. Market St. was the target but damage to her windshield was slight.

'Spacemen' are fined

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two men accused of impersonating "visitors from outer space" have been fined $25 each plus $24.80 in court costs on charges of malicious mischief.

Municipal Judge John States suspended 30-day jail sentences Monday for the two — Stanley Ray Burdyshaw, 18, and William Don Wilson, 21, both of Bono.

State Trooper Daniel Oldham and Deputy Sheriff Bill Finley of Craighead County said about 20 motorists reported Sunday night that "little men in silver suits" were obstructing traffic on U.S. 63 near Bono, about seven miles northwest of here.

Oldham said he and Finley found the two standing at the edge of the highway "covered from head to toe" with aluminum foil.

Motorists complained that the "little men" had been jumping in front of cars, Oldham said.

Alcoholism Council's work explained to Kiwanis Club

The Central Ohio Regional Council on Alcoholism is designed to bring together the fragmentary efforts of small groups working with alcoholics and to promote a coordinated program of education to eliminate the problem, Lowell Beatty, a Columbus attorney, told Kiwanians here Monday night.

Speaking following a dinner in the Lafayette Inn, Beatty explained that the Council was made possible by an appropriation by the Ohio legislature. It covers Franklin, Licking, Fairfield and Delaware counties.

The Council, through trained workers, has set a continuous care program, which starts with detoxification and ends with rehabilitative services. The purpose of the program, Beatty added, is to return the salvage alcoholics to a productive community life.

With the aid of government funds, a course was established at the Ohio Domenican College, Columbus, to train workers how to spot, how to intervene and how to handle alcoholics, he said.

BEATTY was introduced by Harold Heckaman, who arranged the program. The meeting was conducted by President George Gibbs.

Duane French announced the committee for the club's "share-the-treats" program. This committee distributes to needy children the excess treats given to youngsters on Beggars' Night and brought to the city elementary schools the next day.

Gibbs announced that the Washington C.H. club will be host to the Presidents Party at 7 p.m. next Monday at the Lafayette Inn. Presidents of Kiwanis clubs, and their wives, in Division 10-W will be guests.

Guests Monday night were Ronald Lott, with Louie Kuhlwein, Jim Teeters, with Duane French, and Chester Brown, with Heckaman.

Halloween party hosted by K of C

Colman Council 5386, Knights of Columbus, was host Saturday to approximately 30 children of the members and friends at a Halloween party in the headquarters, 153½ S. Fayette St.

A feature of the affair was the costume judging by Mrs. Jo Ann Fisher, Sarah Dean and Linda Lutz. Winners in the three categories were: Prettiest—Janie Penwell, Kitty Pero and Julie Dean; ugliest—DeDe Pero, Patty Murphy and Brenda Kimmet; most original—Cathline Boylan, Diane Cox and Sharon Boylan.

Candy, rolls and cider were the refreshments, and games were held.

Ralph Penwell was the party chairman and Eugene Langen the assistant chairman.

'Bomb threat' delays school

A bomb call caused school to start a half-hour late this morning at Washington Junior High School.

Judging from the voice, a young, male phoned Principal Ben Roby at his office, said there was a bomb in the building and then hung up.

Police and fire officials were dispatched to the scene which they searched without finding anything amiss.

The call came early enough so students could be detained outside the building until safety was assured.

Florence Cross of 126 Grand Ave. reported to police that she hadn't seen her diamond ring for more than a week.

She discovered it missing Monday night from a top drawer bedroom dresser.

A German Shepherd dog bit Sharon D. Bryan, 529 East Market St. on the side of her head, behind her right ear.

The owner of the dog had the dog chained. The Bryan girl was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

KEYS in the ignition was the prelude to a stolen car complaint Monday at 1 p.m.

Gwen Russell had parked her 1965 Pontiac behind the former Sagar store at the corner of Court and North streets. When she returned, it was missing. The car is brown and white.

Two reports of stolen distributor caps in Milledgeville were filed with the Sheriff's Department Monday.

Mike Crowe discovered a theft between 11 p.m., Monday and 5 a.m. today. Margaret Joan Clickner missed the distributer cap on her car between 3 p.m. Sunday and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Grubbs of Good Hope reported at 6 p.m. Monday that a window in her home had been broken with a rock. A 10-year-old boy with a slingshot was apprehended and released to his parents.

Nineteen 8-track tapes were stolen from a car owned by Richard D. Chaffin, Jeffersonville, while it was parked at a restaurant, at 10 p.m. Sunday.

Commissioners OK road-striping work

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday morning adopted a resolution authorizing restriping of six county roads.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, informed commissioners that excessive rainfall during the past 14 months has been very damaging to the centerline markings on the county highways.

A total of 21.14 miles of road will be restriped and the estimated cost of the project is about $95 per mile, Wagner said.

The project will include West Lancaster Road, 3.28 miles; Allen Road, 5.6 miles; Marchant-Luttrell Road, 5.0 miles; Staunton-Jasper Road, from the CCC Highway to Snowhill Road, 2.56 miles; Washington-Hood Hope, 2.3 miles, and Pisgah Road, 1.0 mile.

At the request of Wagner, the commissioners agreed to inspect Jamison Road at the U.S. 35 bypass area in regard to drainage problems that have been created by construction. The inspection tour was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 29 reports for the week.

War I veterans hold conference

The Rev. and Mrs. Cloyce D. Copley, 221 Gardner Ct., accompanied by Mrs. Eunice Draper and Mrs. Nelly Kennedy, have returned from the weekend District 7 meeting of Veterans of World War 1 at Triangle Park, near Hooker, Fairfield County. The Rev. Mr. Copley is cammander of the Washington C.H. barracks and Mrs. Copley is president of the Auxiliary.

Mr. Copley presided at the meeting which was attended by approximately 60 representatives from all six barracks in the district- at Washington C.H., Columbus, Newark, Gahanna, Delaware and Lancaster.

A report of the national convention in Miami, Fla., occupied much of the business session. The Rev. and Mrs. Copley were among those at the convention.

Among the state department officers at the district meeting were Commander William E. Brown, Senior Vice Commander Jason Keller and Chief of Staff Frank Howard. They were accompanied by their wives.

The next district meeting will be held in January at the Capital City barracks in Columbus.

Light agenda for Council

Two items of legislation, both carrying emergency tags, appear on a relatively light agenda for members of Washington C.H. City Council at its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the city office building.

The Union Township Board of Trustees will meet jointly with Council at Wednesday night's meeting. Township business including a Washington Cemetery report, appears first on the agenda to be followed immediately by the regular Council meeting.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council will be considering an emergency ordinance authorizing payment to C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., for a comprehensive engineering study completed by the firm.

Council will also consider an emergency ordinance amending a city ordinance relating to the authorization and establishment of the maximum complement of police specialists within the Washington C.H. Police Department. Four city policemen — Dennis Brown, William Cales, Larry Walker and William Robinson — recently were promoted from the rank of patrolman to police specialist.

Arrests

POLICE—Monday; Larry Dale Vaughan, 18, of 835 Lakeview Ave., failure to yield; Jean Ann Tucker, 33, of 932 Millwood Ave., private warrant for disturbing the peace; Joseph N. Mullins, walkaway, released to Chillicothe VA Hospital.

Armstrong Solarian® is a floor that keeps its promise.

It shines without wax.

Here's a floor that really does shine without waxing! Homemakers from coast to coast have discovered that Solarian keeps its high gloss—without waxing—far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor can, including their neighbor's "no-wax" floors. Spills, dirt, even black heel marks come up easily, ending the drudgery of scrubbing, waxing and stripping.

Money Does Matter . . .

By A.R. Bryant

It's Really Your Most Valuable Asset — Handle With Care !!!

Nothing every really comes easy, and there are most certainly no "easy payments"

High-pressure salesmen, tempting displays and advertisements, the "small-amount-down-and-easy-payments approach — they would all have you believe it is fantastically easy to have whatever you want — but, it just isn't so!

It is cheaper to buy for cash out of income or savings, but carrying charges and interest on deferred payments can often make the total cost astronomically high.

Most of us use credit at one time or another, and most everyone does it wisely.

Used carefully, installment credit can result in improved family standards of living.

Credit is one of your most valuable assets. Use it wisely and with restraint!

Congratulations to:
Robert L. Kunz, Fayette Memorial Hospital Administrator, on being named state director of the American Academy of Medical Administration.

Steve D. Begin on being named the Record-Herald carrier of the month.

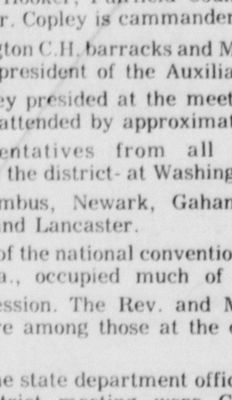

George Gibbs on being installed as president of the Washington C. H. Kiwanis Club.

Patrolmen Dennis Brown, William Robinson, Larry Walker and William Gales, members of the Washington C. H. Police Department on their promotion to the rank of police specialist.

LINDSAY
Rent From $4.50 Per Month

Many families on the tank exchange plan really have half-soft, half-hard water.

This may be true in your home.

Many tank exchange water softeners are connected only to hot water outlets. So, while the hot water tap delivers the benefits of soft water, the cold taps are completely hard.

This means stains under the cold water taps, stains in the tubs and toilets. It means that when you take a bath, you are bathing in half-soft, half-hard water.

Worst of all, it means that when you and your daughters shampoo, your hair is stringy, dull and hard to manage.

Wouldn't you rather have a complete soft water system in both hot and cold taps for about the same as you now pay for tank-exchange?

The remarkable new Lindsey water softener is an automatic, completely modern unit that gives you all the soft water you want, out of both taps. Fully automatic means you never turn a valve, you never change a tank, and there's never a fuss or muss. Furthermore, the Lindsey is as beautiful as any appliance in your home.

The cost? You can usually rent or buy a Lindsey water softener for less than old-fashioned tank-exchange rental costs.

Please, make us prove this statement. Write, or phone. Take the first easy step toward getting rid of half-hard water in your home.

Ohio congressmen split on Nixon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than a fourth of Ohio's Congressional delegation said Monday they would support, or seriously consider, President Nixon's impeachment, expected to come up in discussion before the House today.

The Congressmen were among 11 of Ohio's 23 U.S. House members who were asked the question: "Do you advocate impeachment proceedings against President Nixon in view of the Watergate tapes developments and the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox?"

They were Reps. Charles A. Vanik, D-22, Cleveland; John F. Seiberling, Jr., D-14, Akron; Louis Stokes, D-21, Cleveland, and Charles A. Mosher, R-13, Oberlin.

Two other Republicans, Charles W. Whalen, R-3, Dayton, and Tennyson Guyer, R-4, Findlay, said they would seriously consider impeachment if sufficient evidence was presented to prove the President had violated the law.

Five other Congressmen, four of them Republicans, said they were firmly opposed to the idea. They were Reps. Ronald D. Clancy, R-2, Cincinnati; Ralph Regula, R-16, Navarre; J. William Stanton, D-20, Painesville; Samuel L. Devine, R-12, Columbus and Chalmers P. Wylie, R-15, Worthington.

Other Congressmen, many of whom were enroute to Washington for today's session, could not be reached for comment.

Seiberling, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said he will introduce a resolution today calling for an investigation of the President's actions as a prelude to impeachment.

"I'm leaning toward voting for impeachment," he said.

Republican Guyer said he would not advocate impeachment, "but I'm not going to dodge the issue either."

Asked if there were enough votes in the House to call for impeachment, Guyer said, "It's not impossible under the present climate."

"However, that's like asking a jury before the trial what the verdict will be," he cautioned. "Of course I will consider seriously the question of impeachment should such evidence warrant it," he added.

Rep. Wylie strongly opposed impeachment. "What crime has been committed?" he asked.

"I'm not going to say anything until it's been proven that the President committed a crime...It's not a crime to fire somebody," he said.

Devine said, "I know of no illegal act that would make Nixon subject to impeachment. Second, this Watergate tapes thing has been blown way out of proportion. There used to be a presumption of innocence in this country."

He added, "They couldn't beat him at the polls so they're trying to beat him another way."

In other reaction to Nixon's actions and talk of impeachment, about 160 members of United Auto Workers Local 22 at the Chrysler stamping plant at Twinsburg voted unanimously Sunday in favor of a resolution calling for Nixon to resign. The voters were among 4,500 UAW members at the plant, a union source said.

And a telephone poll conducted by a Dayton radio station WADI tallied 61 per cent of 403 callers favoring impeaching the President.

State Highway crews get set for inspection

State highway crews will be busy this week preparing for the annual fall inspection, while several projects have been scheduled by both the city and state workmen.

Eugene Fitzpatric, superintendent of the Ohio Department of Transportation in Fayette County, said the fall District 6 inspection of the department's snowplows and other equipment will be held at 9 a.m. Monday, Oct. 30. The state highway workers will be finishing painting and cleaning the equipment this week.

In addition, state highway crews will be mowing and possibly installing culvert pipes on Ohio 38 near Yatesville and on Ohio 41-N. Fitzpatric said a crane is scheduled to arrive here today for the culvert pipe installation. State Highway Department workmen are still manning an electricade (flashing arrow) at the I-71-U.S. 35 intersection where a crane collided with the overpass.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said his workers will be repairing W. Market Street from Draper Street to Oakland Avenue, in addition to picking up leaves, cleaning sewers and completing the painting job on Columbus Avenue which was started last week.

County road crews will be working on a bridge on Patton Road and resurfacing roads in Jasper Township. Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County Engineer, said the county workers will be setting the concrete beams on the Miami Trace Road bridge next Tuesday.

Cincy highway artery closed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Traffic on U.S. 42—Reading Road—will be detoured around the boundary line between suburban Reading and Evendale for the next six months.

Part of a four-lane bridge there collapsed in an eroding creek bed Saturday, police said. It will take six months to repair.

The route is an alternate to Interstate 75 and is used heavily by traffic in the industrialized Mill Creek Valley area.

Stamps In The News

For thousands of years, peoples of the earth have yearned for the quality of human rights. Yet a universal declaration of these aspirations is only a quarter of a century old.

To celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the United Nations Postal Administration will issue a new 8-cent stamp on Nov. 16. The original proclamation was adopted by the U.N. on Dec. 10, 1948.

At the bottom of the stamp is the top of the globe from which a flame, representing the burning desire of billions, emanates. At the left is a large emblem of the United Nations. The inscription reads: "25th Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights." The colors are red and orange.

Also scheduled for issuance with this stamp is the fourth in a series of souvenir cards. The card reproduces the new stamp plus nine other U. N. stamps previously issued on the theme of human rights and includes a brief statement by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

First-day covers of the new stamp may be obtained by sending envelopes with proper remittance (in money order or certified check) to United Nations Postal Administration, P.O. Box 5900, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017, prior to Nov. 16. The cards may be purchased in mint condition for $1.13. There is a five-card limit for each customer.

WEST GERMANY honors the 50th anniversary of radio broadcasting in the country with the issuance of a new 30-pfennig stamp, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The first transmitter for regular broadcasts was inaugurated on Oct. 29, 1923, at Voxhaus in Berlin. The new stamp shows the oversize receiver of that day and the famed gooseneck speaker on most sets in use a half century ago.

A 12-VALUE SET of semipostals has been issued by Nicaragua to commemorate the planning and building of that country's first children's hospital. The stamps depict important advances in the prevention and treatment of childhood diseases.

Some of the subjects shown are: immunization, good water supply, antibiotics, malaria, laboratory research, gastro-enteritis and pediatric surgery. The added values on each stamp go towards the hospital building fund.

HOW MANY STAMPS have been issued since the first Penny Black came off the presses in 1840?

You may get a variety of different answers, but Stanley Gibbons Publications of London says you would have more than 167,700. That's why they are claiming in the 39th edition of their "Stamps of the World" catalog now on the market.

The latest edition contains over 33,600 illustrations, 1,312 pages and weighs six pounds.

Rules for women teachers in 1915 listed in bulletin

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — You've come a long way baby and if you don't believe it, consider what women school teachers had to put up with in the "good old days."

In the October issue of the Cabell County Board of Education's school bulletin, the following rules of conduct were excerpted from an article in a 1915 teachers magazine:

1. You will not marry during the term of your contract.
2. You are not to keep company with men.
3. You must be home between the hours of 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless attending a school function.
4. You may not loiter downtown in ice cream stores.
5. You may not travel beyond the city limits unless you have the permission of the chairman of the board.
6. You may not ride in a carriage or automobile with any man unless he is your father or brother.
7. You may not smoke cigarettes.
8. You may not dress in bright colors.
9. You may under no circumstances dye your hair.
10. You must wear at least two petticoats.
11. Your dresses must not be any shorter than two inches above the ankle.
12. To keep the school room neat and clean, you must: sweep the floor at least once daily; scrub the floor at least once a week with hot, soapy water; clean the blackboards at least once a day; and start the fire at 7 a.m. so the room will be warm by 8 a.m.

Police investigate spaceman accident

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Police said Jackie Lee Sparks, 20, escaped serious injury Sunday when his car ran off a county road and rolled over three times. He said the mishap occurred when he swerved to avoid a man in a silver suit.

Sparks offered no other details. Police said they could not locate the uniformed man.

Rice, peanuts objects of new plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz is thinking about calling a news conference this week to announce new strategy for seeking congressional overhaul of federal rice and peanut programs, informed sources say.

The tentative plan is to announce details of the 1974 acreage programs for rice and peanuts under existing law.

In addition, the sources say, Butz is ready to unveil a plan to seek congressional permission to move those crops under the target-price support concept that will go into effect next year for wheat, feed grains and upland cotton.

Butz also wants extra-long staple cottons (ELS) included in the target-price method, the sources say.

Under the target-price system, established by Congress in the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, producers are guaranteed a relatively high price for a portion of their crop needed to meet domestic and export demands. Should the cash market price average fall below the target, government subsidies will be paid to growers to make up the difference. If market prices are higher — as they appear now for 1974 — no payments are made.

Peanuts, rice and ELS cotton are locked separately into older programs which call for what Butz and other farm officials say are unrealistically high supports and tough restraints.

In a speech to a co-op in Syracuse, N.Y., last Friday, Butz spoke of some of the limiting factors in agriculture.

"Perhaps the most frustrating of all limits are governmental restraints," he said. "We've taken most of them off the major commodities. We still have government restraints on some commodities where we don't need them anymore, like peanuts, rice and extra-long staple cotton."

Sources have said the proposal calls for a peanut target price of about $253 per ton, compared with the average national price support this year of $328.50 per ton, a boost under the old law's escalator requirement of $43.50 from $972.

The sources say rice might be proposed for a target of around $5.50 per hundredweight, compared with a 1973 price-support loan of $6.07 per 100 pounds.

Although no advance details were immediately available for ELS cotton, one source said similar adjustments would be made for it to reflect world and domestic prices.

High court nixes hearing on vo-ed schools lawsuit

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)— The Ohio Supreme Court will not consider a suit challenging state aid to vocational schools, E. Dennis Barnes, who filed the suit, said Monday.

Barnes, a member of the Upper Sandusky School Board, said he was notified by the high court that his suit was not explicit enough about why he wants next month's vote on a proposed vocational school levy off the ballot in Wyandot and Crawford counties.

Barnes contends the Ohio Constitution only permits funding of regular schools, not schools that teach skills.

He has a similar suit pending in the state court of appeals in Lima.

Marathon sets Irish meetings

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Studies are underway on the feasibility of developing a new natural gas reserve discovered in the Celtic Sea off Ireland, Marathon Oil Co. officials said Monday.

Company officials described the new find as smaller than other offshore fields scheduled for development in the North Sea.

They said they are negotiating with the Irish government to develop the pocket.

Night club thugs get 'thousands'

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Police in northern Kentucky and Cincinnati today searched for two bandits who robbed Newport's plush Beverly Hills nightclub of "thousands of dollars."

Suburban Southgate and Fort Thomas police said seven employes were bound and gagged by the ski-masked robbers. Six of the employes were struck with pistols.

The men, described as "tall and muscular" broke into the club around 5:30 a.m. Monday and captured three workmen there for remodeling.

As employes arrived, they were bound, gagged and struck if they resisted.

Bookkeeper Mrs. Charlotte Dorning, 58, said the gunmen forced her to open two safes.

"There were all the receipts taken in Sunday night. It was supposed to have been our best night ever," she said.

Police said the gunmen knew their way around the club and where the safes were located.

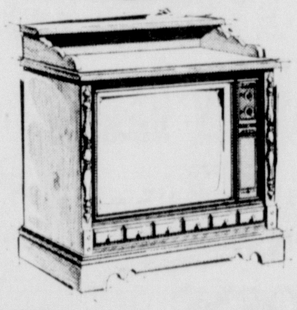

The men escaped about four hours after the break-in taking Mrs. Dorning's 1965 auto.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Your judgment somewhat "cloudy" now — especially when it comes to financial matters. Avoid any urge to speculate: Your guesses are likely to be wrong.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Under a good Venus aspect, your inventiveness is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

If you have doubts or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reasons for hesitancy.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant — and you'll gain more.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Despite a few obstacles, many benefits and new means of attainment are indicated. Especially favored: romance, travel, family interests.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some pressures possible Don't try to bluff your way out of situations but face up to them. You'll not only get better results but those in authority will be impressed.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

An analytical look at your position may indicate some new avenues to pursue. Keep an easy yet alert eye on future moves. Taper off in late hours to relax.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

If expanding operations, proceed cautiously. Consider all facets, trends. You are usually at your best when going forward, but at times you MUST stand and wait.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

This is a day in which you could fall prey to schemers if not alert. Do not be fearful, but DO make every effort to get to the truth of all matters.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Act swiftly if conditions seem right, but proceed slowly where the going is tricky and there are obstacles which cannot be overlooked.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A new surge of energy would carry you far along the road to success and recognition. But be sure of your goals. Don't go off on tangents.

YOU BORN TODAY: Your outstanding trait is perseverance, backed by dispassionate reasoning and a desire to see all things well with all peoples. You can move mountains with this ardor and faith! You abhor contention, quibbling; are generous, shrewd, do not waste tie with picayune thoughts. You are suited to positions of trust. Keep your integrity intact: You normally use fair tactics and expect the same from all. Harmony is your big keyword.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Do door-to-door salesmen have a legal right to come calling at your home? Generally speaking, they do indeed, according to the United States Supreme Court.

"The knocker on the front door," the Court has ruled, "is an invitation."

But invitations can be revoked. And one way you can revoke this particular invitation is by posting a notice saying "NO SOLICITING, PLEASE" — or words to that effect.

Any solicitor who disregards such a notice would probably be considered a trespasser. This, in turn, would reduce your chances of liability in case he happens to stumble over a stray toy or trip on a broken step.

For the duty of a householder toward a trespasser is slight. You are not required to clear away hazards on your premises, but merely to refrain from injuring him recklessly or on purpose.

What about "NO SOLICITING" signs on apartment houses? Often posted by landlords, these signs have been attacked in court as an infringement of free speech — that is, the freedom to speak directly to individual tenants.

BUT COURTS have held that this is a reasonable and lawful way for a landlord to protect his tenants from being pestered.

This does not mean, however, that the landlord has unlimited control over access to the apartments in his building. In one case, an apartment house owner forbade any and all tradesmen to enter his building. When a grocer arrived to deliver fresh vegetables to a tenant, the landlord threw him out bodily.

In short order the grocer filed suit for damages, and the landlord was held liable on grounds of assault and battery. The court said the tenant had the right of access to his own apartment, and, by ordering merchandise to be delivered, he had extended that right to the grocer.

ROME (AP) — In one year Italians make intercontinental telephone calls amounting to about 17 million minutes, the government reports. Some calls are for business, but many are personal calls to Italian emigrants abroad, particularly in the Americas.

Ohio Perspective

Random auto checks successful

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Statistics from the state highway patrol are helping convince the federal government that Ohio's random inspection of motor vehicles may be better than the mandatory annual inspection the feds proposed.

"Our death rates are much lower than those from states with the mandatory inspections," patrol Maj. Donald Manley said.

In addition, he said, Ohio gets many spin-off benefits from its inspections—drunk drivers, stolen cars and no operator's license.

Manley said he thinks the Ohio random inspection program would get federal approval within the next few weeks.

The National Highway Traffic Administration recently issued minimum federal standards for autos in an effort to force all states to adopt a mandatory inspection program.

The agency threatened to cut 10 per cent of a state's highway funds if it didn't comply.

Thirty-one state have periodic vehicle inspection programs and nine others, including Ohio, have spot or random checks.

"I think that word random first threw them," Manley said, "but I believe they were impressed after learning what our checks were all about."

Ohio has 27 inspection teams — two mechanics and a patrolman—that roam the state, setting up vehicle inspection stops.

In addition, each of the state's 1,327 highway patrolmen are on inspection duty. They can keep unsafe cars from moving until they are fixed.

"Less than 5 per cent of Ohio accidents are caused by defective vehicles," Manley said. "Speed and drinking driving cause most of them."

Mandatory inspections requiring taking the vehicle to a garage—privately owned or stateoperated—would cost more than $100 million a year and inconvenience the motorist, the Patrol feels.

Mandatory Inspections haven't worked too well in state's that have them, said Manley. They cost around $5 each for the motorist and there have been repeated charges of kickbacks for having an inspection station franchise. A regular garage customer might find it easier to get an approved sticker.

"Our job is to prevent accidents," Manley said. "we think what we are doing now accomplishes it to a better degree."

Scabies outbreak raising fears

WASHINGTON (AP) — New outbreaks of scabies, a skin disease caused by tiny mites, in cattle are raising fears that another onslaught of the malady may be approaching, according to Agriculture Department officials.

The most recent cases have been reported in Iowa, Nebraska and Indiana, according to the department's Animal and Health Inspection Service. Others have occurred in the southwest, where the disease two years ago spread quickly and prompted state and federal quarantine actions.

Dr. J.M. Hejl of the inspection service says authorities believe most of the recent scabies outbreaks in the Midwest result in cattle shipped from the Southwest. Federal quarantines still remain in effect in two counties in New Mexico and in four Texas Panhandle counties.

"There is no plan now to enlarge the federal quarantines," Hejl told a reporter Thursday. "But this needs to be watched closely, particularly over the next few months."

At one time, following the scabies outbreak in late 1971, dozens of counties were under federal quarantine as part of a control program to head off the worst outbreak of the disease in 30 years.

Those restrictions included curbs on shipment of cattle from disease areas unless they were inspected, dipped or otherwise handled to avoid spread of the mites into other areas.

Scabies is not usually a fatal disease to cattle, but it can debilitate animals quickly and result in profit losses to producers.

WCH preserves hefty AP poll lead

Marion Pleasant somersaults to fourth in Class A ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Newark Catholic replaced Marion Pleasant as the Class A high school football leader today in The Associated Press state ratings.

Pleasant's 31-8 loss to Class AA River Valley, ending Ohio's longest ever winning streak at 44 games last week somersaulted the defending small school champions to fourth place.

Meanwhile, Warren Western Reserve in Class AAA and Washington Court House in Class AA preserved impressive leads in the other two divisions.

Western Reserve, carrying a 24-game winning streak that includes seven 1973 victories, rolled up 292 points to 215 for Cincinnati Moeller, the No. 2 team again in Class AAA.

Washington Court House, which has posted seven straight shutouts this season, earned 225 points in Class AA. Minerva was second again with 199 points.

Newark Catholic, a former Class A state king, moved up from the second spot a week ago. The unbeaten Green Wave, 6-0-0, collected 210 points to 195 for runnerup Cory Rawson. Ada was third again with 164 points.

Pleasant has won the last two AP state titles as well as the first Class A playoff crown last fall.

McDonald was sixth in Class A, followed by Portsmouth Notre Dame, Sugar Grove Berne Union, Norwalk St. Paul and Kirtland. St. Paul, a former Ohio champion with a 7-0-0 start this season, was the lone newcomer to the small school top ten.

Canton McKinley, an ex-Ohio champion in Class AAA, was the lone new face among the big schools. The Bulldogs, once beaten in seven games, surged into the No. 10 spot.

Cincinnati Bacon, tenth a week ago and a 14-0 victim of Moeller, fell to 13th.

Akron Garfield again was third and Massillon fourth in Class AAA.

Zanesville was fifth, Fremont Ross sixth, Newark seventh, Barberton eighth, Youngstown Mooney ninth and McKinley No. 10.

Newark Licking Valley climbed into the Class AA tenth slot, replacing Bellaire. Bellaire, tied 0-0 by Wheeling, W. Va., Central, tumbled to a tie for 19th this week.

Cincinnati Reading was third in Class AA and then came Ironton, Dayton Jefferson, Lisbon Beaver Local, Akron St. Mary, Columbus Watterson, Cleveland Benedictine and Licking Valley.

A state-wide panel of sports writers and broadcasters conducts the ratings each week.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here's how a state-wide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school football teams this week for The Associated Press (10 points for first to 1 point for tenth):

Wildlife license price hike looms

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Wildlife has just finished the 1973 fiscal year in the red. As a result, hunters and fishermen may see an increase in their licenses in the future.

Dan Armbruster, chief of the division, said expenditures totaled $602,002 more than revenue in this fiscal year. In 1972, the division was in the black by $694,598.

Armbruster said division revenue increased from $6,810,066 in the 1972 fiscal year to $7,072,760 for the year which ended June 30.

At the same time, expenditures jumped $1,559,294, from $6,115,468 in 1972 to $7,674,762 in 1973.

Hunting and trapping license sales were about the same for the two years. Fishing license sales were up slightly.

Increases also came from federal funds and more pollution and stream litter fines.

Armbruster said the expenditures jumped in three main areas: pay raises for all state employes, inflation and the State Controlling Board's release of $1,731,446 from the Wildlife Fund for capital improvements.

More than 2,000 acres were acquired with some of the latter funds, he said.

Inflation has hit the division hard. It's printing costs alone rose 40 per cent in one year, Armbruster said.

Costs of food for birds and fish, supplies and vehicle repairs all jumped. The most drastic increase was in goose food. It went from $100 to $300 a ton.

Armbruster has not curtailed any division programs, but he's told employes to make do with what they have.

Stone for parking areas and access roads has been drastically reduced. Printing is being limited to licenses and permits, about a half dozen new lake maps and the necessary administrative forms.

Armbruster has appointed a committee to review potential sources of increased income for the division. He expects an increase in fishing and hunting license fees will be seriously considered.

At the same time, the committee has recommended several ways to reduce expenditures without hurting any of the division's basic programs. Armbruster said some of these already are in operation.

Raiders, Broncos tie, 23-23

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncos, who've died by the field goal twice this season, learned to live with it Monday night as the Jim Turner-George Blanda kicking duel ended in a standoff.

Turner's third field goal of the second half, a 35-yarder with three seconds to play, enabled Denver to salvage a 23-23 tie with the favored Oakland Raiders in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Blanda, the 46-year-old marvel, also had three successful boots, and his final one, from 49 yards out with 36 seconds left, appeared to have won it for the Raiders.

Denver had lost to San Francisco 36-34 and to Kansas City 16-14 earlier this season by fourth-quarter field goals. It looked like more of the same until Charley Johnson moved the Broncos 34 yards on three plays to the Raider 28-yard line, setting up Turner's kick.

"You can't take anything away from George's kick," Turner said, "but as soon as he hit it we felt we could get it right back."

The deadlock dropped the Raiders into a first-place tie with Kansas City in the American Conference's Western Division. Both clubs have 3-2-1 records. Denver stayed in contention with a 2-3-1 mark.

Prince Lobell wins feature at Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Prince Lobell captured his eighth win in 30 starts Monday night with a wire-to-wire fourlength victory in the featured race at Lebanon Raceway.

The conditioned pace victory paid $6.00, $3.00 and $2.40. My Shannondoah returned $2.80 and $2.60 for second. The show horse was All Ann, paying $3.20.

Jessie's Honor and Quaker Jerry, 5-1, returned $16.00 in the daily double.

A crowd of 1,293 wagered $97,519.

Advances to Miami, Fla. contest

Schlichter wins area PP&K

Art Schlichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Schlichter, Myers Rd., has advanced another step in his quest for top honors in Ford Motor Co.'s 1973 Punt, Pass & Kick Contest.

Art, who is in the eighth grade at Madison Mills, won the area competition of the PP&K for 13-year-olds Sunday at halftime of the Cincinnati Bengals and Kansas City Chiefs professional football game at Riverfront Stadium.

The talented athlete scored 327 points against his opponent in Sunday's competition.

THE WHOLE weekend was a very special event for the PP&K contestants. Saturday night all the contestants, parents of the contestants, Ford Motor Co. representatives and three Cincinnati Bengals players attended a banquet. The boys received autographs of the Bengal players plus talked with them.

Then Sunday was the area competition. All of the winners Sunday had there names flashed on the big multi-million dollar scoreboard at Riverfront Stadium for the fans to see.

The next step for Art will be the divisional competition Dec. 15 at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla. There he will be in a playoff before the Miami Dolphins game and the six winners will compete at halftime on nationwide television. If Art should happen to win at Miami he will then compete in the national competition for the American Football Conference at the Super Bowl in Houston, Tex., Jan. 13.

This year when the PP&K contest started there were 1,400,000 participants. After Sunday's competition, Art was one of 120 boys left competing in the United States.

PP&K WINNER — Art Schlichter, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Schlichter, Myers Rd., receives a trophy from Mike Shanks, district manager with Ford Motor Co., after he had captured honors in the district PP&K competition at Cincinnati Princeton High School. The Schlichter youth won the area competition last Sunday and will advance to divisional level Dec. 15 at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla.

USING HIS HEAD — Louisiana State University's Ken Addy puts his head into Kentucky cornerback Ben Thomas (2 3) who was attempting to block Rusty Jackson's punt in a game at Baton Rouge. Jackson got off the kick and LSU squeezed by with a 28-21 win.

Alabama pushing OSU in grid poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first nine teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today, but Alabama closed in on top-ranked Ohio State and Nebraska nosed back into the Top Ten.

Ohio State defeated Indiana 37-7 Saturday and received 35 first-place ballots and 1,126 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters who voted in this week's poll.

Runner-up Alabama earned 12 votes for the top spot and 1,042 points for a 42-21 triumph over previously unbeaten Tennessee that dropped the Vols from 10th place to 14th.

Last week, the margin was 1,113-930.

Third-place Oklahoma walloped Colorado 34-7 and picked up eight first-place votes and 953 points. Michigan trounced Wisconsin 35-6 and remained fourth with one first-place vote and 857 points.

Four voters picked Penn State No. 1 following a 49-6 rout of Syracuse and the fifth-place Nittany Lions pulled down 709 points. Southern California, the defending national champion, stayed sixth with 629 points for a 31-10 decision over Oregon.

The other first-place vote and 541 points went to No. 7 Missouri, a 13-9 victor over Oklahoma State.

Notre Dame crushed Army 62-3 and received 508 points while Louisiana State downed Kentucky 28-21 and earned 402 points.

Nebraska, ranked second two weeks ago, dropped to 11th last week after a 13-12 loss to Missouri. Saturday's 10-9 decision over Kansas lifted both teams in the ratings, Nebraska from 11th to 10th and Kansas from 18th to 17th.

Arizona State, 12th last week, climbed to 11th, followed by Houston, UCLA, Tennessee, Tulane, Miami of Ohio, Kansas, Texas Tech, Texas and Richmond.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Nebraska, Arizona State, UCLA, Houston, Miami of Florida, Colorado, Tulane, Kansas, Arizona and Miami of Ohio.

Miami of Florida dropped out with a 30-7 loss to Houston, Oklahoma knocked Colorado out and Texas Tech handed Arizona its first defeat 31-17, ousting the Wildcats.

The Top Twenty, with firstplace votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-1816-14-12

1. Ohio State (35)	5-0-0	1,126

Blake sparkles in Wittenberg punting chores

SPRINGFIELD — Jeff Blake came through in the clutch Saturday for Wittenberg University's unbeaten and ninth-ranked Tigers.

Blake, a junior from Miami Trace High School, stepped into big shoes as Wittenberg University's punter after the team's regular kicker suffered a knee injury.

In last Saturday's 38-0 victory over the College of Wooster, Blake had a day fit almost for a pro football kicker.

The big blond averaged 37 yards a kick under pressure from one of the best defensive lines in the Ohio Conference. Blake's longest boot was a 54-yarder that went out of sight above the press box windows giving his teammates plenty of time to get downfield and cover the return.

Wittenberg has a 6-0 record, and is fourth in the nation in scoring with a 34 points average, while the Tigers defense is fifth in the country giving up five points a game, but no touchdowns by rushing.

Bengals get ready for Steelers clash

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals, off to the best start in their six-year history, brace for Sunday's rematch with the revenge-minded Pittsburgh Steelers.

"We're playing consistently hard football," said Coach Paul Brown Monday. "How long we can keep it up is the test."

New England Whalers top Golden Blades, 4-1

BOSTON (AP) — New England Whalers' Coach Ron Ryan praised his defense, offense and goalie Monday night after his team downed the New York Golden Blades 4-1 in World Hockey Association play.

The game at Boston Garden was the only one in the WHA. There was no action in the National Hockey League.

World baseball expansion seen by Kuhn in 10 years

NEW YORK (AP) — It is October 1984. The opening game of the World Series matches the Peking Reds and the New York Yankees.

Preposterous? Not at all, says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn says he expects more major league expansion in the next few years, and he'd like to see Japanese teams in the American majors right now.

"It would certainly be possible to have a Pacific League, with American teams from the West Coast and Honolulu, Japanese teams like Tokyo and Osaka and perhaps Taiwan and Manila.

"And, can Peking be far behind?" asked the commissioner in an interview Monday. His remark was half in jest and half serious.

With improved relations between the West and Mainland China and with air travel speeds increasing all the time, there is no reason why athletic teams from the Orient could not compete regularly with Western Hemisphere teams.

Kuhn said baseball is on the verge of expansion—perhaps not immediately, but not before too long. He mentioned such cities as Toronto, Seattle, New Orleans and Mexico City as prime candidates.

"We'd like to be playing in Mexico City and Toronto right now," Kuhn said. "There is no reason why not."

Travel is virtually no problem. The flying time from Seattle to Tokyo is less than six hours. West Coast major league teams already are flying more than five hours to get to the East Coast.

Japanese baseball is very well developed and well supported. A number of American ex-major leaguers are playing for Japanese teams.

As far as is known, the sport has not been introduced in Mainland China, but Taiwan has an extensive program, and the Taiwan entry in the Little League World Series has won two straight World Titles.

Lindsey may return to Cleveland Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns reportedly have asked Dale Lindsey to come back and fill the vacancy created when middle linebacker Billy Andrews left last week for back surgery.

Lindsey was with the Browns for eight years before being cut last summer. The New Orleans Saints picked him up but released him earlier this month.

Four candidates seek two seats on city school board

Four candidates will be seeking two seats on the Washington C. H. Board of Education at the Nov. 6 election.

The terms of Fred L. Domenico, currently as the board's vice president, and Mark J. Schaeper expire. Schaeper has chosen not to seek re-election.

Domenico will be seeking re-election and will be opposed by Mrs. Kathryn G. Lee, Philip M. Morrow and John D. Wedgewood.

DOMENICO, 51, of 137 River Rd., is completing his third four-year term on the board of education. A field underwriter for the New York Life Insurance Co., he served as board president for two terms. A 1949 graduate of Ohio State University, he has been a resident of Washington C. H. the past 18 years and previously served as a teacher and head football coach here.

Domenico is a member of the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School Board and serves as chairman of the Educational Committee. He is immediate past president of the Washington C. H. Rotary Club, president of the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Community Improvement Corp. board and a member of the Ohio School Board Association. He and his wife, Ruth, have two children.

MRS. LEE, 44, of 521 E. Market St., moved here 10 years ago when her husband, Robert J., was named manager of the J. C. Penney Co., store. He is now a partner in the Fayette Supply Co.

Mrs. Lee, a graduate of Capital University, has served as a probation officer in the Erie County juvenile court, has taught Sunday School 16 years at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church where she and her family attend, presently serves as chairman of the youth ministry at the church, is a former 4-H Club leader, a Camp Fire Girl sponsor and is currently group organization chairman for the Camp Fire Girls.

She is vice president of the local adult American Field Service chapter and a substitute teacher in the local schools. Mrs. Lee is city chairman of the Community Chest drive, co-chairman of the local Humanities Council, a member of the advisory committee for the community school project and a member and past president of the Washington C. H. branch of the American Association of University Women. She and her husband have four children.

MORROW, 43, of 644 Warren Ave., has been a personnel advisor with the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division since coming here in 1961. He has been associated with Armco the past 20 years. Born in Ashland, Ky., he was raised in Middletown.

He is a former member of the Washington C. H. Jaycees, past president of the Washington C. H. Lions Club, a past president of the Belle Aire PTA, a member of the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce and serves on the Session of the First Presbyterian Church. He and his wife, Faye, have two children.

WEDGEWOOD, 28, of 1025 Dayton Ave., has been a Miami Trace School mathematics teacher since 1966. Born in Cincinnati, he is a 1966 graduate of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill. and received his master's degree in education at the University of Dayton in 1973.

He is a member of the administrative council at Grace United Methodist Church, a member of the community Drama Service Workshop and is a past president of the Miami Trace Association.

2 youths held in fatal shooting

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Two Taft High School students were shot, one fatally, in what police described as "horseplay" in a park Monday night.

Dead is Carl Ray Taylor, 16. Charles D. Helpinsteine, 14, remained in critical condition following surgery at Hamilton Mercy Hospital. Both had been shot once in the chest.

Lt. Wayne Rose, juvenile officer, said two other boys were being held. Rose said he had recovered two .22-caliber rifles near the scene after interviewing the two.

Lt. Charles Reid said a massive police search for a "sniper" was launched when the two boys in custody said they had been fired upon by gunmen who shot their companions.

The incident occurred around 6:30 p.m. in the Cliffview Outdoor Environmental Center, a 28-acre park owned by the Hamilton Board of Education.

No charges were filed immediately. The case remained under investigation.

The bodies of the two boys were found on a large concrete slab on which a recreation center had once been located.

Det. Darrell Philpot said he was playing football near the park with his two boys, and heard "half a dozen shots."

"I was about to go down there when two kids—they were dirty—came out and said 'can you help us, a couple of boys have been shot.'"

When Philpot arrived, two more shots rang out. He covered the bodies and ordered the others to crawl away. Help was summoned.

Police Chief George McNally said the last shots were fired in another part of the park and were apparently unrelated to the incident under investigation.

McNally said the nature center has long been a problem area for police.

"It is almost impossible to police," he said, "there is no road we can use and there is a small wooden bridge over Two Mile Creek which runs through it.

"We had to buy motorcycles so we could police this thing but it has been a real problem. We've had rapes, vandalism, illegal hunting,—everything in here."

Eastern Europe eyes U.S. grains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Europe, a seven-nation bloc that has been dependent upon the Soviet Union for much of its grain imports, is expected to turn more to U.S. farmers by 1980, the Agriculture Department said today.

The prediction was included in a new study by the Economic Research Service. Although Eastern Europe will need less imported grain over-all, the U.S. portion should increase from the current level, the report said.

Increased livestock production, undertaken to meet a rising demand for red meat, also will mean a larger market for U.S. soybeans and soybean meal, the report said.

Ford strike seen possible

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A United Auto Workers union leader has warned of a possible strike at the big Ford Motor Co. engine plant and foundry complex here.

Thurman Payne, acting president of United Auto Workers Local 1250, said Monday that negotiations on local issues are almost stalemated. After more than 30 bargaining sessions, he said, the union leaders "are not in a position at this point to make any report to the membership."

Payne said there are more than 100 issues yet to be resolved before a 10 a.m. Monday deadline. Even if a national agreement is reached, he said, it is possible that the 10,000 workers at the three plants may strike.

Payne said a strike at the huge engine plant complex could "tie up 68 per cent of Ford's operations across the country."

Sen. Armstrong urges support for Issue No. 1

COLUMBUS—State Sen. Harry L. Armstrong urges support of Issue 1 which will appear on the ballot this November.

The issue reads:

"Shall Section 36 of Article II of the Ohio Constitution be amended to permit agricultural land to be valued for taxation in accordance with its agricultural use?

If adopted, this amendment shall take effect January 1, 1974 and the existing section shall be repealed from such date."

At present all land must be taxed at its current market value. Recently, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled this means all real property must be taxed at its "highest and best use." This decision is causing farms near cities to be reappraised and taxed at the price they would bring if sold for industrial or commercial use, such as, a shopping center.

Sen. Armstrong said: "Around cities these high tax rates force farmers to sell their land to land developers. We can not afford to put additional burdens on our farmers. We need the produce of our farmers and we need open space near our cities."

This bill exempts only land used for agricultural purposes from the higher market value.

Cincy woman killed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Elizabeth McWillson, 46, of Cincinnati, was killed and four other persons were injured Monday when a dump truck lost its brakes and slammed broadside into their car, police said.

To do it yourself

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There are times when it doesn't pay to do it yourself, advises plumber Dominick Posca of Redding, Conn. In fact, if people would take that advice Dom could enjoy Sundays with his family. As it is, Sunday is the day when he gets most of his unusual jobs, he says, because weekends are the busiest times for do-it-yourselfers.

In Dom's words, "they start off Saturday morning buying a lot of tools to do a job, and then, watch out . . ."

"One man screwed the pressure switch on his pump way down and blew the top of the tank right off," Dom says. "The pressure is supposed to remain at 55 or 60 — tanks only go for 75 pounds per square inch. But he had it up to about 100 pounds . . ."

If he had let a plumber do it in the first place the job would have taken about 10 minutes, Dom remarked.

The main bathroom fixture is a favorite target of do-it-yourselfers. It might be a simple job like installing a new set, he remarked. One man bought about $50 worth of tools and in the end he cracked the porcelain fixture and had to have a complete new installation.

Another man decided to do what should be one of the simplest jobs — installing a new ball fitting inside the water closet. He broke the section of the pipe that goes into the wall and thereby ran up an $80 bill. If he had called a plumber in the first place the job might have been only about $30, observed Dom.

And then there is the man who brought a kitchen faucet at a do-it-yourself supply house with the idea of installing it himself. He estimated later the entire deal with tools cost him about $70. But, then, he couldn't remove the old faucet to install a new one (the faucet had been stepped on and broken when the do-it-yourselfer had been doing some kitchen cabinet work.) It took the plumber about a half hour to get the faucet off, Dom said, and he had to charge him $40, which would have been what he might have paid for the job in the first place. But the installation of the faucet actually cost the would-be-do-it-yourselfer about $125, not counting the gas to the supply house which is about a half hour from the man's town.

Dom doesn't complain that his Sundays are taken up by the do-it-yourselfers or that on hot Saturdays he may be hooking up a new washing machine for a woman with a big family. He couldn't turn them down, he says, especially since he "doesn't want to see anybody go without water." And lots of jobs involve situations where the water must be turned off.

In the true sense of his profession, Dom is an emergency worker, which many plumbers are not, these days. His boss, Trygve Hanson, has told him he will not take any more Sunday jobs if Dom says the word. But Dom continues to "feel sorry for the people."

In fact he and his helper, Sal Gradia, of Bethel, Conn., live at least a half hour away from their jobs in Wilton, but they arrive at the toughest jobs with big grins on their faces, as if they were bolstering morale. The owner may just worry "what do they know that I don't know." The answer is: plenty. Sometimes Dom gets "a big laugh" out of some of the jobs he faces — mistakes made by do-it-yourselfers, even though he is in complete sympathy with their plight. He thinks of his five-year apprenticeship necessary to become a plumber and wonders why the home owner attempts such jobs in the first place.

But the two are the first to admit they can still learn a lot. They learn "a little something on almost any job," Dom explained.

In fact there is a do-it-yourself plumbing book that both have read that has given them new insight into a lot of things. But it is written in such technical fashion, Sal remarked, that even they do not understand a lot of it. How then, can do-it-yourselfers manage with such a book, they wonder. But they suspect a lot of them own the book . . . or another like it.

Of course, somewhere, there are do-it-yourselfers who have been successful in their plumbing attempts. But as Dom says, he has little opportunity to meet them.

The island of Newfoundland is separated from the mainland by the Strait of Belle Isle, about nine miles wide at the narrowest point.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - two of hearts.

Assume you're in three notrump and West leads the deuce of hearts. You win with the ten and see there are only six tricks you can take at once.

You can try for the other three tricks in two ways. (Remember that you don't see the East-West hands.) One is to lead the queen of diamonds and finesse, in which case you make nine tricks if West has the king. The other way is to force out the ace of spades, in which case you make nine tricks provided West started with only four hearts.

Your decision is crucial. If you try the diamond finesse and it loses, you are sure to go down even if West has only four hearts (you would lose three hearts, a diamond and a spade). But if you lead a spade and West has only four hearts, you will make the contract (you would lose three hearts and a spade).

How do you decide what to do? The answer is that if West religiously leads his fourth-best card, you should attack spades and shun the diamond finesse. West, in such case, would have to pay for his zeal about fourth-best leads and you would make three notrump.

But what if West is a player who, on occasion, leads fifth best from a long suit? In that event you would have a tough decision to make and be forced to rely entirely on your instinct.

In the actual hand, South attacked spades and went down — when he could have made the contract by relying on a diamond finesse. It turned out that West, though habitually a fourth-best leader, in the present case was clever enough to realize that his partner had absolutely no values — and that only the declarer could be fooled by a fifth-best lead.

Speaking of Your Health...

Airlines Segregating Smokers

Airlines have finally and wisely realized that the personal health and liberties of their passengers are affected by tobacco smoke in the closed confines of an airplane.

It is now possible to choose a non-smoking compartment free from exposure to the hazards of other people's smoke. Movie houses and theaters long ago have given their patrons this choice.

There are still many areas where the captive audience in trains and elevators must pay a penalty for another person's smoking indulgence.

One reader from Nevada amusingly wrote that he was unable to enjoy his game of Blackjack because everybody at his table puffed smoke directly into his face. He wanted me to suggest that certain tables be set aside for non-smokers.

He added, "What's the use of winning if I'll be too sick to enjoy my profits?" Facetious as that sounds, there is scientific validity to the fact that non-smokers are subject to health hazards when exposed to the concentrated smoke of others.

People with chronic bronchitis, emphysema or asthma are severely burdened when they are caught in a closed room filled with cigarette smoke.

Cigar smokers are a special menace of their own in a poorly ventilated room.

The fact that impurities in cigars are not nearly so hazardous as those in cigarettes does not minimize the fact that cigar smokers leave the telltale evidence of their presence long after they have left the room.

It may be impossible to convince some cigarette smokers that their health can be seriously affected by cigarettes. It is not impossible, however, to find ways to protect non-smokers from the burdens imposed on them in all public places of assembly.

Trappist monks forced off farms

CONYERS, Ga. (AP) — Trappist monks, traditionally farmers, have been forced by the American economy to get out of farming and into arts and crafts.

"We once had a thriving dairy farm, but the buildings are all empty now," said Father Paul, waving a hand at the red brick barn. "The economy forced us out of farming and out of raising pigs and chickens, too. We've diversified now, into arts and crafts."

On a chilly March day in wartime 1944, 20 monks from Gethsemane, Ky., came to this small town near Atlanta, displaced 20 cows and two mules from Honeycreek Farm and founded the Monastery of the Holy Spirit.

After the war, an influx of men joined the monastic order of Cistercian monks, one of the ancient orders of Europe. They are devoted to work and prayer and a way of life designed to prevent the world from coming between them and God.

In the quarter of a century since they arrived, they have built awe-inspiring buildings with their own hands, along the lines of the Old World cloisters of classic beauty.

When farming proved unprofitable, they turned to baking bread and selling it to supermarkets, constructing stained glass. They still raise some plants and vegetables and also own a herd of about 50 Black Angus cattle.

Farming is only one of the changes. Recent revisions of the Roman Catholic dogma have relaxed some of the austerity of the monastic life although it is still an ascetic one.

Once totally vegetarian, they now eat meat about four times a year — on festive religious occasions.

They also have a color television set and can submit requests for special programs. Usually they see educational programs only but have viewed programs such as the Apollo 11 landings.

Their rule of silence among themselves still prevails. But they now greet all visitors freely.

The community, which numbers 60, spends much of its time in prayer in a church of vaulted ceilings and magnificent stained glass. In the darkness before daylight, they are chanting the Mass.

Said one monk:

"Hear the silence. It's so quiet out here — and it always is."

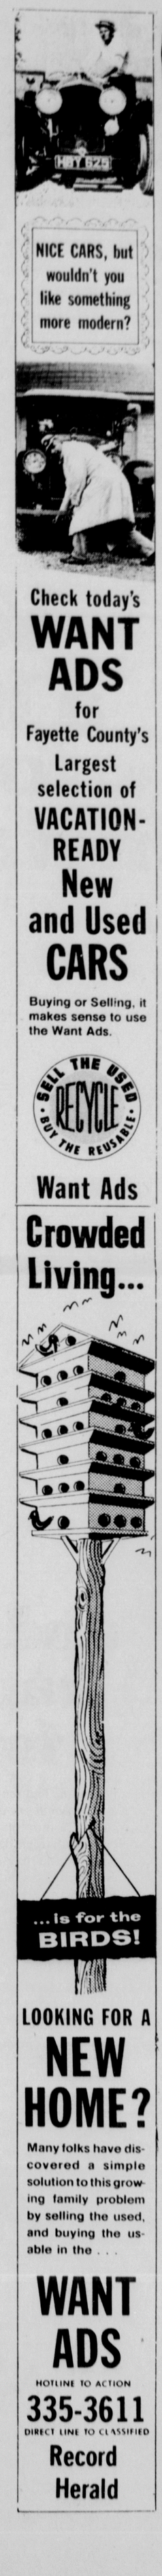

Police chief shot investigating drug purchase

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Union Township Police Chief William Noland, who was shot in the head Friday night, undergoes surgery this week for removal of a slug lodged between his skull and scalp.

Shot by an unknown assailant while investigating a drug transaction, Noland never lost conciousness and drove to a hospital.

The incident took place near a Loveland bar. Noland was off duty at the time. He was shot after following two suspects out of the bar.

Investigation into the shooting is continuing by Hamilton County sheriff's deputies.

'Honk for impeachment' takes off

WASHINGTON (AP) — For two days now, the quiet tranquility of the White House lawn has been shattered by passing motorists who are responding to demonstrators' signs that read: "Honk for Impeachment."

And, at a small card table in the grassy park across from the White House, a 34-year-old registered Republican from Baltimore has already run out of her supply of 3,000 "Impeach Nixon" bumper stickers.

More than 5,000 signatures have been gathered on petitions calling for President Nixon's impeachment, say members of the ad hoc Committee to Impeach the President, a group organizing week-long demonstrations.

Police estimated some 200 demonstrators marched in front of the White House Monday.

And White House watchers say there is little doubt that President Nixon received an earful of blaring noise Monday when he strolled from the serenity of his Oval Office across the private street to his suite in the Executive Office Building.

"If he didn't hear them, he had cotton in his ears," said one presidential observer.

But, when the President made a speedy retreat to his mountain hideaway at Camp David, Md., several hours later, White House press spokesman Gerald L. Warren said it had nothing to do with the demonstrations.

Although a majority of the demonstrators were college age, there were a number of middle-age marchers. Some carried signs that read: "One down, one to go," a reference to the recent resignation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

One gray-haired, bespectacled woman from Connecticut carried a cardboard poster with the carefully printed words: "Nixon's the One — To Impeach."

"I'm a retired school teacher," she said. "I just had to come. But don't print my name. I might lose my pension."

Two Baltimore residents, Jim Goodnow and Barbara Stephens, both 34, handed out bumper stickers and collected signatures on petitions calling for the President's impeachment.

"We both voted for Nixon because he said he had a secret plan to end the war," said Goodnow, who looked more like a vaudeville M.C. in his brown searsucker suit and straw hat than a White House demonstration organizer. "Now he's got a secret plan to end the Justice Department."

Ms. Stephens, a divorcee who said she pawned her diamond ring and 44 pieces of silver to pay for the bumper stickers and petition printing, said the momentum for the demonstration started sometime Sunday.

Prayer breakfast series continues

Attendance at the weekly prayer breakfast Tuesday took a slight drop from that of the previous week when 130 students and teachers from both high schools here heard the Rev. Vic Slutz, pastor of the New Holland Church of Christ, speak during the meditation period.

Following the devotions, the group moved to Fellowship Hall for group singing led by Michelle Davis and Jane Bolender, WSHS students. Linda Hollingsworth, also a WSHS student, was the accompanist.

After breakfast David Bryan, of WSHS, spoke on "Rules for the Game of Life", and Garth Cox gave the closing prayer.

WCH Band Boosters reschedule meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Washington C. H. Band Boosters scheduled for tonight has been rescheduled for a week from today, Oct. 30, at 8 p.m. in the band room.

The conflict was due to the open house at the Senior High School, according to Claude Coulter, president of the Boosters.

AT LONG LAST — Jeannie Johnson, a clerk at Patton's inspects the long-awaited trees which have been planted in their downtown boxes under the direction of the Meriweather Nursery. The trees, Washington hawthornes, will have white blooms in the spring and will produce red-orange berries in the fall. During the autumn season the leaves will be scarlet. In all, 26 trees were planted. Mrs. Martha Reiff heads the Chamber of Commerce tree-planting committee.

Survey shows ground swell against Nixon

Demos eye impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders said today Speaker Carl Albert will turn over all proposals for impeachment of President Nixon to the House Judiciary Committee "for full consideration of whether or not an impeachable offense was committed."

Albert scheduled a news conference for shortly before noon to announce his action.

But leaders emerging from a formal meeting on the procedure, including Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, said Albert told them he wants the impeachable offense inquiry rather than full-scale House impeachment proceedings.

Wright said, however, that impeachment resolutions as well as resolutions urging only an inquiry will be turned over to the Judiciary Committee.

"This is the first necessary step if impeachment proceedings are to ensue," Wright said.

He also said Albert stressed twice during the morning that he wants House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan confirmed as vice president before there is any formal House action on impeachment, should the proceedings go that far.

"He just doesn't want Jerry Ford to be held hostage," Wright said.

Republican leaders also met, and Ford reaffirmed his support for Nixon.

Asked whether he thinks impeachment is likely, Ford said, "It doesn't seem to me that the facts, under the present circumstances, justify such drastic action."

Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, a leading candidate to succeed to the top leadership post if Ford is confirmed as vice president, said, "I don't think the President has done any such act as would call for impeachment."

He said the dismissal and resignation of Justice Department officials did not constitute such acts. Asked whether refusal to comply with the court order to produce the Watergate tapes was such an act, Rhodes said, "I don't think you can say there has been a refusal."

Meanwhile, an Associated Press sampling of sentiment in the House showed that 48 members — most of them Democrats — are willing to at least consider impeachment proceedings against Nixon.

The developments followed Nixon's weekend firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and dismissal of his deputy, William D. Ruckelshaus, when they refused Nixon's order to fire Cox.

Speaker Carl Albert scheduled a news conference for today to announce the decision by Democratic leaders.

Albert and several other House leaders conferred Monday on the crisis over the Watergate tapes. A deputy Democratic whip, Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, said the leaders appeared agreed that an inquiry into impeachment grounds would be preferable at this time to a fullscale impeachment investigation.

* * * *

Wright also said he was sure Albert wants to delay possible formal impeachment proceedings until Congress confirms Gerald R. Ford's nomination as vice president.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, R-Calif., was set to introduce impeachment resolutions today. But House leaders said they would head off any move for an immediate vote on impeachment.

Of the 48 House members The Associated Press sampling showed were willing to consider impeachment proceedings, 34 said they definitely favored an attempt to remove Nixon from office.

Another 22 members said they were undecided on the impeachment issue, and 18 flatly rejected the possibility at this time.

The list of House members who either supported immediate impeachment or said they would consider it was dominated by Democrats.

Twenty-nine Democrats and five Republicans said they supported impeachment. Twelve Democrats and two Republicans said they would consider it.

Nixon lawyers bare compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyers were due in court today with a Watergate tapes compromise the White House hopes will head off demands for his impeachment.

After a holiday weekend that shook the government, the House reconvened with at least two members prepared to file impeachment resolutions and many more saying they are ready to consider such a move.

And U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica also returned ready to hear how the White House will meet his demand for nine presidential tapes. The judge called a meeting for today of both grand juries looking into Watergate.

White House lawyers planned to tell the judge the case was settled out of court. But it was an out-of-court settlement achieved only after the President fired his opponent in the case, special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

That unusual settlement left observers unable to predict how Sirica might react to Nixon's plan to have Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., verify a summary of the Watergate-related portions of the tapes. Under the settlement, Stennis would then give the summary to the judge and the Senate Watergate committee.

Cox had subpoenaed nine tapes from the President and, when Nixon refused to comply, the special prosecutor went to court and got favorable decisions from Sirica and the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Nixon ordered Cox to halt his court efforts to obtain those tapes and any other White House recordings, notes or documents pertaining to presidential conversations.

When Cox refused, Nixon ordered his dismissal and transferred the prosecution force he had headed into the Justice Department.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who had been confirmed by the Senate last May only after promising to appoint Cox special prosecutor and give him broad independence to pursue the investigation, resigned.

When Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Ruckelshaus also refused to fire Cox, he was dismissed.

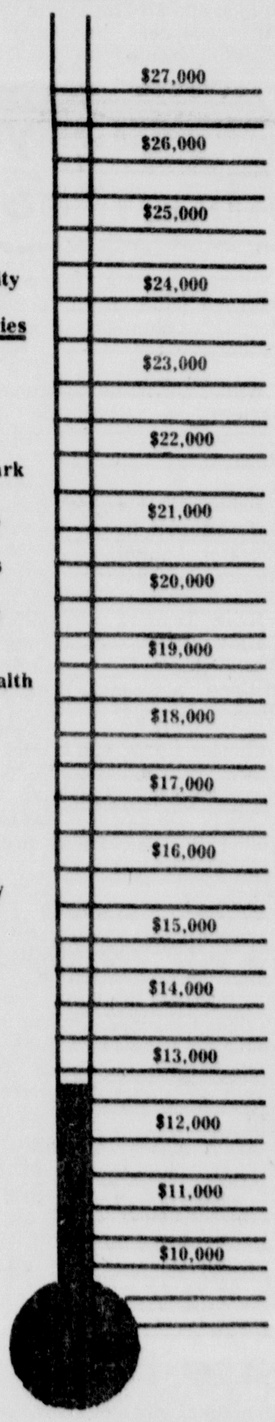

Robert H. Bork, who had been solicitor general, a job Cox held a decade ago, was named acting attorney general, and he carried out the presidential order to fire Cox.

Bork put Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division, in charge of the Watergate investigation and pledged to pursue it vigorously.

He said Petersen "will use the evidence and staff already assembled, as well as other department personnel, to see that these cases are pressed to a conclusion and that justice is done."

Cox's refusal to compromise on the tapes issue received support from Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee. Ervin said, "I would have done exactly like Cox did."

Middle East war flares up again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hard fighting continued today on both fronts of the Arab-Israeli war despite the cease-fire ordered by Israel and Egypt Monday night.

The military correspondent of Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported that Egyptian and Israeli forces were "locked in the most vicious fighting since the outbreak of the war."

Israel charged the Egyptians with "incessant" cease-fire violations and said its forces in the southern sector of the Suez Canal front had been ordered to continue fighting to counter Egyptian attacks in that area.

Egypt accused the Israelis of seizing new positions during the night, particularly on the west bank of the canal, and said that Israeli planes bombed and strafed the Egyptian forces.

It said this "compels our forces to use force to strike at the Israeli forces in the positions occupied after the cease-fire."

Israel also reported a big air battle over the Syrian front and claimed its pilots shot down 10 Syrian planes during the morning. Syria charged that Israeli planes and artillery were attacking villages in the eastern foothills of Mt. Hebron.

An earlier Israeli communique reported heavy Egyptian fire Monday night and said, "toward the end of the night the shooting lessened but did not cease completely." Several hours later a second announcement in Tel Aviv reported: "At daybreak the Egyptians opened heavy fire on Israeli forces on the western bank of the Suez Canal on the central sector."

There was no immediate word on Israeli retaliation in that area, but an official of the Israeli command said after the earlier reports of Egyptian firing that the Israeli forces "showed as much restraint as was possible before returning fire."

Damascus Radio announced that the Syrian government was still studying the cease-fire resolution voted early Monday by the U.N. Security Council.

Observers in nearby southern Lebanon said the sounds of fighting seemed to die out on the Syrian front just before the cease-fire hour, and Associated Press correspondent Alex Efty reported from Damascus that artillery flashes were not visible there Monday night for the first time since the war began.

Water emergency confronting Jeff

JEFFERSONVILLE—Residents of this village of around 1,000 people unexpectedly found themselves with only a trickle of water coming from the fawcets Tuesday morning, and the word is being put out for everyone to adopt conservation measures voluntarily.

Just what the problem is, nobody is certain, but the consensus of the Board of Public Affairs is that the well, which provided the water is either running dry or that there may be stoppages in it, reducing the flow. A member of Council said "the pumps all seem to be operating normally, but they are getting only a trickle of water in the mains."

Village officials are hoping experts will come from Dayton Wednesday morning either to correct the situation or determine the cause.

Meanwhile, village officials are trying to get approval of the state to use the private well of the Dinkler Plastics Co. at the north edge of town. This well has been approved by the County Health Department for drinking water for the company's employes, but before the water could be used for distribution through the village mains state approval will be needed. This well, it was said, should produce around 180 gallons a minute.

The county Health Department is helping village officials in their efforts to get the state's OK for use of the private well.

Principal Gordon McCarty said the school was closed at 1:30 p.m. because "we just couldn't keep the children here with no water for drinking or operation of sanitary facilities.

Steps were taken for fire protection as soon as the situation developed. The village Fire Department has four tanker trucks, which are being kept filled, in addition to a truck with a smaller tank, which is used primarily for brush fires. The Fire Department also has two hookups to draw water from Sugar creek which circles the west and south portions of town.

Watergate panel appeals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee today asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to reverse a decision dismissing its Watergate tapes suit.

In a brief filed with the appeals court, the committee said, "It has been suggested in the press that a 'compromise' of this lawsuit was reached whereby appellants would forego this litigation in exchange for 'summaries' of certain tapes. This is not correct.

"While the President has unilaterally offered 'summaries' of certain tape recordings, there was no commitment by Sens. (Sam J.) Ervin and (Howard H.) Baker that, as a quid pro quo, this lawsuit would be withdrawn."

The committee said, "We need hardly stress that this case is of great moment to the nation. The President is withholding materials that appellants urgently and vitally need to fulfill their legitimate legislative functions."

Mitchell-Stans trial delayed

NEW YORK (AP) — The trial of former Cabinet officers John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans was postponed again today with both the prosecution and defense still seeking a White House tape and other documents.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi delayed the trial to Jan. 7 after federal prosecutors said the White House promised to say within two weeks whether documents relating to former White House counsel John W. Dean III would be made available.

The prosecution has described Dean as its key witness in the case against Mitchell and Stans.

2 boys charged in burning death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three boys, two 13 and one 12, have been charged with first-degree murder in the death of a derelict who was doused with lighter fluid and set afire.

Officers said the boys, whose names were withheld, admitted setting fire to Charles Scales, 38, as he slept off a wine drunk behind an abandoned building Saturday night.

The boys also were charged Monday with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder for setting fire to two other men, officers said. Police said they knew of a fourth man assaulted by the trio.

Police gave this account of the incident:

The boys, all of whom have long records of vandalism, larceny, burglary, robbery and narcotics possession, bought or stole several cans of lighter fluid from a neighborhood store.

Their first victim was a cat. They soaked the animal with lighter fluid and then watched it burn to death. A short time later they set fire to an unidentified drunk who managed to beat out the flames and shuffle away.

The boys then wandered down the street to a restaurant, where they tossed lighter fluid on J.B. Blackburn, 50, as he left a back door. Blackburn said the youngsters threw a lighted match at him and fled down an alley as he pulled off his shirt and beat out the flames.

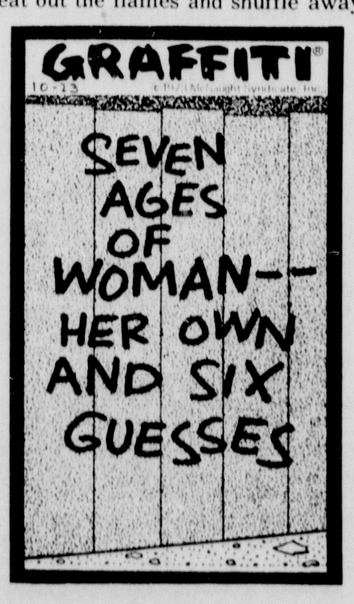

The youths next entered an alley where Emmett Spratling, 53, was lying on a discarded table top and Scales was sleeping on a bench.

Officers said Spratling told them he and Scales had been drinking wine and had settled down to sleep when they were attacked.

The boys set both men afire and ran away. Spratling managed to beat out the flames that flared round his head, but by the time Scales woke and rushed out of the alley, his clothing and large sections of flesh had been burned.

Spratling suffered only minor injuries. Scales died in a hospital 10 hours later.

Officers said one boy was on a weekend pass from the Kendall Youth Home.

Ohio Assembly opens special session today

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the 110th Ohio General Assembly return to the Statehouse today for a special legislative session designed to curb deteriorating public regard for politicians and their campaigns.

Democratic Gov. John Gilligan called the extraordinary session and restricted it to consideration of new laws to limit and account for campaign spending.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said there probably will be party caucuses when both chambers convene at 1:30 p.m. The lawmakers are expected to recess later to let Senate and House election committees work on specific proposals, including one from the Gilligan administration.

Predictions of how long the special session may last vary from several days to two weeks or longer. It will depend on the lawmakers' ability to reach a compromise in key areas.

The big point of contention centers on how to handle campaign contributions from labor unions. Gilligan opposes a $3,000 ceiling on such contribtuions if the money comes from individual donations of less than $10, funneled through a labor organization.

Republicans are expected to insist that the individual union members be allowed to earmark their donations to the party or candidates of their choice, as teachers are permitted to do in a new wage check-off program they have for political contributions.

House Majority Whip Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, will introduce the governor's bill in the House, he said, while Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard, is expected to introduce it in the Senate.

Celeste defended the union proposal at a news conference Monday, saying labor organizations have their own "constitutional arrangements" and asserting their functions are "open and democratic." It would be wrong, he maintained, for the legislature "to write a different decision-making procedure."

Some Republicans, including Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, want to prohibit contributions from a union's operating fund. Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake, has proposed restricting all political contributions to those from individuals and political parties.

Celeste said there is a chance for compromise. "All legislation requires compromise; that's the first thing I learned when I came down here," the Clevelander said.

Gilligan's bill places a $3,000 ceiling on contributions by any individual or family unit, and sets specific compaign spending amounts for various state and local offices.

It also requires any candidate who plans to spend $500 or more to name a campaign treasurer who would be responsible for collecting and spending funds. Deputy treasurers could also be named to collect funds. The treasurer would be required to keep records current to within not more than seven days after receiving a contribution or expenditure.

Reports of contributions and expenditures would have to be made 40 days and 11 days before a primary, special or general election. Reports would be filed with the official who received the candidate's petitions—the secretary of state in a statewide race or county boards of election otherwise.

A candidate for governor would be

Pablo Casals dies at 96

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Tributes poured in today acclaiming the greatness of Pablo Casals, the cellist and humanitarian who died Monday at 96.

He was to be buried this afternoon in a black granite vault less than a block from his home.

Casals, who for the last 35 years used his musical talents in a protest against tyranny and a campaign for peace, died after three weeks in Auxilio Jutuo Hospital. He was hospitalized after a heart seizure, but doctors said he also suffered from chronic bronchitis, a kidney failure and circulatory ailments.

He was the foremost cellist of the 20th century and a superlative performer into his 80s. In recent years he won new honors as a conductor. He was a source of inspiration to the musicians with whom he worked every summer at the Marlboro, Vt., music colony.

"Sometimes I feel like a boy," Casals once said. "Music does that. I can never play the same piece twice in the same way. Each time it is new."

"Pablo Casals was one of the greatest musicians of all time and the greatest cellist," said Eugene Ormandy, the music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra. "His love of people was probably the reason for his rich and long life."

Russia's Mstislav Rostropovich, considered Casals' successor as the world's No. 1 cellist, said, "I have lost not only a great teacher but a true friend. I feel a great personal grief."

Born Dec. 29, 1876, in Vendrell, in the fiercely independent part of Spain known as Catalonia, Casals played before Spanish royalty before he reached the age of 15. He was solo cellist for the Paris Opera while still a teen-ager.

He returned to Spain in the 1930s to conduct his own orchestra, but was driven abroad by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's overthrow of the Republican government in the Spanish Civil War.

allowed to spend five cents for every person in the state, or about $550,000 in a primary election, and 10 cents a person in a general election.

Local candidates could spend the same amounts per person in their districts.

The governor's bill restricts the amounts that can be spent on other statewide races to two cents per person in the state for primary, special or general elections. The limit of about $220,000 would apply to the lieutenant governor, attorney general, auditor, treasurer, and secretary of state.

A limit of $50 would be placed on cash contributions.

The bill would also establish a five-member Ohio Elections Commission, to be named by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. No more than three members could belong to the same political party. The commission would have the power to review and override any decision made by the secretary of state.

It would adopt a code of fair campaign practices, designate and provide the forms for reports and statements required under the new law, report annually to the governor and legislature, and make recommendations for legislation on campaign financing and practices.

COURTHOUSE TOUR—Kenneth Craig and B.E. Kelley of the Fayette County Historical Society, guided approximately 75 senior citizens on a tour of the Courthouse Tuesday morning. The group, which came by bus from Columbus, had expressed special interest in seeing the Willard Murals which cover the walls of the upper floor. In 1956 it was confirmed that the paintings had been done in 1884-85 by Archibald M. Willard, who painted the famed "Spirit of '76. Following the tour, the group left to visit other points of historical interest in Southern Ohio.

Influence peddling by President seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — New evidence has surfaced tying President Nixon to an alleged deal involving a pledge of $2 million in campaign money in exchange for administration favors for the dairy industry.

Investigative sources said Monday they have obtained a letter addressed to Nixon on Dec. 16, 1970, reminding him of the industry's past support and telling him of the milk producer's need for immediate aid.

The letter was written, the sources said, by Pat Hillings of the Associated Milk Producers Inc., the major industry group.

The Associated Press has confirmed the letter's contents from four separate sources.

"The thrust of the letter was a request that the President approve new milk tariffs that the industry was interested in," one source said. "It pointed out that the industry had $2 million available for 1972 campaign contributions," but continued aid for the nation's dairy farmers was necessary if they were to continue their support.

Hillings noted that $135,000 already had gone to 1970 congressional candidates who were friends of dairymen, the sources said.

A month later, when the new Nixon budget was announced, proposed dairy subsidies rose nearly 10 per cent, compared to a slight increase for feedgrain subsidies and a major decrease in food-aid shipments, another method of government farm support.

The Hillings letter noted that it was bringing up a "sensitive political matter," the sources said, and evidence indicates it went directly to then-presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman. One source said it isn't certain whether Nixon read the letter or was merely told of its contents.

The following March, however, three events took place:

—On March 22, 1971, the first $10,000 contribution from milk producers was secretly delivered to a group of dummy campaign committees that later turned their holdings over to the Nixon re-election campaign.

—The following day, President Nixon and then-Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin met at the White House with 16 spokesmen for the dairy industry.

—On March 25, Hardin reversed a decision not to grant an increase in federal price supports for milk and announced approval of a 27-cents-per-hundredweight hike in price supports, claiming he had received new economic data.

The decision was worth between $500 million and $700 million to the nation's milk producers, according to an industry estimate.

Most saved in air crash

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A Brazilian airliner crashed into Rio de Janeiro's Guanabara Bay today and sank. Most of the passengers aboard swam to safety, airport authorities said.

According to authorities at Santos Dumont city airport, more than 20 persons were also plucked from the plane's fuselage before it sank after floating for 10 minutes.

U.S., Russia put together Middle East cease-fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recognized at the very start of the Middle East war that if diplomacy could halt the fighting Washington and Moscow would have to work together.

From then on, with few exceptions, the two superpowers avoided accusations and harsh rhetoric. Their behavior appeared aimed at avoiding disruption of the detente that is at the core of their policies toward each other — even while feeding Israel and the Arab states the weapons of war.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger did wag a finger at Moscow now and them. "We shall resist aggressive foreign policies," he said at a forum on Oct. 8, the third day of the war. "Detente cannot survive irresponsibility in any area, including the Middle East."

More typical was the tone he took at an Oct. 12 news conference when he simply chided the Russians for not being "helpful" and declared: "We are in a delicate situation that can easily be inflamed."

On the Soviet side, U.N. Ambassador Jakob Malik publicly condemned the Israelis as "barbarians" shortly after the war broke out and he stalked out of a Security Council meeting. But the vituperation was occasional.

President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader, exchanged private messages Oct. 7, the second day of the conflict. The next morning Administration officials were saying that Moscow appeared to share Washington's desire to limit the war.

Kissinger met almost daily with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin or at least talked with him over the telephone.

This course of consultation had been established even while the Arabs were massing their attack. In the few frantic hours Oct. 5 between an Israeli warning and the actual outbreak the United States turned mostly to Russia to try to head it off. The effort failed. But they kept working together.

Poll shows split over impeachment

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide Oliver Quayle poll of 947 adults questioned after the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox shows 44 per cent favored impeaching President Nixon.

Forty-three per cent opposed impeachment and 13 per cent were undecided, according to the poll.

The telephone survey was conducted for NBC News, which said Monday that it contained a built-in sampling error of 2 to 3 per cent. "We can't see a statistical distinction" between those for and against impeachment, said Bud Lewis, director of elections for NBC.

The network said the percentage of persons favoring impeachment had nearly doubled since Aug. 12, when an earlier poll showed 23 per cent favoring impeachment, 68 per cent against and 9 per cent undecided.

The latest poll also showed that 75 per cent of those questioned opposed the dismissal of Cox while 16 per cent favored it and 9 per cent were undecided.

Only 22 per cent of those polled gave Nixon a favorable rating on his job performance, with 75 per cent rating it unfavorable and 3 per cent undecided.

A Gallup poll taken before last weekend's developments said 30 per cent of Americans rated Nixon's performance favorably.

Asked in the Quayle poll whether Watergate should be "put behind us," 54 per cent said no, 42 per cent said yes and 4 per cent were undecided.

The poll was conducted in 300 "scientifically selected communities across the country" and designed to question a broad cross-section of people with varying educational and economic backgrounds, NBC said.

Richardson meets press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson explained today the conflicting demands that led him to resign as attorney general, and said the Watergate controversy confronting President Nixon "is for the American people to judge..."

Richardson, applauded for nearly two minutes by employes of the Department of Justice, described a week of negotiations and controversy in the dispute between the White House and special prosecutor Archibald Cox over access to presidential tape recordings.

Richardson retold the story of his commitment to the independence of the Cox investigation, and Nixon's order that the special prosecutor be fired.

In that situation, Richardson said, he concluded he could best serve the nation as a private citizen.

In his opening discussion of the case, Richardson did not criticize the President.

At stake in the controversy, Richardson said, is the integrity of government that "I came to the Justice Department to help restore."

Richardson said the case became one of deadlock between Nixon's insistence on the principle of confidentiality of presidential conversations, and his own assurances that Cox would be unfettered in the Watergate investigation.

"The rest is for the American people to judge," he said. "On the fairness with which you do so may well rest the future well-being and security of our beloved country."

Judge backs Shield Law

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — A reporter for the Newark Advocate does not have to answer questions about her confidential sources for a series of articles on a subdivision near here, a judge ruled today.

Licking County Common Pleas Court Judge Winston C. Allen ruled the reporter, Mary Hargrove, was protected by Ohio's shield law in refusing to answer three of 170 questions asked during a deposition hearing.

Allen said two other questions Mrs. Hargrove refused to answer were not relevant.

Mrs. Hargrove's series dealt with problems involving water and sewer systems in the subdivision.

The deposition hearing involved a suit challenging ownership of the systems, which is in court now.

Stock list opens lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened lower today as the House planned to begin consideration of impeachment proceedings against the President and the Mideast hostilities resumed.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was down almost a point and declines outpaced advances by about 3-1 in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The volume leader on the Big Board was Pan American World Airways, unchanged at 6½. Other active issues included Sony Corp., down ¾ to 48¼; Gulf Oil, down ⅜ to 22¾; ITT, down ⅛ to 34½; and Kresge, down ⅛ to 38.

On Monday the market slipped lower in response to calls for President Nixon's impeachment in the wake of his firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The Dow slumped 3.16 points to close at 960.57 and declines outpaced advances by almost 4-1 in fairly heavy holiday trading on the Big Board.

Indian summer was forecast to continue over Ohio as a high pressure area refused to relinquished its hold on the northeastern United States.

A warm air flow did little to raise overnight temperatures, and lows at dawn ranged from 34 degrees in Toledo to 48 in the Akron-Canton area and 49 at Huntington, W. Va. Readings generally were in the low 40s.

A warming trend is forecast for the state through Wednesday with highs today from the upper 60s in the north to the 70s in the south. Highs should be in the 70s across the state Wednesday.

It will be quite warm in Ohio Thursday, followed by a cooling trend into the weekend. There will be a chance of showers Friday or Saturday. Highs Thursday will be in the upper 70s and 80s, falling to the 60s north and the 70s south Friday and Saturday. Lows all three nights will be in the 50s.

Fair weather covers nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair weather prevailed over most of the nation today with showers limited generally to the East and West coasts.

Thunderstorms dampened portions of northern California Monday evening, and gale warnings were in effect for the northern and central Pacific coast.

Showers splashed over parts of the northern Atlantic Coast states, while some light showers sprinkled Florida on the fringe of tropical storm Gilda's influence.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 31 at Concord, N.H., to 79 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Armco sets price hike

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Armco Steel Corp. today announced classification changes in cold rolled sheet metal that will result in a price increase averaging 2.3 per cent.

A company spokesman said the changes are comparable to those recently announced by Bethlehem Steel Corp. and will take effect Jan. 1.

The changes revise cold rolled classes A, B and C to Classes 1 and 2.

The company said Class A will be replaced by Class 1, and that the current base price of $10.30 a hundredweight will remain in effect.

Cold rolled Class B will be discontinued. Cold rolled Class C will be replaced by Class 2, and the base price will go up 60 cents, to $9.80 a hundredweight, the company said.

Desert war tactics change for good due to technology

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new techology of the fourth Mideast war has made it certain desert warfare will never be the same again.

The classic picture of large numbers of tanks clashing freely across the sands and supported by low-flying fighter planes and infantrymen appears to be obsolete.

Those free-wheeling tactics, witnessed in the 1967 six-day Mideast war, have been replaced by the relative caution evidenced by both sides before the cease-fire was declared Monday.

The need for more caution is one reason why the war lasted 16 days instead of six.

Take airplanes, for example. Nearly all of the approximately 100 U.S.-supplied F4 Phantoms, A4 Sky Hawks and other fighters lost by the Israelis were downed by Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles.

American planes were challenged by Soviet missiles in North Vietnam, but never at the low altitudes where Israeli jets attempted to support the Israeli counterattack against the initial Egyptian tank thrust across the Suez Canal.

The United States is known to have equipment which when installed in fighter planes can neutralize the radar-controlled Soviet missiles. It is not known how much of that equipment was supplied or in use by the Israelis before or after the new fighting began.

Another surprise to the Israeli tank forces were the appearance of Syrian and Egyptian infantrymen carrying Soviet antitank weapons on their backs.

By all accounts reaching the Pentagon, the RPG7s, as they are called, were fired with deadly accuracy by determined Arab troops. They often moved in advance of their own tanks to aim their weapons at Israeli armor.

In both cases, Israeli tanks were frequently slowed by the fear that they would encounter the Soviet-made antitank weapons even after Arab tanks had been destroyed in large numbers, Pentagon analysts say.

The effect, once again, was to make the Israeli attacking force more cautious and fearful than six years ago.

The late introduction of similar U.S.-made antitank weapons to the Israeli force is difficult to assess because the Israelis did not have them in numbers before the shooting began. But their presence is sure to cause equal caution by Arab armor commanders in any future Mideast combat.

Business surveys often disagree

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While businessmen and other citizens hardly know what to expect these days, there is one constant that can be depended upon: Somebody always will be conducting a survey.

They may be frivolous or serious, professional or amateurish, informative or insane. They take various names, such as study, report, forecast or poll. They may be entirely objective; they may be subtly suggestive.

Into the latter category you might be inclined to put a survey by the New York Stock Exchange, which found business economists quite bullish on stock prices in 1974.

In fact, said Wlliam Freund, 95 per cent of the economists who responded forecast rising prices and the remaining 5 per cent said they believed prices will remain level.

"Not a single vote was cast in expectation of a market decline next year," he said.

While businessmen and others were assimilating the optimistic outlook of the economists, a survey of another kind contains material for reflection.

The Nationwide Retail Census, conducted by the marketing research firm Audits & Surveys Inc., claimed that the number of retail outlets in the country dropped by more than 19,000 in the past year.

The loss, following a decline of 12,400 in 1972, reduced the number of stores to 1,657,000 and, significantly or not, brought the store-to-people ratio all the way to 125, meaning one store per 125 people.

Interpreting the findings, the company said "the trend to higher store-to-people ratios reflects the growing attraction of consumers to the convenience of one-stop shopping."

Food stores, a category that includes supermarkets, groceries, delicatessens and other outlets, suffered the greatest number of fatalities, with 8,200 units disappearing. Shoppers are entitled to know the ominous news that there are now only 280,700 food stores left.

Other findings tend to document what a lot of people had a hunch was happening:

—The number of discount department stores grew by 300 units to a total of about 5,300.

—The number of automotive service stations fell by 3,500 units to 215,900.

—Drive-in restaurants and carryouts continued to proliferate, rising by 1,600 units to 52,300 outlets, even though eating-drinking establishments suffered an over-all decline.

—About 500 bars and taverns disappeared, leaving 110,500.

One of the most popular types of survey, that of consumer buying intentions, also reflects some significant changes in business and attitudes:

Relatively few shoppers are optimistic about the immediate future, a condition that in the past caused people to postpone buying plans and save for the proverbial rainy day.

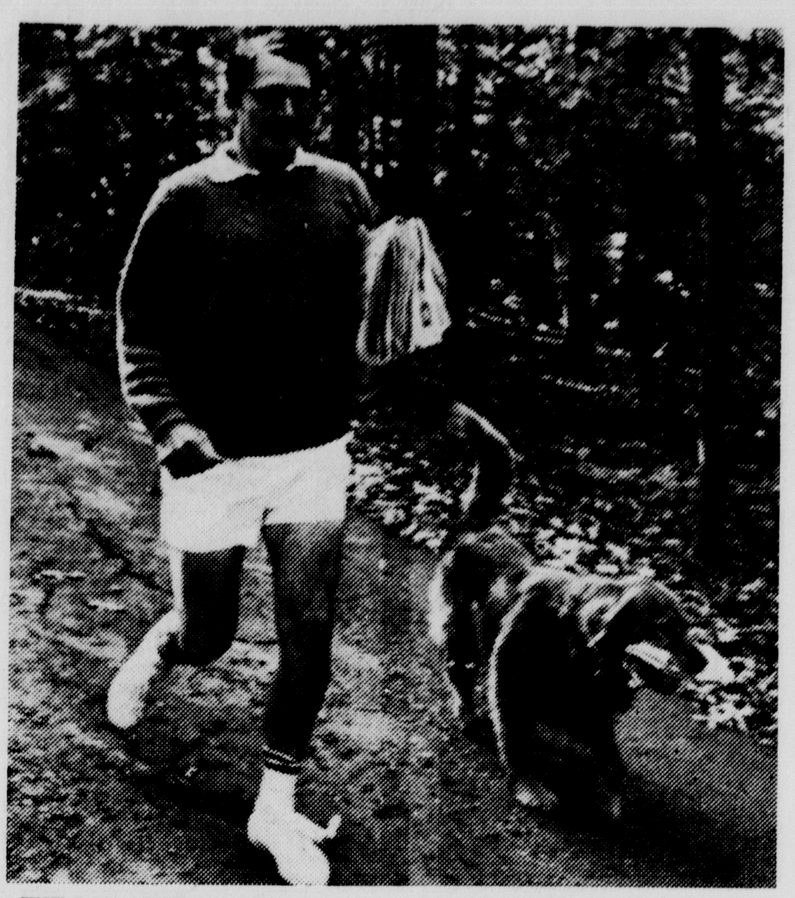

Now, however, they are torn between caution and fear — fear that if they don't buy today they'll have to pay more tomorrow.

Editorialists attack Nixon developments

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Impeachment has stirred bitter comment from Ohio newspapers.

Editorially, newspapers displayed general disapproval of the firings of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, and Nixon's refusal to submit Watergate tapes to a federal grand jury.

"Mr. Nixon, who has shown some serious misjudgements in the past year or so, is misjudgeing the American public if he thinks the Fox-Richardson incident will be accepted without stirring some terrible questions," stated the East Liverpool Review in a editorial in today's edition.

The newspaper, which previously has supported Nixon, continued: "And if the American public is misjudging the President, he cannot blame his own aides, the Congress or the press as has been his more recent practice."

The East Liverpool newspaper said that Nixon"... while clinging to his constitutional rights,...may have lost the respect of the nation..."

The President has shown an "inability to provide what so many Americans have been hoping for—vindication of the claims of innocence, a conclusion to the ugly hints as to what went on in the Oval Office, the moving on to the important challenges the nation faces on domestic and foreign fronts," the editorial continued.

"...Who can believe now that the function of the Watergate probe, returned to the Department of Justice, will be carried out 'with fairness and vigor,' as the White House states?" it asked.

In a Monday editorial, the Cincinnati Post and Times Star asked: "Is Nixon above the law?"

It continued: "In America we enjoy the rule of law, not the rule of men. It is an ugly, shocking and ominous moment when the President defies such a basic American principle."

At the same time, the Columbus Citizen-Journal was optimistic that Justice Department official Henry Petersen could pick up the Watergate investigation and run with it.

The newspaper also cautioned that final judgement of the President should be withheld until Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi makes his report public on the Watergate tapes. Nixon has offered to let Stennis listen to the tapes, then make a summary of his viewpoints available to the Senate Watergate committee.

If the Watergate grand jury accepts this method of viewing the tapes, that "almost certainly would put out the current impeachment fire," the editorial said.

The Akron Beacon Journal, which previously had said Nixon should release the Watergate tapes, in an editorial Monday said the President "is clearly in contempt of court" for his refusal to do so.

The Toledo Blade, in another Monday editorial, called the entire affair "madness run rampant."

Asked the Blade: "How much longer...can we endure a President who arrogantly places himself above the law, defies the courts, thumbs his nose at morality and propriety in public office, and stops at nothing...in his insatiable thirst to cover up the wrongdoings of Watergate?"

Golda Meir sleeps less, worries

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir has been sleeping less, worrying more and chainsmoking her usual three packs of cigarettes a day since Israel went to war 18 days ago.

She has spent the days and much of the nights of fighting in an unpretentious office in the Defense Ministry compound, getting home when she could to the two-family house she shares with her son in suburban Ramat Aviv.

Her only public appearances have been to visit wounded troops and thank American pilots who flew in arms and other military equipment. Otherwise, as one observer put it, "she's playing general to the generals."

The gray-haired, 75-year-old grandmother came from Jerusalem to spend Yom Kippur with her son Menachem, a cellist and the head of Tel Aviv University's Academy of Music, and his family.

Instead, she spent the most sacred Jewish holy day in the second-floor corner office at the Defense Ministry, making feverish preparations for the Arab attack that was developing.

Once war began, Mrs. Meir canceled all appointments and cleared her schedule for military matters and the political and diplomatic decisions arising from the conflict.

"All her thoughts are with the war, and she keeps to the office because that's where she's most needed," says Lou Kadar, her old friend and assistant.

The premier has kept to her usual 7 a.m. rising time and breakfast. With her bodyguards, Mrs. Meir makes the five-minute drive to her office and the hours of reading reports, attending briefings and holding meetings begin.

She likes to go home for lunch and a little rest, but the demands of running a war have often kept her in the office through lunch and dinner.

"She's a good eater and she likes everything," including the food from a 24-hour cafeteria in her office building, Mrs. Kadar said. But given the choice, she likes French or Jewish food, especially gefilte fish and borsch.

On normal days, Mrs. Meir gets home at 7 or 8 p.m., works on handicraft or attends a concert if she has no official engagements. But Mrs. Kadar said she has worked often until 1 a.m. and once until 3 a.m. since the war started.

In her few free moments, Mrs. Meir tries to keep track of her family. Fifteen of them, including her granddaughter's husband, are in the army.

"They are okay," said Mrs. Kadar, "but when we tell her about people we know whose sons have fallen, she takes it badly. But she goes on. She hasn't been nervous. She's worried like everybody, but she doesn't show it."

Mrs. Meir "hasn't changed her habits," Mrs. Kadar said. 'She's still the same simple person she was 50 years ago" when she arrived in Palestine from the United States as a bride.

"She feels okay; she is okay," Mrs. Kadar said. "She's like French wine; she improves with age."

Thoughts on turn signalers

To the aviary of inept drivers, add the Slow-witted Turn Signaler. This subspecies is characterized by a marked tendency to turn first, and signal later.

There are variants of this behavior: some individuals merely delay exhibiting a directional light until after the turn has begun; other more extreme examples may virtually complete the maneuver before belatedly signaling.

Experts disagree as to the developmental lines of the Slow-witted Turn Signaler. Some maintain that these somewhat addlepated frequenters of street and highway are a slight but distinguishable evolutionary advance over the Common, or Knuckleheaded, Turn Signal Ignorer.

Others argue that the Slow-wits are in fact a retrogressive subspecies descended from the Casual, or Intermittent, Directional Flasher. This school of thought sees the Slow-wit as a classic example of the well known Carlessness Syndrome.

The fact that the Carelessness Syndrome clearly is involved in the Slow-witted Turn Signaler's behavior lends support to the latter view.

In any case, it cannot be doubted that the Slow-wit, the Casual Directional Flasher and the Knuckleheaded Turn Signal Ignorer are closely interrelated.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Oilmen push for deregulation

WASHINGTON—Buy sweaters! That is the cheerful advice from White House domestic counselor Melvin R. Laird on how to beat the oil shortage. It comes after months of bumbling and hesitation on how to meet an energy shortage plainly visible for at least two or three years.

Gasoline prices are moving up and will go higher. Now the threat of an increase in the cost of natural gas hitting millions of householders across the country is the storm center of a fierce struggle.

The Nixon Administration and the big oil companies that control most of the gas are calling for complete deregulation, taking away the authority of the Federal Power Commission to put a brake on prices the major producers can charge.

The argument backed by oil company scare propaganda on the energy shortage is that deregulation will make it possible to bring in new gas reserves, thanks to larger earnings.

THE CLALLENGE comes from Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson 3d of Illinois. He proposes to deregulate all but the 70 largest producers out of the total of 4,700 in the industry. With the lid entirely off, Stevenson contends, the Big Four would come in for $8 billion in windfall profits in a relatively few years.

For the consumer it could mean a rise from the average price of 24 cents a unit to 75 to 80 cents. The householders' bill would be doubled and then some in short order.

The impact of this is measured against the fact that nearly one-third of all energy uses are derived from natural gas. The cost to industry would zoom and that cost would inevitably be passed on to the consumer. For all the pious platitudes about controlling inflation here is a primary source with the blessing of an Administration putting out these platitudes.

One indication that the votes may be there for passage of the Stevenson proposal is the volume of propaganda from the oil companies and the intensity of the lobbying on Capitol Hill. Actually, the Stevenson bill calls for modified and streamlined regulation of the big producers. The senator contends this would make for quicker action and be an insurance against windfall profits.

THE BIG BOYS have powerful friends on The Hill. Chief among them is Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, who has had the candor to describe himself as the darling of the oil industry. Chairman of the Finance Committee, he wields great influence on all matters concerned with business and industry. Long opposes the Stevenson bill.

The House has just passed a sweeping measure calling for allocation not only of natural gas and propane but of crude oil, gasoline and virtually all petroleum products. The Nixon energy czar, former Colorado Gov. John A. Love, came out against such broad regulation. He argues that only a limited allocation such as he has put into effect for heating and diesel fuels can be workable.

Granted that the production and distribution of petroleum products in a nation wedded to the internal combustion engine is so complicated almost to defy regulation, which is Love's point, nevertheless the failure to confront the shortages and the price spiral seems inexcusable.

With gasoline prices rising and certain to go much higher in the near future, there has thus been no effort to distribute the burden equitably.

THIS MEANS that the owner of a gas guzzler, a Cadillac or a Lincoln Continental, pays the same price as the driver of a battered Plymouth. Figures show that car owners in the income range from $3,000 to $10,000 a year do more driving than those in higher income brackets. That is partly because of the necessity to commute long distances to jobs in remote areas.

Last summer Love's office considered imposing a 10-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax, which would have meant a 25 per cent price increase. That was abandoned because of the obvious inequity. Now task forces are considering the possibility of a tax on horsepower or on the weight of a car. That could put a limit on the gas guzzlers.

But in the interval between the report of a task force, a high-level White House decision and the response of the House Ways and Means Committee, the political weather — not to mention the climate — can get very cold. The answer calls for more than sweaters.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

What this country needs

For more years than I like to recall, I have been addicted to good mystery stories. The trouble is that discovering a genuine mystery story is virtually as difficult as finding the "abominable snowman" in the Himalayas.

Most of the stuff published these days is sheer tripe. Instead of a carefully wrought plot, every time the author runs into a jam he (or she) throws in either a sexual ecstasy or a laser ring, which the wearer uses to obliterate anything from the Empire State Building to a regiment of invaders from another planet.

Several years ago I suggested to friends who are deeply involved in Hollywood that the time had come to drop the looney stuff (James Bond, etc.) and revive the real detectives. "Who?" they asked. "Inspector Maigret, Hercule Poirot, Lord Peter Wimsey, Alan Grant, plus a Dutchman whose name I forget."

Obviously unacquainted with the metier, they asked me who these characters were. I was shocked, but went into a (probably boring) description of what I consider to be the best detective fiction going — and added the works of "Emma Latham" as a footnote.

THEIR REACTION — which may have been based on a realistic appraisal of the American market except that the year following they laid a couple of $multi-million eggs — was that nobody would watch that sort of stuff. The big attraction was violence, and admittedly Josephine Tey's "The Daughter of Time," or Poirot utilizing his "little gray cells," would hardly set one's muscles twitching. When I suggested politely that ...-maybe ...Americans were sick and tired of blood and guts, they replied equally courteously that I was something of an elitist who lived in isolation from the bloodthirsty masses.

They could be right, but for the first time in years I am hooked on television. Not that I have snobbishly refused to view the tube — I love good baseball (defined as a game in which each side uses less than three pitchers), and special news programs usually seduce me But most of the stuff sends me off in five minutes to read a book about Roman law. I should waste my time watching a comouflaged rerun of "Abie's Irish Rose"? Or some cheerful little novelty in which a group of sadistic teenagers specialize in incinerating drunken derelicts? I have seen enough killing for one lifetime.

However, for those who share my prejudices, there is good news. Educational television (which is usually a disaster area) has revived the mystery. So last Sunday night we told our dinner guests that — what ever the status of the meal — we were going off to watch a British import at 9 p.m.: Dorothy Sayers' "Clouds of Witness," featuring Lord Peter Wimsey.

Interestingly enough, their response was that they were planning to desert dessert, if necessary, to get home and follow the strange adventure Lord Peter confronts in rescuing his brother, the dopey Duke of Denver, from the gallows.

IT IS an excellent job: Wimsey, who could be overplayed as an anachronistic, aristocratic fop, is just right for a contemporary audience. (The original version was written in 1926.) There is, of course, a body. But fundamentally the story hinges on plot and character. I know exactly what is going to happen, but what else is new? I had read "Oliver Twist" before I saw the film, and the culmination of "Tora, Tora, Tora" hardly came as a shock.

At any rate, I am cheered. Educational TV is running a whole series in this genre, and it could mop up.

What this country needs is good mystery stories in the movies and on TV, and this is a first-rate beginning.

With all due respect to the boys who are sitting around thinking of the hilarious comic scenes that would emerge from marrying an Eskimo to an Apache, let's get back to those "little gray cells."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

More than half the states have laws so that land being used to produce food can be taxed at agricultural rates.

Ohio didn't need any such law because the counties pretty well managed to do that anyway. Now the Supreme court says that will no longer be permitted by the Constitution, so we have to change our Constitution. The way is by passing Issue I.

We are already losing countryside at a rapid rate. If we want to keep open space and trees (which smog), we have to have a "yes" vote in the Issue. Issue.

"THIS LEAK YOU'RE REPORTING, LADY, IS IT COMING FROM A RELIABLE AND UNIMPEACHABLE SOURCE?"

Hal Boyle . . . Those were the days

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is a marriage.

It weds man to his past, and there can be no divorce in that union. It is indissoluble.

Memory is the strongest link to life man has, and the most lasting. Only death, if anything, can dissolve it, and we are not even certain of that, for we know little about death.

Yet memory isn't a bondage or an uneasy servitude, but the most durable of our pleasures and the one that brings us the most solace across the years.

You have a pretty extensive chain of memory links yourself if you can look back and remember when —

You could buy a Hohner harmonia for a dime or, later, 25 cents, and become the musical genius of your neighborhood.

When you went to a doctor and told him you were feeling "poorly," like as not he'd say, "You ought to eat more — it'd do you good to fatten up." Fat people were thought then to have more resistance to disease than thin people.

Girls thought nothing of being engaged to a man six months or more to be certain he was the one they wanted to marry.

If a young society lady broke her engagement, she usually went on a tour of Europe to get over her disappointment. If she was poor, she just visited a relative for a while.

People expected as much benefit from a 50-cent bottle of Indian herbal tonic as they do from $25 worth of vitamin pills today.

Adolescence was that miserable period when you were too old to sit in the front rows at the movie any longer and too shy to ask a girl to sit with you in the back row, where the spooning couples sat.

If you wanted to purchase a spool of thread, you went to a business establishment called a dry goods store, where most of the salespeople were elderly ladies wearing long black skirts, high-buttoned shoes and starched white blouses. Dry goods stores seem to have gone the way of the dodo.

When grammar school kids played hooky, they rarely got into trouble because they were too young to hang out in the town pool hall and all they could do was to go swimming or fishing.

Most people didn't know too much about sex — but enough to keep their mouths shut about it in public.

Those were the days — remember?

Romans, Vandals, Goths, Byzantines, Lombards, Aragonese, Genoese, Moors and Barbary pirates all took part in ravaging, enslaving, taxing and hounding the Corsican people.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SUCCESSES PRODUCE SUCCESS, AS MONEY PRODUCES MONEY.—NICOLAS CHAMFORT

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Readers give advice to "Smells Bad"

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed "SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE" wrote to say she was extremely clean about herself and her clothing, but she smelled a terrible odor about herself, which nobody said they smelled, and it was driving her out of her mind.

I had the same problem for four years. Finally my doctor discovered I had diabetes. He put me on a low carbohydrate diet and the smell left me.

CURED NOW

DEAR ABBY: This is my 50th year as a physician and I have seen a number of cases like the one described by "SMELLS BAD."

That person should consult an ear, nose, and throat specialist for possible "Ozena" (stink nose), which causes a breath so foul that everything smells bad to her. The condition is the result of a chronic infection in nose and sinuses causing upper respiratory membranes to degenerate.

ARIZONA M.D.

DEAR ABBY: I also smelled bad and didn't know why. My doctor looked into my navel with a flashlight and that's where the smell was coming from. He cleaned it out and advised me to keep it clean with a bit of cotton on a toothpick, and my problem was solved.

ON THE BUTTON

DEAR ABBY: Dr. Marion B. Sultzberger, a famous dermatologist, once told me that he had a patient who came to him with the same problem as "SMELLS BAD." The doctor had the man strip. He still smelled bad. Then the doctor told the man to remove his gold wedding band. That was the culprit! In some people, their body chemistry and certain metals create a very unpleasant odor.

J.T., CORONA DEL MAR, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that lady who smells bad my brother had the same problem. He went to doctors and nobody could help him. Finally an old man told him to drink four ounces of dry white wine four times a day before meals, and again at bedtime. He did and in a week the odor was gone, and he was like a new man.

COFFEYVILLE, KAS.

D E A R ABBY: "SMELLS BAD" should make an appointment with her dentist immediately. I had that problem, and didn't know it was caused by an infected wisdom tooth. When my dentist discovered it he was amazed that I did not have a toothache that raised the top of my head. I never had a twinge of pain, but that terrible odor nearly drove me nuts!

OKAY NOW

DEAR ABBY: If "SMELLS BAD" wears glasses she should check the nose piece of her glasses. I smelled something vile for months and couldn't detect its source. Finally I discovered it was the perspiration collected in the nose piece of my glasses that was causing it. I bought new glasses, and clean them with alcohol regularly, and haven't had any trouble since.

SMELLS GOOD IN BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: It's the woman's gall bladder. A friend of mine kept sniffing everywhere for "dead mice" for six months. Finally, a doctor examined her and found that she had gall bladder trouble. She was smelling her own infected gall bladder!

R.L.D. IN VERMONT

DEAR ABBY: The woman who smells bad should be asked if she has had her ears pierced lately. When I had mine pierced, I smelled bad for months before I found out I had an infection in both ears from the piercing.

HAD IT IN ALABAMA

DEAR ABBY: Tell "SMELLS BAD" to check her ears. I have itchy ears, and I used to feel like there was something crawling in my ears, so I would scratch them with whatever was handy. Once I scratched my ear with a crochet needle. It caused an infection deep inside my ear which gave off a frightful odor, but I didn't discover it until I went to a doctor.

Today In History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, October 23rd, the 296th day of 1973. There are 69 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, George Washington's troops withdrew from Manhattan in the Revolutionary War.

On this date in 1641, the great Irish Massacre began after the discovery of a conspiracy against the English.

In 1684, the charter of the Massachusetts colony was annulled.

In 1915, 25,000 women demanding the right to vote marched in a demonstration in New York.

In 1917, U.S. troops saw their first action in World War I.

In 1942, the British Eighth Army attacked German lines in North Africa to begin the battle of El Alamein.

In 1954, the U.S., France and Britain agreed to end the occupation of Germany.

Ten years ago ... a ferry capsized in the Han River near Seoul, South Korea, drowning 49 persons.

Five years ago ... Egyptian and Israeli jets tangled over the Suez canal in the first such reported action since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

One year ago ... Henry Kissinger returned to Washington after five days of talks with South Vietnamese President Thieu to report on his latest peace negotiations.

Women remain active as 'firemen'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Five of six suburban women remain on the job six months after they were appointed firewomen with the Terrace Park Volunteer Fire Department.

Four of them double as life squad-women and were appointed to fill in the daytime gap when the men of the village are at work in Cincinnati.

Fire Chief Lee Stegemeyer said the women, are, as far as he's concerned "full-fledged" members of the department of 30.

Are women able to do the job as well as men?

"Hell yes," said Stegemeyer, a trade magazine editor and former newspaper man. "They can handle the job. They are just as good."

He said the women performed well recently extinguishing a barn fire. He said they had to use a 2½-inch diameter hose which seldom is used in the community of 4,000.

"I've definitely enjoyed it and I think we proved we weren't doing it for women's lib," said Mimi Mathews, one of the originators of the plan.

Lt. Evelyn Peery, supervisor of the women, said there is satisfaction in being a firefighter and lifesquad worker.

"It makes you feel awfully good helping somebody in trouble," she said.

Miss Mathews, 21, a legal secretary, is the only one who is not married. She is also the only woman on night call regularly.

"I fought the blaze in a dress and nylons," she laughed about the barn fire.

"I exchanged my heels for a pair of boots, and put on a fire hat and coverall."

Sue Channer, Pat Ramm and Pat Roe are the other firewomen. A sixth member dropped out during training.

Mrs. Peery said the firewomen go about their everyday lives as housewives with one exception. They always carry a radio-monitor to pickup the fire call.

"I can run to the store and do yard work," she said, "but I am also caring for two sons and am involved in such things as scouting activities."

Mrs. Roe said it was natural for her to go into the life squad.

Engaged

Rev. and Mrs. J. Eugene Griffith of Jeffersonville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Mary Catherine to Bruce Walling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walling, Morningside Blvd., Dayton.

Miss Griffith, a graduate of Belmont High School, is employed by Rike's Department Store in Dayton.

Her fiance, a graduate of Chaminade-Julienne High School in Dayton, is stationed with the USAF, Chanute Field, Ind.

The couple will be married Jan. 5 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church at 4:30 p.m.

Applesauce cake keeps well

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

With the price of eggs reaching a new high, it's time to revive the old-fashioned, one-egg cake. So here's a reliable recipe for One-egg Applesauce Cake — a favorite of families because it has excellent flavor and a moist crumb. When we tried the recipe we found the cake stayed moist for a whole week. Oats are used in the batter for good nutrition and interesting texture. The frosting that goes on the cake is about the most inexpensive kind you can make.

ONE-EGG APPLESAUCE CAKE

1 jar (15 ounces) sweetened applesauce (1 2-3rds cups)
1 cup quick-cooking oats 1½ cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg
Frosting, see below

Grease and flour a square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches).

In a 1-or 1½-quart saucepan heat the applesauce until hot throughout; remove from heat; at once stir in oats; cover tightly and let stand 20 minutes.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves.

In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; add egg and beat well. Gradually and gently beat in flour mixture. Add applesauce-oat mixture; stir well. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 50 to 55 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack. Cover top with Frosting and let set. Cut in squares and remove as needed. Tightly cover pan during storage of cake.

If you want to turn out the cake instead of leaving it in the pan, as soon as it comes from the oven let it stand in the pan on the wire rack for about 30 minutes; with a small metal spatula thoroughly loosen sides; turn out on rack; with another rack turn right side up; cool completely. Cover top (and sides if you like) with Frosting. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

FROSTING

Beat together 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar; gradually beat in enough more sifted confectioners' sugar (about 1 cup) to make a good spreading consistency, keep smooth.

See woman moderator of church

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Walter Bingham says he believes the general assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) will elect a woman to succeed him as moderator of the 1,300,000 member denomination.

Dr. Bingham said increasing the role of laity and women clergy will be the prime task of the six-day assembly, which begins Friday at Cincinnati.

The black Louisville minister compared the drive to give women a larger role to the movement in the 1960s to try to include more blacks and other minority groups in positions of responsibility.

He said he considered his election as moderator of the predominantly white denomination a symbol of devotion to equality of races within the church.

It is likely a woman will be elected moderator for the next two-year term, Dr. Bingham said, "putting her in a position of visibility to the church and the rest of the world."

Dr. Bingham said he believes his travels as moderator advanced the cause of the church's approximately 50,000 blacks, and that a woman in the job would speed acceptance of her sex.

Suggest dates for mailing greetings abroad

The U.S. Postal Service has suggested final mailing dates for Christmas greetings to foreign countries.

Surface mail — Far East Oct. 25, Near East Nov. 4, Africa Nov. 4, Europe Nov. 17, South and Central America Nov. 17, Canada and Mexico Dec. 7.

Airmail — Far East Dec. 14, Near East Dec. 14, Africa Dec. 14, Europe Dec. 16, South and Central America Dec. 16 and Canada and Mexico Dec. 19.

The minimum size for envelopes used in international mail has been increased, with the new scale going into effect Oct. 1.

The minimum size for envelopes is now 3½ by 5½ inches. Mail in package form, on which the address surface is less than 3½ by 5½ inches, must have a rectangular address tag 2¾ by 4 inches attached.

The increase from the present minimum size of 3 by 4¼ inches is the result of an international agreement reached in Tokyo in 1969. Delay in the implementation of the agreement was to permit envelope manufacturers and users of international mail to deplete stocks of smaller envelopes on hand.

These changes do not apply to domestic mail, although the Postal Service has proposed an increase to 3½ by 5 inches to become effective in 1977.

Greeneview High to offer 'Harvey'

JAMESTOWN — All-school plays are to replace class plays at Greeneview High School this year. For the first production, the school will present "Harvey" at 8 p.m. Nov. 9 and 10 in the Junior High School auditorium.

It is the story of Elwood P. Doud, who his friends think drinks too much, and his best friend, Harvey, who happens to be a 6-foot tall while rabbit.

The leading roles are taken by Steve Pierson and Mary Ann Hook. Others in the cast include Debbie Anderson, Jill Carter, Madeline Abling, Mary Jo Jenks, Rocky Rothwell, Scott Carter, Jeff Boyer, Debbie Loos, Mark Johnson and Brett Webb.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — These indeed are the times that try men's souls, particularly those of network executives trying to plan coverage of what President Nixon and the Congress will do next.

But the National Public Affairs Center for Television already is off and running this week with nightly half-hour studies of the crisis brought on by Nixon's sudden ouster of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The mini-specials were arranged after a hurried conference Monday between NPACT and Public Broadcasting Service officials. PBS operates the hookup linking the nation's 239 public TV stations.

A PBS spokesman said NPACT's first show, scheduled for last night, included an exclusive interview with White House speechwriter Pat Buchanan.

The show also was to examine the legal aspects of Nixon's actions and the departure from office of the two Nixon appointees who refused the President's order to fire Cox — Deputy Att. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus and Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

Tonight's NPACT show, scheduled to run at 10 p.m. EDT, will focus on public reaction to Nixon's move, sampling the opinions of community leaders in several cities, PBS says.

Wednesday's show will assess the mood of the Congress and the current cries there for Nixon's impeachment. The themes of the Thursday and Friday shows haven't been decided yet.

As of Monday afternoon, the three TV networks were saying they hadn't planned any similar specials for this week — yet.

The crisis caused by the Cox firing last Saturday prompted CBS and NBC to air two news specials at 11:30 that night. ABC stuck with its regular programming.

The half-hour CBS special was basically a discussion of the case by anchorman Dan Rather and three correspondents.

But NBC pulled out all the stops, bumping a repeat of the "Tonight" show for a 90-minute special anchored by John Chancellor and produced by Frank Jordan, NBC's Washington bureau chief.

'Instant Ocean' brings success to Ohio firm

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A white powder called "Instant Ocean" symbolizes the wave of success a suburban Eastlake firm has been riding since it entered the aquarium business nine years ago.

"Our first concern was for the teaching and research of marine biology in all levels of education," said William E. Kelley, president of Aquarium Systems, Inc.

"But within the past five years, we have seen a new awareness by individuals for the world we live in and with the animals that live in that world," he said.

"Instant Ocean" creates an artificial sea water, one in which salt water fish can survive, and sales have boomed, Kelley said.

Break for smaller counties

Planning agencies vote plan changed

Apparently an opinion voiced by Fayette County officials concerning representation in the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission has been heard at the state level.

State officials have eliminated the requirements that voting representation of government units in multi-county planning agencies be based on the principle of one-man, one vote.

The move leaves the matter of representation open for bargaining among officials of the eight central Ohio counties who are trying to work out the structure of a single planning area.

"It's the feeling of Fayette County delegates that it is now encumbent upon us to make a constructive suggestion on the allocation of voting rights," J. Herbert Perrill said during Tuesday morning's meeting of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

PERRILL, a Fayette County commissioner, is a delegate to the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission along with Carl Janes. Perrill had expressed his displeasure with the matter of representation toMORPC officials two weeks ago at a meeting of the Washington C.H. City Council.

William Habig, executive director of the MORPC, has informed the commission's executive committee of the changes in guidelines drawn by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

He said the rules are now much more flexible. Before the changes, voting rights of various government units in the area had to be based on population.

RURAL AREAS, including Fayette County, balked at the plan, indicating they feared their representation would be too small to be effective against that of metropolitan areas such as Columbus.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan designated large planning districts across the state last April and ordered the state department to make them functional.

Directors of regional planning units across the state will meet Oct. 30 to finalize the rule for the enlarged planning areas.

The seven other central Ohio counties involved in the same district as Fayette County are Franklin, Union, Fairfield, Pickaway, Madison, Delaware and Licking.

Pedestrian jolted; man cited twice

A collision with a parked car at 7:07 p.m., Monday also involved a pedestrian.

Francis C. Langen, 44, of 415 E. Temple St. strick a parked car while driving east in the 400 block of Temple Street. The pedestrian, Mary S. Maddux, 35, of 558 Albin Ave. was standing in front of the parked car, waiting to cross the street.

The initial collision jarred the parked car into the pedestrian and knocked her to the ground. She suffered a back injury.

Moderate damage was done to the Langen vehicle and the parked car, owned by Howard A. Bryant, of 634 McArthur Way. Langen was charged with reckless operation and driving while intoxicated.

A minor accident at Hinde and Court streets at 5:02 p.m., Monday involved Margaret A. Sollars, 49, of 1218 High St., who was stopped behind Oscar S. Miteff, 52, Rt. 4, when her foot slipped off the brake. Damage was slight to both vehicles.

At 9:06 p.m. Joseph A. Carson, 17, of Rt. 1, backed out of a parking place on S. Hinde St. and collided with a parked car on the other side owned by Linda S. Melton, Rt. 6. Damage was slight.

At 11:50 a.m., Monday, a car driven by Edith A. Henderson, 19, of West Virginia attempted to make a left turn off U.S. 35 onto Creek Road. The car behind her, driven by Jefferson D. Bryant, 24, Dayton, attempted to pass and struck the Henderson vehicle.

Damage was slight to both cars, and Bryant was charged with improper passing.

A Hennis Freight Lines semi-trailer kicked up a stone while traveling south on Ohio 41 at 6:45 p.m. Monday and sent it on a collision course for the front windshield of the car behind.

The car, driven by Sylvia I. Elliott, 39, of 511 E. Market St. was the target but damage to her windshield was slight.

'Spacemen' are fined

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two men accused of impersonating "visitors from outer space" have been fined $25 each plus $24.80 in court costs on charges of malicious mischief.

Municipal Judge John States suspended 30-day jail sentences Monday for the two — Stanley Ray Burdyshaw, 18, and William Don Wilson, 21, both of Bono.

State Trooper Daniel Oldham and Deputy Sheriff Bill Finley of Craighead County said about 20 motorists reported Sunday night that "little men in silver suits" were obstructing traffic on U.S. 63 near Bono, about seven miles northwest of here.

Oldham said he and Finley found the two standing at the edge of the highway "covered from head to toe" with aluminum foil.

Motorists complained that the "little men" had been jumping in front of cars, Oldham said.

Alcoholism Council's work explained to Kiwanis Club

The Central Ohio Regional Council on Alcoholism is designed to bring together the fragmentary efforts of small groups working with alcoholics and to promote a coordinated program of education to eliminate the problem, Lowell Beatty, a Columbus attorney, told Kiwanians here Monday night.

Speaking following a dinner in the Lafayette Inn, Beatty explained that the Council was made possible by an appropriation by the Ohio legislature. It covers Franklin, Licking, Fairfield and Delaware counties.

The Council, through trained workers, has set a continuous care program, which starts with detoxification and ends with rehabilitative services. The purpose of the program, Beatty added, is to return the salvage alcoholics to a productive community life.

With the aid of government funds, a course was established at the Ohio Domenican College, Columbus, to train workers how to spot, how to intervene and how to handle alcoholics, he said.

BEATTY was introduced by Harold Heckaman, who arranged the program. The meeting was conducted by President George Gibbs.

Duane French announced the committee for the club's "share-the-treats" program. This committee distributes to needy children the excess treats given to youngsters on Beggars' Night and brought to the city elementary schools the next day.

Gibbs announced that the Washington C.H. club will be host to the Presidents Party at 7 p.m. next Monday at the Lafayette Inn. Presidents of Kiwanis clubs, and their wives, in Division 10-W will be guests.

Guests Monday night were Ronald Lott, with Louie Kuhlwein, Jim Teeters, with Duane French, and Chester Brown, with Heckaman.

Halloween party hosted by K of C

Colman Council 5386, Knights of Columbus, was host Saturday to approximately 30 children of the members and friends at a Halloween party in the headquarters, 153½ S. Fayette St.

A feature of the affair was the costume judging by Mrs. Jo Ann Fisher, Sarah Dean and Linda Lutz. Winners in the three categories were: Prettiest—Janie Penwell, Kitty Pero and Julie Dean; ugliest—DeDe Pero, Patty Murphy and Brenda Kimmet; most original—Cathline Boylan, Diane Cox and Sharon Boylan.

Candy, rolls and cider were the refreshments, and games were held.

Ralph Penwell was the party chairman and Eugene Langen the assistant chairman.

'Bomb threat' delays school

A bomb call caused school to start a half-hour late this morning at Washington Junior High School.

Judging from the voice, a young, male phoned Principal Ben Roby at his office, said there was a bomb in the building and then hung up.

Police and fire officials were dispatched to the scene which they searched without finding anything amiss.

The call came early enough so students could be detained outside the building until safety was assured.

Florence Cross of 126 Grand Ave. reported to police that she hadn't seen her diamond ring for more than a week.

She discovered it missing Monday night from a top drawer bedroom dresser.

A German Shepherd dog bit Sharon D. Bryan, 529 East Market St. on the side of her head, behind her right ear.

The owner of the dog had the dog chained. The Bryan girl was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

KEYS in the ignition was the prelude to a stolen car complaint Monday at 1 p.m.

Gwen Russell had parked her 1965 Pontiac behind the former Sagar store at the corner of Court and North streets. When she returned, it was missing. The car is brown and white.

Two reports of stolen distributor caps in Milledgeville were filed with the Sheriff's Department Monday.

Mike Crowe discovered a theft between 11 p.m., Monday and 5 a.m. today. Margaret Joan Clickner missed the distributer cap on her car between 3 p.m. Sunday and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Grubbs of Good Hope reported at 6 p.m. Monday that a window in her home had been broken with a rock. A 10-year-old boy with a slingshot was apprehended and released to his parents.

Nineteen 8-track tapes were stolen from a car owned by Richard D. Chaffin, Jeffersonville, while it was parked at a restaurant, at 10 p.m. Sunday.

Commissioners OK road-striping work

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday morning adopted a resolution authorizing restriping of six county roads.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, informed commissioners that excessive rainfall during the past 14 months has been very damaging to the centerline markings on the county highways.

A total of 21.14 miles of road will be restriped and the estimated cost of the project is about $95 per mile, Wagner said.

The project will include West Lancaster Road, 3.28 miles; Allen Road, 5.6 miles; Marchant-Luttrell Road, 5.0 miles; Staunton-Jasper Road, from the CCC Highway to Snowhill Road, 2.56 miles; Washington-Hood Hope, 2.3 miles, and Pisgah Road, 1.0 mile.

At the request of Wagner, the commissioners agreed to inspect Jamison Road at the U.S. 35 bypass area in regard to drainage problems that have been created by construction. The inspection tour was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 29 reports for the week.

War I veterans hold conference

The Rev. and Mrs. Cloyce D. Copley, 221 Gardner Ct., accompanied by Mrs. Eunice Draper and Mrs. Nelly Kennedy, have returned from the weekend District 7 meeting of Veterans of World War 1 at Triangle Park, near Hooker, Fairfield County. The Rev. Mr. Copley is cammander of the Washington C.H. barracks and Mrs. Copley is president of the Auxiliary.

Mr. Copley presided at the meeting which was attended by approximately 60 representatives from all six barracks in the district- at Washington C.H., Columbus, Newark, Gahanna, Delaware and Lancaster.

A report of the national convention in Miami, Fla., occupied much of the business session. The Rev. and Mrs. Copley were among those at the convention.

Among the state department officers at the district meeting were Commander William E. Brown, Senior Vice Commander Jason Keller and Chief of Staff Frank Howard. They were accompanied by their wives.

The next district meeting will be held in January at the Capital City barracks in Columbus.

Light agenda for Council

Two items of legislation, both carrying emergency tags, appear on a relatively light agenda for members of Washington C.H. City Council at its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the city office building.

The Union Township Board of Trustees will meet jointly with Council at Wednesday night's meeting. Township business including a Washington Cemetery report, appears first on the agenda to be followed immediately by the regular Council meeting.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council will be considering an emergency ordinance authorizing payment to C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., for a comprehensive engineering study completed by the firm.

Council will also consider an emergency ordinance amending a city ordinance relating to the authorization and establishment of the maximum complement of police specialists within the Washington C.H. Police Department. Four city policemen — Dennis Brown, William Cales, Larry Walker and William Robinson — recently were promoted from the rank of patrolman to police specialist.

Arrests

POLICE—Monday; Larry Dale Vaughan, 18, of 835 Lakeview Ave., failure to yield; Jean Ann Tucker, 33, of 932 Millwood Ave., private warrant for disturbing the peace; Joseph N. Mullins, walkaway, released to Chillicothe VA Hospital.

Armstrong Solarian® is a floor that keeps its promise.

It shines without wax.

Here's a floor that really does shine without waxing! Homemakers from coast to coast have discovered that Solarian keeps its high gloss—without waxing—far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor can, including their neighbor's "no-wax" floors. Spills, dirt, even black heel marks come up easily, ending the drudgery of scrubbing, waxing and stripping.

Money Does Matter . . .

By A.R. Bryant

It's Really Your Most Valuable Asset — Handle With Care !!!

Nothing every really comes easy, and there are most certainly no "easy payments"

High-pressure salesmen, tempting displays and advertisements, the "small-amount-down-and-easy-payments approach — they would all have you believe it is fantastically easy to have whatever you want — but, it just isn't so!

It is cheaper to buy for cash out of income or savings, but carrying charges and interest on deferred payments can often make the total cost astronomically high.

Most of us use credit at one time or another, and most everyone does it wisely.

Used carefully, installment credit can result in improved family standards of living.

Credit is one of your most valuable assets. Use it wisely and with restraint!

Congratulations to:

Robert L. Kunz, Fayette Memorial Hospital Administrator, on being named state director of the American Academy of Medical Administration.

Steve D. Begin on being named the Record-Herald carrier of the month.

George Gibbs on being installed as president of the Washington C. H. Kiwanis Club.

Patrolmen Dennis Brown, William Robinson, Larry Walker and William Gales, members of the Washington C. H. Police Department on their promotion to the rank of police specialist.

Money matters much to us at the First National Bank of Washington Court House, but so does our concern that you have the best advice and counsel in working out the solutions to your financial needs.

Advice and guidance without cost or obligation are part of our being a complete service Bank!

Many families on the tank exchange plan really have half-soft, half-hard water.

This may be true in your home.

Many tank exchange water softeners are connected only to hot water outlets. So, while the hot water tap delivers the benefits of soft water, the cold taps are completely hard.

This means stains under the cold water taps, stains in the tubs and toilets. It means that when you take a bath, you are bathing in half-soft, half-hard water.

Worst of all, it means that when you and your daughters shampoo, your hair is stringy, dull and hard to manage.

Wouldn't you rather have a complete soft water system in both hot and cold taps for about the same as you now pay for tank-exchange?

The remarkable new Lindsey water softener is an automatic, completely modern unit that gives you all the soft water you want, out of both taps. Fully automatic means you never turn a valve, you never change a tank, and there's never a fuss or muss. Furthermore, the Lindsey is as beautiful as any appliance in your home.

The cost? You can usually rent or buy a Lindsey water softener for less than old-fashioned tank-exchange rental costs.

Please, make us prove this statement. Write, or phone. Take the first easy step toward getting rid of half-hard water in your home.

Ohio congressmen split on Nixon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than a fourth of Ohio's Congressional delegation said Monday they would support, or seriously consider, President Nixon's impeachment, expected to come up in discussion before the House today.

The Congressmen were among 11 of Ohio's 23 U.S. House members who were asked the question: "Do you advocate impeachment proceedings against President Nixon in view of the Watergate tapes developments and the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox?"

They were Reps. Charles A. Vanik, D-22, Cleveland; John F. Seiberling, Jr., D-14, Akron; Louis Stokes, D-21, Cleveland, and Charles A. Mosher, R-13, Oberlin.

Two other Republicans, Charles W. Whalen, R-3, Dayton, and Tennyson Guyer, R-4, Findlay, said they would seriously consider impeachment if sufficient evidence was presented to prove the President had violated the law.

Five other Congressmen, four of them Republicans, said they were firmly opposed to the idea. They were Reps. Ronald D. Clancy, R-2, Cincinnati; Ralph Regula, R-16, Navarre; J. William Stanton, D-20, Painesville; Samuel L. Devine, R-12, Columbus and Chalmers P. Wylie, R-15, Worthington.

Other Congressmen, many of whom were enroute to Washington for today's session, could not be reached for comment.

Seiberling, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said he will introduce a resolution today calling for an investigation of the President's actions as a prelude to impeachment.

"I'm leaning toward voting for impeachment," he said.

Republican Guyer said he would not advocate impeachment, "but I'm not going to dodge the issue either."

Asked if there were enough votes in the House to call for impeachment, Guyer said, "It's not impossible under the present climate."

"However, that's like asking a jury before the trial what the verdict will be," he cautioned. "Of course I will consider seriously the question of impeachment should such evidence warrant it," he added.

Rep. Wylie strongly opposed impeachment. "What crime has been committed?" he asked.

"I'm not going to say anything until it's been proven that the President committed a crime...It's not a crime to fire somebody," he said.

Devine said, "I know of no illegal act that would make Nixon subject to impeachment. Second, this Watergate tapes thing has been blown way out of proportion. There used to be a presumption of innocence in this country."

He added, "They couldn't beat him at the polls so they're trying to beat him another way."

In other reaction to Nixon's actions and talk of impeachment, about 160 members of United Auto Workers Local 22 at the Chrysler stamping plant at Twinsburg voted unanimously Sunday in favor of a resolution calling for Nixon to resign. The voters were among 4,500 UAW members at the plant, a union source said.

And a telephone poll conducted by a Dayton radio station WADI tallied 61 per cent of 403 callers favoring impeaching the President.

State Highway crews get set for inspection

State highway crews will be busy this week preparing for the annual fall inspection, while several projects have been scheduled by both the city and state workmen.

Eugene Fitzpatric, superintendent of the Ohio Department of Transportation in Fayette County, said the fall District 6 inspection of the department's snowplows and other equipment will be held at 9 a.m. Monday, Oct. 30. The state highway workers will be finishing painting and cleaning the equipment this week.

In addition, state highway crews will be mowing and possibly installing culvert pipes on Ohio 38 near Yatesville and on Ohio 41-N. Fitzpatric said a crane is scheduled to arrive here today for the culvert pipe installation. State Highway Department workmen are still manning an electricade (flashing arrow) at the I-71-U.S. 35 intersection where a crane collided with the overpass.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said his workers will be repairing W. Market Street from Draper Street to Oakland Avenue, in addition to picking up leaves, cleaning sewers and completing the painting job on Columbus Avenue which was started last week.

County road crews will be working on a bridge on Patton Road and resurfacing roads in Jasper Township. Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County Engineer, said the county workers will be setting the concrete beams on the Miami Trace Road bridge next Tuesday.

Cincy highway artery closed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Traffic on U.S. 42—Reading Road—will be detoured around the boundary line between suburban Reading and Evendale for the next six months.

Part of a four-lane bridge there collapsed in an eroding creek bed Saturday, police said. It will take six months to repair.

The route is an alternate to Interstate 75 and is used heavily by traffic in the industrialized Mill Creek Valley area.

Stamps In The News

For thousands of years, peoples of the earth have yearned for the quality of human rights. Yet a universal declaration of these aspirations is only a quarter of a century old.

To celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the United Nations Postal Administration will issue a new 8-cent stamp on Nov. 16. The original proclamation was adopted by the U.N. on Dec. 10, 1948.

At the bottom of the stamp is the top of the globe from which a flame, representing the burning desire of billions, emanates. At the left is a large emblem of the United Nations. The inscription reads: "25th Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights." The colors are red and orange.

Also scheduled for issuance with this stamp is the fourth in a series of souvenir cards. The card reproduces the new stamp plus nine other U. N. stamps previously issued on the theme of human rights and includes a brief statement by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

First-day covers of the new stamp may be obtained by sending envelopes with proper remittance (in money order or certified check) to United Nations Postal Administration, P.O. Box 5900, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017, prior to Nov. 16. The cards may be purchased in mint condition for $1.13. There is a five-card limit for each customer.

WEST GERMANY honors the 50th anniversary of radio broadcasting in the country with the issuance of a new 30-pfennig stamp, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The first transmitter for regular broadcasts was inaugurated on Oct. 29, 1923, at Voxhaus in Berlin. The new stamp shows the oversize receiver of that day and the famed gooseneck speaker on most sets in use a half century ago.

A 12-VALUE SET of semipostals has been issued by Nicaragua to commemorate the planning and building of that country's first children's hospital. The stamps depict important advances in the prevention and treatment of childhood diseases.

Some of the subjects shown are: immunization, good water supply, antibiotics, malaria, laboratory research, gastro-enteritis and pediatric surgery. The added values on each stamp go towards the hospital building fund.

HOW MANY STAMPS have been issued since the first Penny Black came off the presses in 1840?

You may get a variety of different answers, but Stanley Gibbons Publications of London says you would have more than 167,700. That's why they are claiming in the 39th edition of their "Stamps of the World" catalog now on the market.

The latest edition contains over 33,600 illustrations, 1,312 pages and weighs six pounds.

Rules for women teachers in 1915 listed in bulletin

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — You've come a long way baby and if you don't believe it, consider what women school teachers had to put up with in the "good old days."

In the October issue of the Cabell County Board of Education's school bulletin, the following rules of conduct were excerpted from an article in a 1915 teachers magazine:

1. You will not marry during the term of your contract.
2. You are not to keep company with men.
3. You must be home between the hours of 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless attending a school function.
4. You may not loiter downtown in ice cream stores.
5. You may not travel beyond the city limits unless you have the permission of the chairman of the board.
6. You may not ride in a carriage or automobile with any man unless he is your father or brother.
7. You may not smoke cigarettes.
8. You may not dress in bright colors.
9. You may under no circumstances dye your hair.
10. You must wear at least two petticoats.
11. Your dresses must not be any shorter than two inches above the ankle.
12. To keep the school room neat and clean, you must: sweep the floor at least once daily; scrub the floor at least once a week with hot, soapy water; clean the blackboards at least once a day; and start the fire at 7 a.m. so the room will be warm by 8 a.m.

Police investigate spaceman accident

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Police said Jackie Lee Sparks, 20, escaped serious injury Sunday when his car ran off a county road and rolled over three times. He said the mishap occurred when he swerved to avoid a man in a silver suit.

Sparks offered no other details. Police said they could not locate the uniformed man.

Rice, peanuts objects of new plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz is thinking about calling a news conference this week to announce new strategy for seeking congressional overhaul of federal rice and peanut programs, informed sources say.

The tentative plan is to announce details of the 1974 acreage programs for rice and peanuts under existing law.

In addition, the sources say, Butz is ready to unveil a plan to seek congressional permission to move those crops under the target-price support concept that will go into effect next year for wheat, feed grains and upland cotton.

Butz also wants extra-long staple cottons (ELS) included in the target-price method, the sources say.

Under the target-price system, established by Congress in the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, producers are guaranteed a relatively high price for a portion of their crop needed to meet domestic and export demands. Should the cash market price average fall below the target, government subsidies will be paid to growers to make up the difference. If market prices are higher — as they appear now for 1974 — no payments are made.

Peanuts, rice and ELS cotton are locked separately into older programs which call for what Butz and other farm officials say are unrealistically high supports and tough restraints.

In a speech to a co-op in Syracuse, N.Y., last Friday, Butz spoke of some of the limiting factors in agriculture.

"Perhaps the most frustrating of all limits are governmental restraints," he said. "We've taken most of them off the major commodities. We still have government restraints on some commodities where we don't need them anymore, like peanuts, rice and extra-long staple cotton."

Sources have said the proposal calls for a peanut target price of about $253 per ton, compared with the average national price support this year of $328.50 per ton, a boost under the old law's escalator requirement of $43.50 from $972.

The sources say rice might be proposed for a target of around $5.50 per hundredweight, compared with a 1973 price-support loan of $6.07 per 100 pounds.

Although no advance details were immediately available for ELS cotton, one source said similar adjustments would be made for it to reflect world and domestic prices.

High court nixes hearing on vo-ed schools lawsuit

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)— The Ohio Supreme Court will not consider a suit challenging state aid to vocational schools, E. Dennis Barnes, who filed the suit, said Monday.

Barnes, a member of the Upper Sandusky School Board, said he was notified by the high court that his suit was not explicit enough about why he wants next month's vote on a proposed vocational school levy off the ballot in Wyandot and Crawford counties.

Barnes contends the Ohio Constitution only permits funding of regular schools, not schools that teach skills.

He has a similar suit pending in the state court of appeals in Lima.

Marathon sets Irish meetings

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Studies are underway on the feasibility of developing a new natural gas reserve discovered in the Celtic Sea off Ireland, Marathon Oil Co. officials said Monday.

Company officials described the new find as smaller than other offshore fields scheduled for development in the North Sea.

They said they are negotiating with the Irish government to develop the pocket.

Night club thugs get 'thousands'

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Police in northern Kentucky and Cincinnati today searched for two bandits who robbed Newport's plush Beverly Hills nightclub of "thousands of dollars."

Suburban Southgate and Fort Thomas police said seven employes were bound and gagged by the ski-masked robbers. Six of the employes were struck with pistols.

The men, described as "tall and muscular" broke into the club around 5:30 a.m. Monday and captured three workmen there for remodeling.

As employes arrived, they were bound, gagged and struck if they resisted.

Bookkeeper Mrs. Charlotte Dorning, 58, said the gunmen forced her to open two safes.

"There were all the receipts taken in Sunday night. It was supposed to have been our best night ever," she said.

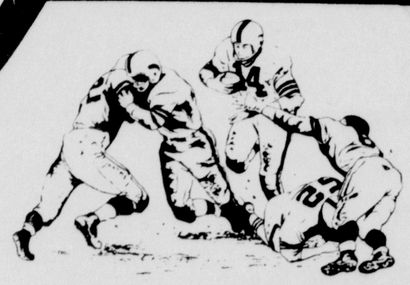

Police said the gunmen knew their way around the club and where the safes were located.

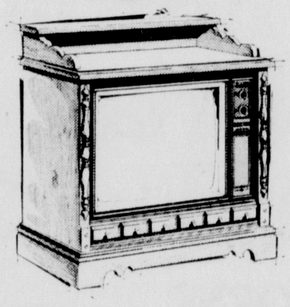

The men escaped about four hours after the break-in taking Mrs. Dorning's 1965 auto.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Your judgment somewhat "cloudy" now — especially when it comes to financial matters. Avoid any urge to speculate: Your guesses are likely to be wrong.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Under a good Venus aspect, your inventiveness is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

If you have doubts or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reasons for hesitancy.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant — and you'll gain more.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Despite a few obstacles, many benefits and new means of attainment are indicated. Especially favored: romance, travel, family interests.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some pressures possible Don't try to bluff your way out of situations but face up to them. You'll not only get better results but those in authority will be impressed.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

An analytical look at your position may indicate some new avenues to pursue. Keep an easy yet alert eye on future moves. Taper off in late hours to relax.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

If expanding operations, proceed cautiously. Consider all facets, trends. You are usually at your best when going forward, but at times you MUST stand and wait.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

This is a day in which you could fall prey to schemers if not alert. Do not be fearful, but DO make every effort to get to the truth of all matters.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Act swiftly if conditions seem right, but proceed slowly where the going is tricky and there are obstacles which cannot be overlooked.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A new surge of energy would carry you far along the road to success and recognition. But be sure of your goals. Don't go off on tangents.

YOU BORN TODAY: Your outstanding trait is perseverance, backed by dispassionate reasoning and a desire to see all things well with all peoples. You can move mountains with this ardor and faith! You abhor contention, quibbling; are generous, shrewd, do not waste tie with picayune thoughts. You are suited to positions of trust. Keep your integrity intact: You normally use fair tactics and expect the same from all. Harmony is your big keyword.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Do door-to-door salesmen have a legal right to come calling at your home? Generally speaking, they do indeed, according to the United States Supreme Court.

"The knocker on the front door," the Court has ruled, "is an invitation."

But invitations can be revoked. And one way you can revoke this particular invitation is by posting a notice saying "NO SOLICITING, PLEASE" — or words to that effect.

Any solicitor who disregards such a notice would probably be considered a trespasser. This, in turn, would reduce your chances of liability in case he happens to stumble over a stray toy or trip on a broken step.

For the duty of a householder toward a trespasser is slight. You are not required to clear away hazards on your premises, but merely to refrain from injuring him recklessly or on purpose.

What about "NO SOLICITING" signs on apartment houses? Often posted by landlords, these signs have been attacked in court as an infringement of free speech — that is, the freedom to speak directly to individual tenants.

BUT COURTS have held that this is a reasonable and lawful way for a landlord to protect his tenants from being pestered.

This does not mean, however, that the landlord has unlimited control over access to the apartments in his building. In one case, an apartment house owner forbade any and all tradesmen to enter his building. When a grocer arrived to deliver fresh vegetables to a tenant, the landlord threw him out bodily.

In short order the grocer filed suit for damages, and the landlord was held liable on grounds of assault and battery. The court said the tenant had the right of access to his own apartment, and, by ordering merchandise to be delivered, he had extended that right to the grocer.

ROME (AP) — In one year Italians make intercontinental telephone calls amounting to about 17 million minutes, the government reports. Some calls are for business, but many are personal calls to Italian emigrants abroad, particularly in the Americas.

Ohio Perspective

Random auto checks successful

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Statistics from the state highway patrol are helping convince the federal government that Ohio's random inspection of motor vehicles may be better than the mandatory annual inspection the feds proposed.

"Our death rates are much lower than those from states with the mandatory inspections," patrol Maj. Donald Manley said.

In addition, he said, Ohio gets many spin-off benefits from its inspections—drunk drivers, stolen cars and no operator's license.

Manley said he thinks the Ohio random inspection program would get federal approval within the next few weeks.

The National Highway Traffic Administration recently issued minimum federal standards for autos in an effort to force all states to adopt a mandatory inspection program.

The agency threatened to cut 10 per cent of a state's highway funds if it didn't comply.

Thirty-one state have periodic vehicle inspection programs and nine others, including Ohio, have spot or random checks.

"I think that word random first threw them," Manley said, "but I believe they were impressed after learning what our checks were all about."

Ohio has 27 inspection teams — two mechanics and a patrolman—that roam the state, setting up vehicle inspection stops.

In addition, each of the state's 1,327 highway patrolmen are on inspection duty. They can keep unsafe cars from moving until they are fixed.

"Less than 5 per cent of Ohio accidents are caused by defective vehicles," Manley said. "Speed and drinking driving cause most of them."

Mandatory inspections requiring taking the vehicle to a garage—privately owned or stateoperated—would cost more than $100 million a year and inconvenience the motorist, the Patrol feels.

Mandatory Inspections haven't worked too well in state's that have them, said Manley. They cost around $5 each for the motorist and there have been repeated charges of kickbacks for having an inspection station franchise. A regular garage customer might find it easier to get an approved sticker.

"Our job is to prevent accidents," Manley said. "we think what we are doing now accomplishes it to a better degree."

Scabies outbreak raising fears

WASHINGTON (AP) — New outbreaks of scabies, a skin disease caused by tiny mites, in cattle are raising fears that another onslaught of the malady may be approaching, according to Agriculture Department officials.

The most recent cases have been reported in Iowa, Nebraska and Indiana, according to the department's Animal and Health Inspection Service. Others have occurred in the southwest, where the disease two years ago spread quickly and prompted state and federal quarantine actions.

Dr. J.M. Hejl of the inspection service says authorities believe most of the recent scabies outbreaks in the Midwest result in cattle shipped from the Southwest. Federal quarantines still remain in effect in two counties in New Mexico and in four Texas Panhandle counties.

"There is no plan now to enlarge the federal quarantines," Hejl told a reporter Thursday. "But this needs to be watched closely, particularly over the next few months."

At one time, following the scabies outbreak in late 1971, dozens of counties were under federal quarantine as part of a control program to head off the worst outbreak of the disease in 30 years.

Those restrictions included curbs on shipment of cattle from disease areas unless they were inspected, dipped or otherwise handled to avoid spread of the mites into other areas.

Scabies is not usually a fatal disease to cattle, but it can debilitate animals quickly and result in profit losses to producers.

WCH preserves hefty AP poll lead

Marion Pleasant somersaults to fourth in Class A ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Newark Catholic replaced Marion Pleasant as the Class A high school football leader today in The Associated Press state ratings.

Pleasant's 31-8 loss to Class AA River Valley, ending Ohio's longest ever winning streak at 44 games last week somersaulted the defending small school champions to fourth place.

Meanwhile, Warren Western Reserve in Class AAA and Washington Court House in Class AA preserved impressive leads in the other two divisions.

Western Reserve, carrying a 24-game winning streak that includes seven 1973 victories, rolled up 292 points to 215 for Cincinnati Moeller, the No. 2 team again in Class AAA.

Washington Court House, which has posted seven straight shutouts this season, earned 225 points in Class AA. Minerva was second again with 199 points.

Newark Catholic, a former Class A state king, moved up from the second spot a week ago. The unbeaten Green Wave, 6-0-0, collected 210 points to 195 for runnerup Cory Rawson. Ada was third again with 164 points.

Pleasant has won the last two AP state titles as well as the first Class A playoff crown last fall.

McDonald was sixth in Class A, followed by Portsmouth Notre Dame, Sugar Grove Berne Union, Norwalk St. Paul and Kirtland. St. Paul, a former Ohio champion with a 7-0-0 start this season, was the lone newcomer to the small school top ten.

Canton McKinley, an ex-Ohio champion in Class AAA, was the lone new face among the big schools. The Bulldogs, once beaten in seven games, surged into the No. 10 spot.

Cincinnati Bacon, tenth a week ago and a 14-0 victim of Moeller, fell to 13th.

Akron Garfield again was third and Massillon fourth in Class AAA.

Zanesville was fifth, Fremont Ross sixth, Newark seventh, Barberton eighth, Youngstown Mooney ninth and McKinley No. 10.

Newark Licking Valley climbed into the Class AA tenth slot, replacing Bellaire. Bellaire, tied 0-0 by Wheeling, W. Va., Central, tumbled to a tie for 19th this week.

Cincinnati Reading was third in Class AA and then came Ironton, Dayton Jefferson, Lisbon Beaver Local, Akron St. Mary, Columbus Watterson, Cleveland Benedictine and Licking Valley.

A state-wide panel of sports writers and broadcasters conducts the ratings each week.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here's how a state-wide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school football teams this week for The Associated Press (10 points for first to 1 point for tenth):

CLASS AAA

School	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
1. Warren Western Reserve	7	0	0	292
2. Cincinnati Moeller	7	0	0	215
3. Akron Garfield	6	0	0	201
4. Massillon	6	0	1	176
5. Zanesville	7	0	0	148
6. Fremont Ross	7	0	0	137
7. Newark	7	0	0	127

Alabama pushing OSU in grid poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first nine teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today, but Alabama closed in on top-ranked Ohio State and Nebraska nosed back into the Top Ten.

Ohio State defeated Indiana 37-7 Saturday and received 35 first-place ballots and 1,126 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters who voted in this week's poll.

Runner-up Alabama earned 12 votes for the top spot and 1,042 points for a 42-21 triumph over previously unbeaten Tennessee that dropped the Vols from 10th place to 14th.

Last week, the margin was 1,113-930.

Third-place Oklahoma walloped Colorado 34-7 and picked up eight first-place votes and 953 points. Michigan trounced Wisconsin 35-6 and remained fourth with one first-place vote and 857 points.

Four voters picked Penn State No. 1 following a 49-6 rout of Syracuse and the fifth-place Nittany Lions pulled down 709 points. Southern California, the defending national champion, stayed sixth with 629 points for a 31-10 decision over Oregon.

The other first-place vote and 541 points went to No. 7 Missouri, a 13-9 victor over Oklahoma State.

Notre Dame crushed Army 62-3 and received 508 points while Louisiana State downed Kentucky 28-21 and earned 402 points.

Nebraska, ranked second two weeks ago, dropped to 11th last week after a 13-12 loss to Missouri. Saturday's 10-9 decision over Kansas lifted both teams in the ratings, Nebraska from 11th to 10th and Kansas from 18th to 17th.

Arizona State, 12th last week, climbed to 11th, followed by Houston, UCLA, Tennessee, Tulane, Miami of Ohio, Kansas, Texas Tech, Texas and Richmond.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Nebraska, Arizona State, UCLA, Houston, Miami of Florida, Colorado, Tulane, Kansas, Arizona and Miami of Ohio.

Miami of Florida dropped out with a 30-7 loss to Houston, Oklahoma knocked Colorado out and Texas Tech handed Arizona its first defeat 31-17, ousting the Wildcats.

Wildlife license price hike looms

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Wildlife has just finished the 1973 fiscal year in the red. As a result, hunters and fishermen may see an increase in their licenses in the future.

Dan Armbruster, chief of the division, said expenditures totaled $602,002 more than revenue in this fiscal year. In 1972, the division was in the black by $694,598.

Armbruster said division revenue increased from $6,810,066 in the 1972 fiscal year to $7,072,760 for the year which ended June 30.

At the same time, expenditures jumped $1,559,294, from $6,115,468 in 1972 to $7,674,762 in 1973.

Hunting and trapping license sales were about the same for the two years. Fishing license sales were up slightly.

Increases also came from federal funds and more pollution and stream litter fines.

Armbruster said the expenditures jumped in three main areas: pay raises for all state employes, inflation and the State Controlling Board's release of $1,731,446 from the Wildlife Fund for capital improvements.

More than 2,000 acres were acquired with some of the latter funds, he said.

Inflation has hit the division hard. It's printing costs alone rose 40 per cent in one year, Armbruster said.

Costs of food for birds and fish, supplies and vehicle repairs all jumped. The most drastic increase was in goose food. It went from $100 to $300 a ton.

Armbruster has not curtailed any division programs, but he's told employes to make do with what they have.

Stone for parking areas and access roads has been drastically reduced. Printing is being limited to licenses and permits, about a half dozen new lake maps and the necessary administrative forms.

Armbruster has appointed a committee to review potential sources of increased income for the division. He expects an increase in fishing and hunting license fees will be seriously considered.

At the same time, the committee has recommended several ways to reduce expenditures without hurting any of the division's basic programs. Armbruster said some of these already are in operation.

Raiders, Broncos tie, 23-23

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncos, who've died by the field goal twice this season, learned to live with it Monday night as the Jim Turner-George Blanda kicking duel ended in a standoff.

Turner's third field goal of the second half, a 35-yarder with three seconds to play, enabled Denver to salvage a 23-23 tie with the favored Oakland Raiders in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Blanda, the 46-year-old marvel, also had three successful boots, and his final one, from 49 yards out with 36 seconds left, appeared to have won it for the Raiders.

Denver had lost to San Francisco 36-34 and to Kansas City 16-14 earlier this season by fourth-quarter field goals. It looked like more of the same until Charley Johnson moved the Broncos 34 yards on three plays to the Raider 28-yard line, setting up Turner's kick.

"You can't take anything away from George's kick," Turner said, "but as soon as he hit it we felt we could get it right back."

The deadlock dropped the Raiders into a first-place tie with Kansas City in the American Conference's Western Division. Both clubs have 3-2-1 records. Denver stayed in contention with a 2-3-1 mark.

Prince Lobell wins feature at Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Prince Lobell captured his eighth win in 30 starts Monday night with a wire-to-wire fourlength victory in the featured race at Lebanon Raceway.

The conditioned pace victory paid $6.00, $3.00 and $2.40. My Shannondoah returned $2.80 and $2.60 for second. The show horse was All Ann, paying $3.20.

Jessie's Honor and Quaker Jerry, 5-1, returned $16.00 in the daily double.

A crowd of 1,293 wagered $97,519.

Advances to Miami, Fla. contest

Schlichter wins area PP&K

Art Schlichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Schlichter, Myers Rd., has advanced another step in his quest for top honors in Ford Motor Co.'s 1973 Punt, Pass & Kick Contest.

Art, who is in the eighth grade at Madison Mills, won the area competition of the PP&K for 13-year-olds Sunday at halftime of the Cincinnati Bengals and Kansas City Chiefs professional football game at Riverfront Stadium.

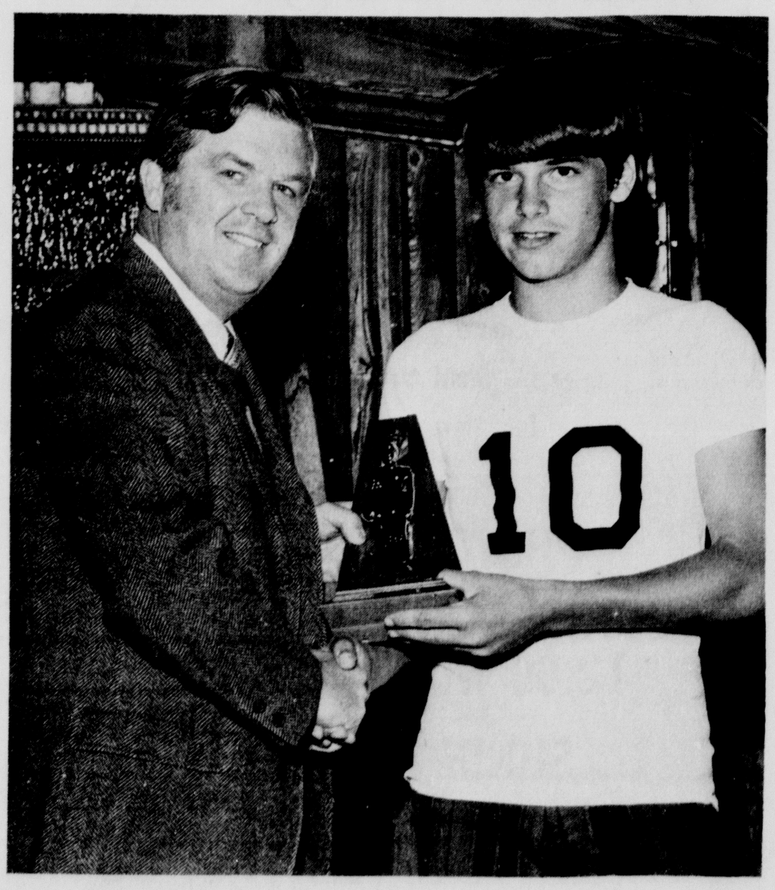

The talented athlete scored 327 points against his opponent in Sunday's competition.

THE WHOLE weekend was a very special event for the PP&K contestants. Saturday night all the contestants, parents of the contestants, Ford Motor Co. representatives and three Cincinnati Bengals players attended a banquet. The boys received autographs of the Bengal players plus talked with them.

Then Sunday was the area competition. All of the winners Sunday had there names flashed on the big multi-million dollar scoreboard at Riverfront Stadium for the fans to see.

The next step for Art will be the divisional competition Dec. 15 at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla. There he will be in a playoff before the Miami Dolphins game and the six winners will compete at halftime on nationwide television. If Art should happen to win at Miami he will then compete in the national competition for the American Football Conference at the Super Bowl in Houston, Tex., Jan. 13.

This year when the PP&K contest started there were 1,400,000 participants. After Sunday's competition, Art was one of 120 boys left competing in the United States.

PP&K WINNER — Art Schlichter, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Schlichter, Myers Rd., receives a trophy from Mike Shanks, district manager with Ford Motor Co., after he had captured honors in the district PP&K competition at Cincinnati Princeton High School. The Schlichter youth won the area competition last Sunday and will advance to divisional level Dec. 15 at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla.

Blake sparkles in Wittenberg punting chores

SPRINGFIELD — Jeff Blake came through in the clutch Saturday for Wittenberg University's unbeaten and ninth-ranked Tigers.

Blake, a junior from Miami Trace High School, stepped into big shoes as Wittenberg University's punter after the team's regular kicker suffered a knee injury.

In last Saturday's 38-0 victory over the College of Wooster, Blake had a day fit almost for a pro football kicker.

The big blond averaged 37 yards a kick under pressure from one of the best defensive lines in the Ohio Conference. Blake's longest boot was a 54-yarder that went out of sight above the press box windows giving his teammates plenty of time to get downfield and cover the return.

Wittenberg has a 6-0 record, and is fourth in the nation in scoring with a 34 points average, while the Tigers defense is fifth in the country giving up five points a game, but no touchdowns by rushing.

Bengals get ready for Steelers clash

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals, off to the best start in their six-year history, brace for Sunday's rematch with the revenge-minded Pittsburgh Steelers.

"We're playing consistently hard football," said Coach Paul Brown Monday. "How long we can keep it up is the test."

New England Whalers top Golden Blades, 4-1

BOSTON (AP) — New England Whalers' Coach Ron Ryan praised his defense, offense and goalie Monday night after his team downed the New York Golden Blades 4-1 in World Hockey Association play.

The game at Boston Garden was the only one in the WHA. There was no action in the National Hockey League.

World baseball expansion seen by Kuhn in 10 years

NEW YORK (AP) — It is October 1984. The opening game of the World Series matches the Peking Reds and the New York Yankees.

Preposterous? Not at all, says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn says he expects more major league expansion in the next few years, and he'd like to see Japanese teams in the American majors right now.

"It would certainly be possible to have a Pacific League, with American teams from the West Coast and Honolulu, Japanese teams like Tokyo and Osaka and perhaps Taiwan and Manila.

"And, can Peking be far behind?" asked the commissioner in an interview Monday. His remark was half in jest and half serious.

With improved relations between the West and Mainland China and with air travel speeds increasing all the time, there is no reason why athletic teams from the Orient could not compete regularly with Western Hemisphere teams.

Kuhn said baseball is on the verge of expansion—perhaps not immediately, but not before too long. He mentioned such cities as Toronto, Seattle, New Orleans and Mexico City as prime candidates.

"We'd like to be playing in Mexico City and Toronto right now," Kuhn said. "There is no reason why not."

Travel is virtually no problem. The flying time from Seattle to Tokyo is less than six hours. West Coast major league teams already are flying more than five hours to get to the East Coast.

Japanese baseball is very well developed and well supported. A number of American ex-major leaguers are playing for Japanese teams.

As far as is known, the sport has not been introduced in Mainland China, but Taiwan has an extensive program, and the Taiwan entry in the Little League World Series has won two straight World Titles.

Lindsey may return to Cleveland Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns reportedly have asked Dale Lindsey to come back and fill the vacancy created when middle linebacker Billy Andrews left last week for back surgery.

Lindsey was with the Browns for eight years before being cut last summer. The New Orleans Saints picked him up but released him earlier this month.

Four candidates seek two seats on city school board

Four candidates will be seeking two seats on the Washington C. H. Board of Education at the Nov. 6 election.

The terms of Fred L. Domenico, currently as the board's vice president, and Mark J. Schaeper expire. Schaeper has chosen not to seek re-election.

Domenico will be seeking re-election and will be opposed by Mrs. Kathryn G. Lee, Philip M. Morrow and John D. Wedgewood.

DOMENICO, 51, of 137 River Rd., is completing his third four-year term on the board of education. A field underwriter for the New York Life Insurance Co., he served as board president for two terms. A 1949 graduate of Ohio State University, he has been a resident of Washington C. H. the past 18 years and previously served as a teacher and head football coach here.

Domenico is a member of the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School Board and serves as chairman of the Educational Committee. He is immediate past president of the Washington C. H. Rotary Club, president of the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Community Improvement Corp. board and a member of the Ohio School Board Association. He and his wife, Ruth, have two children.

MRS. LEE, 44, of 521 E. Market St., moved here 10 years ago when her husband, Robert J., was named manager of the J. C. Penney Co., store. He is now a partner in the Fayette Supply Co.

Mrs. Lee, a graduate of Capital University, has served as a probation officer in the Erie County juvenile court, has taught Sunday School 16 years at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church where she and her family attend, presently serves as chairman of the youth ministry at the church, is a former 4-H Club leader, a Camp Fire Girl sponsor and is currently group organization chairman for the Camp Fire Girls.

She is vice president of the local adult American Field Service chapter and a substitute teacher in the local schools. Mrs. Lee is city chairman of the Community Chest drive, co-chairman of the local Humanities Council, a member of the advisory committee for the community school project and a member and past president of the Washington C. H. branch of the American Association of University Women. She and her husband have four children.

MORROW, 43, of 644 Warren Ave., has been a personnel advisor with the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division since coming here in 1961. He has been associated with Armco the past 20 years. Born in Ashland, Ky., he was raised in Middletown.

He is a former member of the Washington C. H. Jaycees, past president of the Washington C. H. Lions Club, a past president of the Belle Aire PTA, a member of the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce and serves on the Session of the First Presbyterian Church. He and his wife, Faye, have two children.

WEDGEWOOD, 28, of 1025 Dayton Ave., has been a Miami Trace School mathematics teacher since 1966. Born in Cincinnati, he is a 1966 graduate of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill. and received his master's degree in education at the University of Dayton in 1973.

He is a member of the administrative council at Grace United Methodist Church, a member of the community Drama Service Workshop and is a past president of the Miami Trace Association.

2 youths held in fatal shooting

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Two Taft High School students were shot, one fatally, in what police described as "horseplay" in a park Monday night.

Dead is Carl Ray Taylor, 16. Charles D. Helpinsteine, 14, remained in critical condition following surgery at Hamilton Mercy Hospital. Both had been shot once in the chest.

Lt. Wayne Rose, juvenile officer, said two other boys were being held. Rose said he had recovered two .22-caliber rifles near the scene after interviewing the two.

Lt. Charles Reid said a massive police search for a "sniper" was launched when the two boys in custody said they had been fired upon by gunmen who shot their companions.

The incident occurred around 6:30 p.m. in the Cliffview Outdoor Environmental Center, a 28-acre park owned by the Hamilton Board of Education.

No charges were filed immediately. The case remained under investigation.

The bodies of the two boys were found on a large concrete slab on which a recreation center had once been located.

Det. Darrell Philpot said he was playing football near the park with his two boys, and heard "half a dozen shots."

"I was about to go down there when two kids—they were dirty—came out and said 'can you help us, a couple of boys have been shot.'"

When Philpot arrived, two more shots rang out. He covered the bodies and ordered the others to crawl away. Help was summoned.

Police Chief George McNally said the last shots were fired in another part of the park and were apparently unrelated to the incident under investigation.

McNally said the nature center has long been a problem area for police.

"It is almost impossible to police," he said, "there is no road we can use and there is a small wooden bridge over Two Mile Creek which runs through it.

"We had to buy motorcycles so we could police this thing but it has been a real problem. We've had rapes, vandalism, illegal hunting,—everything in here."

Eastern Europe eyes U.S. grains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Europe, a seven-nation bloc that has been dependent upon the Soviet Union for much of its grain imports, is expected to turn more to U.S. farmers by 1980, the Agriculture Department said today.

The prediction was included in a new study by the Economic Research Service. Although Eastern Europe will need less imported grain over-all, the U.S. portion should increase from the current level, the report said.

Increased livestock production, undertaken to meet a rising demand for red meat, also will mean a larger market for U.S. soybeans and soybean meal, the report said.

Ford strike seen possible

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A United Auto Workers union leader has warned of a possible strike at the big Ford Motor Co. engine plant and foundry complex here.

Thurman Payne, acting president of United Auto Workers Local 1250, said Monday that negotiations on local issues are almost stalemated. After more than 30 bargaining sessions, he said, the union leaders "are not in a position at this point to make any report to the membership."

Payne said there are more than 100 issues yet to be resolved before a 10 a.m. Monday deadline. Even if a national agreement is reached, he said, it is possible that the 10,000 workers at the three plants may strike.

Payne said a strike at the huge engine plant complex could "tie up 68 per cent of Ford's operations across the country."

Sen. Armstrong urges support for Issue No. 1

COLUMBUS—State Sen. Harry L. Armstrong urges support of Issue 1 which will appear on the ballot this November.

The issue reads:

"Shall Section 36 of Article II of the Ohio Constitution be amended to permit agricultural land to be valued for taxation in accordance with its agricultural use?

If adopted, this amendment shall take effect January 1, 1974 and the existing section shall be repealed from such date."

At present all land must be taxed at its current market value. Recently, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled this means all real property must be taxed at its "highest and best use." This decision is causing farms near cities to be reappraised and taxed at the price they would bring if sold for industrial or commercial use, such as, a shopping center.

Sen. Armstrong said: "Around cities these high tax rates force farmers to sell their land to land developers. We can not afford to put additional burdens on our farmers. We need the produce of our farmers and we need open space near our cities."

This bill exempts only land used for agricultural purposes from the higher market value.

To do it yourself

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There are times when it doesn't pay to do it yourself, advises plumber Dominick Posca of Redding, Conn. In fact, if people would take that advice Dom could enjoy Sundays with his family. As it is, Sunday is the day when he gets most of his unusual jobs, he says, because weekends are the busiest times for do-it-yourselfers.

In Dom's words, "they start off Saturday morning buying a lot of tools to do a job, and then, watch out . . ."

"One man screwed the pressure switch on his pump way down and blew the top of the tank right off," Dom says. "The pressure is supposed to remain at 55 or 60 — tanks only go for 75 pounds per square inch. But he had it up to about 100 pounds . . ."

If he had let a plumber do it in the first place the job would have taken about 10 minutes, Dom remarked.

The main bathroom fixture is a favorite target of do-it-yourselfers. It might be a simple job like installing a new set, he remarked. One man bought about $50 worth of tools and in the end he cracked the porcelain fixture and had to have a complete new installation.

Another man decided to do what should be one of the simplest jobs — installing a new ball fitting inside the water closet. He broke the section of the pipe that goes into the wall and thereby ran up an $80 bill. If he had called a plumber in the first place the job might have been only about $30, observed Dom.

And then there is the man who brought a kitchen faucet at a do-it-yourself supply house with the idea of installing it himself. He estimated later the entire deal with tools cost him about $70. But, then, he couldn't remove the old faucet to install a new one (the faucet had been stepped on and broken when the do-it-yourselfer had been doing some kitchen cabinet work.) It took the plumber about a half hour to get the faucet off, Dom said, and he had to charge him $40, which would have been what he might have paid for the job in the first place. But the installation of the faucet actually cost the would-be-do-it-yourselfer about $125, not counting the gas to the supply house which is about a half hour from the man's town.

Dom doesn't complain that his Sundays are taken up by the do-it-yourselfers or that on hot Saturdays he may be hooking up a new washing machine for a woman with a big family. He couldn't turn them down, he says, especially since he "doesn't want to see anybody go without water." And lots of jobs involve situations where the water must be turned off.

In the true sense of his profession, Dom is an emergency worker, which many plumbers are not, these days. His boss, Trygve Hanson, has told him he will not take any more Sunday jobs if Dom says the word. But Dom continues to "feel sorry for the people."

In fact he and his helper, Sal Gradia, of Bethel, Conn., live at least a half hour away from their jobs in Wilton, but they arrive at the toughest jobs with big grins on their faces, as if they were bolstering morale. The owner may just worry "what do they know that I don't know." The answer is: plenty. Sometimes Dom gets "a big laugh" out of some of the jobs he faces — mistakes made by do-it-yourselfers, even though he is in complete sympathy with their plight. He thinks of his five-year apprenticeship necessary to become a plumber and wonders why the home owner attempts such jobs in the first place.

But the two are the first to admit they can still learn a lot. They learn "a little something on almost any job," Dom explained.

In fact there is a do-it-yourself plumbing book that both have read that has given them new insight into a lot of things. But it is written in such technical fashion, Sal remarked, that even they do not understand a lot of it. How then, can do-it-yourselfers manage with such a book, they wonder. But they suspect a lot of them own the book . . . or another like it.

Of course, somewhere, there are do-it-yourselfers who have been successful in their plumbing attempts. But as Dom says, he has little opportunity to meet them.

The island of Newfoundland is separated from the mainland by the Strait of Belle Isle, about nine miles wide at the narrowest point.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - two of hearts.

Assume you're in three notrump and West leads the deuce of hearts. You win with the ten and see there are only six tricks you can take at once.

You can try for the other three tricks in two ways. (Remember that you don't see the East-West hands.) One is to lead the queen of diamonds and finesse, in which case you make nine tricks if West has the king. The other way is to force out the ace of spades, in which case you make nine tricks provided West started with only four hearts.

Your decision is crucial. If you try the diamond finesse and it loses, you are sure to go down even if West has only four hearts (you would lose three hearts, a diamond and a spade). But if you lead a spade and West has only four hearts, you will make the contract (you would lose three hearts and a spade).

How do you decide what to do? The answer is that if West religiously leads his fourth-best card, you should attack spades and shun the diamond finesse. West, in such case, would have to pay for his zeal about fourth-best leads and you would make three notrump.

But what if West is a player who, on occasion, leads fifth best from a long suit? In that event you would have a tough decision to make and be forced to rely entirely on your instinct.

In the actual hand, South attacked spades and went down — when he could have made the contract by relying on a diamond finesse. It turned out that West, though habitually a fourth-best leader, in the present case was clever enough to realize that his partner had absolutely no values — and that only the declarer could be fooled by a fifth-best lead.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Airlines Segregating Smokers

Airlines have finally and wisely realized that the personal health and liberties of their passengers are affected by tobacco smoke in the closed confines of an airplane.

It is now possible to choose a non-smoking compartment free from exposure to the hazards of other people's smoke. Movie houses and theaters long ago have given their patrons this choice.

There are still many areas where the captive audience in trains and elevators must pay a penalty for another person's smoking indulgence.

One reader from Nevada amusingly wrote that he was unable to enjoy his game of Blackjack because everybody at his table puffed smoke directly into his face. He wanted me to suggest that certain tables be set aside for non-smokers.

He added, "What's the use of winning if I'll be too sick to enjoy my profits?" Facetious as that sounds, there is scientific validity to the fact that non-smokers are subject to health hazards when exposed to the concentrated smoke of others.

People with chronic bronchitis, emphysema or asthma are severely burdened when they are caught in a closed room filled with cigarette smoke.

Cigar smokers are a special menace of their own in a poorly ventilated room.

The fact that impurities in cigars are not nearly so hazardous as those in cigarettes does not minimize the fact that cigar smokers leave the telltale evidence of their presence long after they have left the room.

It may be impossible to convince some cigarette smokers that their health can be seriously affected by cigarettes. It is not impossible, however, to find ways to protect non-smokers from the burdens imposed on them in all public places of assembly.

Trappist monks forced off farms

CONYERS, Ga. (AP) — Trappist monks, traditionally farmers, have been forced by the American economy to get out of farming and into arts and crafts.

"We once had a thriving dairy farm, but the buildings are all empty now," said Father Paul, waving a hand at the red brick barn. "The economy forced us out of farming and out of raising pigs and chickens, too. We've diversified now, into arts and crafts."

On a chilly March day in wartime 1944, 20 monks from Gethsemane, Ky., came to this small town near Atlanta, displaced 20 cows and two mules from Honeycreek Farm and founded the Monastery of the Holy Spirit.

After the war, an influx of men joined the monastic order of Cistercian monks, one of the ancient orders of Europe. They are devoted to work and prayer and a way of life designed to prevent the world from coming between them and God.

In the quarter of a century since they arrived, they have built awe-inspiring buildings with their own hands, along the lines of the Old World cloisters of classic beauty.

When farming proved unprofitable, they turned to baking bread and selling it to supermarkets, constructing stained glass. They still raise some plants and vegetables and also own a herd of about 50 Black Angus cattle.

Farming is only one of the changes. Recent revisions of the Roman Catholic dogma have relaxed some of the austerity of the monastic life although it is still an ascetic one.

Once totally vegetarian, they now eat meat about four times a year — on festive religious occasions.

They also have a color television set and can submit requests for special programs. Usually they see educational programs only but have viewed programs such as the Apollo 11 landings.

Their rule of silence among themselves still prevails. But they now greet all visitors freely.

The community, which numbers 60, spends much of its time in prayer in a church of vaulted ceilings and magnificent stained glass. In the darkness before daylight, they are chanting the Mass.

Said one monk:

"Hear the silence. It's so quiet out here — and it always is."

Police chief shot investigating drug purchase

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Union Township Police Chief William Noland, who was shot in the head Friday night, undergoes surgery this week for removal of a slug lodged between his skull and scalp.

Shot by an unknown assailant while investigating a drug transaction, Noland never lost conciousness and drove to a hospital.

The incident took place near a Loveland bar. Noland was off duty at the time. He was shot after following two suspects out of the bar.

Investigation into the shooting is continuing by Hamilton County sheriff's deputies.

'Honk for impeachment' takes off

WASHINGTON (AP) — For two days now, the quiet tranquility of the White House lawn has been shattered by passing motorists who are responding to demonstrators' signs that read: "Honk for Impeachment."

And, at a small card table in the grassy park across from the White House, a 34-year-old registered Republican from Baltimore has already run out of her supply of 3,000 "Impeach Nixon" bumper stickers.

More than 5,000 signatures have been gathered on petitions calling for President Nixon's impeachment, say members of the ad hoc Committee to Impeach the President, a group organizing week-long demonstrations.

Police estimated some 200 demonstrators marched in front of the White House Monday.

And White House watchers say there is little doubt that President Nixon received an earful of blaring noise Monday when he strolled from the serenity of his Oval Office across the private street to his suite in the Executive Office Building.

"If he didn't hear them, he had cotton in his ears," said one presidential observer.

But, when the President made a speedy retreat to his mountain hideaway at Camp David, Md., several hours later, White House press spokesman Gerald L. Warren said it had nothing to do with the demonstrations.

Although a majority of the demonstrators were college age, there were a number of middle-age marchers. Some carried signs that read: "One down, one to go," a reference to the recent resignation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

One gray-haired, bespectacled woman from Connecticut carried a cardboard poster with the carefully printed words: "Nixon's the One — To Impeach."

"I'm a retired school teacher," she said. "I just had to come. But don't print my name. I might lose my pension."

Two Baltimore residents, Jim Goodnow and Barbara Stephens, both 34, handed out bumper stickers and collected signatures on petitions calling for the President's impeachment.

"We both voted for Nixon because he said he had a secret plan to end the war," said Goodnow, who looked more like a vaudeville M.C. in his brown searsucker suit and straw hat than a White House demonstration organizer. "Now he's got a secret plan to end the Justice Department."

Ms. Stephens, a divorcee who said she pawned her diamond ring and 44 pieces of silver to pay for the bumper stickers and petition printing, said the momentum for the demonstration started sometime Sunday.

Prayer breakfast series continues

Attendance at the weekly prayer breakfast Tuesday took a slight drop from that of the previous week when 130 students and teachers from both high schools here heard the Rev. Vic Slutz, pastor of the New Holland Church of Christ, speak during the meditation period.

Following the devotions, the group moved to Fellowship Hall for group singing led by Michelle Davis and Jane Bolender, WSHS students. Linda Hollingsworth, also a WSHS student, was the accompanist.

After breakfast David Bryan, of WSHS, spoke on "Rules for the Game of Life", and Garth Cox gave the closing prayer.

WCH Band Boosters reschedule meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Washington C. H. Band Boosters scheduled for tonight has been rescheduled for a week from today, Oct. 30, at 8 p.m. in the band room.

The conflict was due to the open house at the Senior High School, according to Claude Coulter, president of the Boosters.
